DEMO PLATFORM SAYS PEACE OUTLOOK GOOD

Mississippi Dispute May Mean Fight

ATLANTIC CITY (AP) — A dispute over whether an all-white delegation or a predominantly Negro one is entitled to represent Mississippi at the Democratic National Convention next week gets an airing today before the convention credentials committee.

The dispute, one of the hottest facing the Democrats, could erupt into a bitter floor fight Monday night when the convention opens.

Headed by David Lawrence, the 110-member credentials committee were to hear both sides of the Mississippi dispute this afternoon.

PENDING DECISION

Pending a final decision in the contested and challenged cases, the Democratic National Committee voted to omit the names of challenged delegates from the temporary roll of delegates.

This means that delegates from Mississippi, Alabama, the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico, and four alternates from Oregon, will not have their names on the temporary roll. They will have no voting rights.

However, no major voting is scheduled before the convention itself decides all contests Monday night.

ALABAMA PROBLEM

The committee also may have to wrestle with the problem of whether Alabama's delegation is entitled to be seated since that state, the home of Gov. George C. Wallace, has made the state's electors "independent Democrats," which might conflict with convention rules governing party loyalty.

In the Mississippi case a predominantly Negro group calling itself the Mississippi Freedom Democratic party is challenging the right of the regular Democratic party to cast the state's 24 convention votes.

It is a dispute which presents the Johnson administration with something of a dilemma, since the president apparently would alienate some supporters in any

Nation Told Never Had It So Good

ATLANTIC CITY, (UPI) — Democratic platform writers told the nation's voters today they never had it so good at home or were so safe from dangers overseas.

By a voice vote, the Democratic platform committee approved a document which claimed "unprecedented achievement" during the past four years of the Kennedy - Johnson administration. It said the outlook for peace was "brightening" and the nation was enjoying its "longest peacetime (economic) expansion in history."

IN TWO PARTS

The platform was being drafted in two parts. The first section, "an accounting of stewardship" of the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, was made public today.

Section two, containing the planks which the Democrats will promise to carry out in the next four years and on which President Lyndon B. Johnson will run for reelection, will be made public tomorrow.

The full platform will go to the national convention for approval Tuesday night.

The stewardship document embraced the recently passed civil rights law as "the greatest civil rights measure in history."

COMPARISON SOUGHT

The Democrats said they "welcome and seek" a comparison with the promises they made four years ago at Los Angeles when John F. Kennedy was nominated. Point by point, they took up the platform pledges of 1960 and made claims to show how they were carried out.

On the threat of war, the Democrats said this:

"We have successfully met the challenges of Berlin and Cuba, and attacks upon our naval forces on the high seas, thus decreasing the prospect of further such challenges and brightening the outlook for peace."

Without mentioning Sen. Barry Goldwater by name, it was clear that the document was aimed at charges by the GOP presidential candidate that the Democratic administrations had neglected the military strength of America.

The platform said that "on the

Johnson Sees Governors— Keeps Mum

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Lyndon B. Johnson conferred today with 30 of the nation's Democratic governors. At the same time White House aides said he planned no disclosure of his choice of a vice presidential running mate.

But the governors—most of them heading for the Atlantic City nominating convention—were alert to any hints that the chief executive might give on his selection.

The get-together was billed as a working session on federal-state relations but political speculation on Johnson's choice of a vice presidential nominee dominated private conversations of the governors.

Shortly before the meeting, Johnson spotted a newsman at a Rose Garden ceremony and asked why he wasn't at Atlantic City. When the reporter said he was working on the vice presidential story "and that's here," the president laughed and retorted: "Are you sure?"

BLAZE FROM SPARK

San Rafael Fire Marshal Kenneth Mazza probes area where children made fires for wiener roasts. In background, Sgt. Louis Foster stands near spot where three boys started the Black Canyon blaze. At first, it was a small spark. Then whoosh, the flames swept up the dry hillside. (Independent-Journal photo)

3 Boys Light Fire, Try To Snuff It Out

By WAT TAKESHITA

A 7-year-old boy and two 6-year-old companions playing with matches set the fire that blackened 340 acres of Black Canyon in San Rafael Wednesday, San Rafael Police Chief Charles J. Chiesa disclosed today.

The boys admitted yesterday in the presence of parents and investigators that they had lit a small fire, then tried to snuff it out with dirt, but it got out of hand.

The 7-year-old, who actually struck the match, fought off tears as he told the story, according to Sgt. Louis Foster, who questioned the boys. Police and probation officers were meeting this noon to determine what action if any should be taken with the youngsters.

STRUCK MATCH

Six other boys, including three sons of Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos, who managed to escape oncoming flames, were not involved at all with the fire, Chief Chiesa reported. The six were on top of the ridge when the blaze started in the canyon below.

Chief Chiesa credited Sergeant Foster, the juvenile officer, with tracking down the cause of the conflagration.

About noon Wednesday, they were playing at the oldest boy's home. They found two book matches and a couple of cigarettes and went up the hillside to the base of a waterfall, where children have lit fires and even held wiener roasts in the past.

STORY TOLD

They lit one fire and put it out. They denied smoking any cigarettes. One boy said, "Let's go over there." This was under a bay tree. The 7-year-old struck a match and started a small fire. He then threw the book of matches into the flames, and the fire got brighter.

All three tried to put it out by tossing handfuls of dirt and rocks onto it.

Ironically, it was their attempt to put it out that really got the fire started, Sergeant Foster explained. "In that area, you just can't pick up a handful of dirt without grabbing a handful of bay leaves," said Foster. He said the leaves probably fed the flames.

The three boys ran home and yelled to their parents, "There's smoke up there!" The mothers called the fire department.

"I think it was entirely accidental," said Sergeant Foster. "Not only these youngsters, but the others including teen-agers go up there to build fires for wiener roasts."

Over 100 New Laws On Books For California

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — More than 100 new state laws become effective today, including measures to cause widespread school district unifications, grant salary increases to top state employers and create a poverty stricken State Office of Tourism.

The new laws are products of the 1964 Legislature, which adjourned its budget session May 23. State law requires that legislative acts, except those voted into the "emergency" category, wait 90 days to become effective.

Emergency measures became effective upon the governor's signing and included the 3.65-billion-dollar budget for 1964-65. In all, the Legislature passed and the governor signed 151 new laws.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown ranked the school bill by Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh second in importance to enactment of the budget. The Unruh bill grants the schools an additional 171 million dollars in state aid over the next two years, bringing the annual rate of support to more than one billion dollars.

However, much of the extra

Hurricane Is Now A Vicious Storm

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Cleo grew into a vicious storm today and headed toward Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands with winds up to 115 miles per hour.

At midday, the first hurricane of the season was about 375 miles east - southeast of San Juan, and 1,450 miles in the same direction from Miami.

Hurricane warnings flew over Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands and continued in effect for all the Leeward Islands and included Dominica, at the southern end of the Leeward Islands.

Gale warnings extended south to St. Lucia, in the Windward Islands and a hurricane watch went into effect at noon for Haiti and the Dominican Republic.

"Hurricane Cleo has intensified during the past several hours and is a small but dangerous hurricane," the San Juan Weather Bureau said.

Hurricane-force winds extend out 40 miles from the center in all directions, with gale-force winds 150 miles to the northeast and 100 miles to the southwest.

Residents of Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands were warned to take "immediate precautions" for the protection of life and property against hurricane winds, dangerously high tides, torrential rains, floods and pounding surf on exposed beaches.

If Cleo maintains its present course and speed, the center will pass about 40 miles south of St. Croix, V.I., shortly after midnight and within 20 miles of the south coast of Puerto Rico tomorrow morning.

Paris Planning To Whoop It Up Big

PARIS (UPI)—Parisians pulled out all the stops today to launch a gay four-day spree commemorating the 20th anniversary of their flag-decked city's liberation from four years of German occupation in World War II.

President Charles de Gaulle will preside over the climax of the celebrations Tuesday afternoon and deliver a speech from the balcony of the Paris Hotel de Ville (city hall).

Paris was liberated 20 years ago by troops of the Second Free French armored division and the United States Fourth Infantry Division of the First U.S. Army after a five-day insurrection by resistance forces inside the city.

Segni Holding Own

ROME (AP) — President Antonio Segni was reported holding his own today in his grave illness following a cerebral stroke Aug. 7.

Patrols Continue In Black Canyon

Patrols of the fire-devastated Black Canyon area continued today.

The Marin County Fire Department decreased the number of people on the scene, but four men, with a Jeep and portable two-way radios, continued to keep watch lest there be a new outbreak of the blaze which blackened 340 acres of brush and trees in a 24-hour period Wednesday and Thursday.

Firemen said a few spots inside the already burned area flared up yesterday, but these presented no threat.

Mrs. Kennedy Won't Attend Film On JFK

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy has decided not to go to Convention Hall when Democratic delegates pay tribute to the memory of the late president because of the painful memories it would recall.

The former first lady has been invited to sit in the presidential box with Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson Thursday night when a 22-minute film about Kennedy will be shown to the delegates.

White House aides said Mrs. Johnson talked to Mrs. Kennedy by phone yesterday. They said the president's widow "felt she could not watch" the movie of her husband's life with the last scenes showing him with his children.

"She is still in mourning," the aides said.

However, Mrs. Kennedy will be in Atlantic City Thursday to attend a reception given by Undersecretary of State and Mrs. Averell Harriman "to thank the delegates who supported" Kennedy at the 1960 convention.

Four Persons Hurt In Highway Smashup

Four persons were injured when a northbound car skidded into the southbound lanes of Highway 101, just south of San Rafael, at 12:40 a.m. today, after an apparent blowout.

The California Highway Patrol reported that a car driven by Samuel M. Williams, 21, of 1825 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, skidded across the center divider and collided with a car driven by Paul Deutsch, 18, of Sonoma.

CHP officers were unable to obtain a statement from Williams who was unconscious, but apparently a rear tire blew out on his car. The right side of Williams' car collided with the front end of Deutsch's car.

Williams, who was thrown from his car by the impact, suffered a fractured right arm and head injuries. He was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital.

Deutsch, who suffered an injured wrist and right knee, was treated at Marin General and sent home.

Two passengers in Deutsch's car also were injured. Pamela Alstrand, 13, of Burlington, Wash., who suffered facial cuts and an injured left arm, and Mary Jane Gifford, 17, of 129 Alta Vista Avenue, Mill Valley, who suffered multiple bruises and facial cuts, were reported in good condition at the hospital today.

Castro Soldiers Killed By Guerrilla Forces

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Anti-Castro guerrilas are engaged in active fighting in the rugged Escambray Mountains of south-central Cuba, a Cuban exile organization said today.

A spokesman for Sentinels of Freedom said 12 Castro militiamen were killed and numerous others injured by a guerrilla force in one of two small battles July 12.

Big Roadside Rest Area To Be Built Near Bridge

Southbound tourists will be able to combine a refreshing pause with a spectacular view of San Francisco, before they cross the Golden Gate and plunge into the city's confines, state highway officials announced yesterday.

A "large" roadside rest area will be built on the west side of Highway 101, north of the Gate span, according to State Highway Engineer J. C. Womack.

The rest area will be offered primarily for map inspection and orientation, the state official said. In addition, it will feature a footpath passing under the bridge approach, connecting to Vista Point—which up to now could be used only by northbound travellers.

The new rest area is provided for in the current state highway budget, as one of 30 to be built in the near future. Sixteen similar rest areas already are in operation; the state plans to open about 25 rest areas a year until some 250 of them are available to travellers. The seven or eight-year program is expected to cost about $800,000 annually.

Most rest areas in the "large" category—such as the Golden Gate facility—will offer parking spaces for 20 to 30 cars and four to six trucks, sanitary facilities and a few picnic tables.

Whether the Marin County facility will be that extensive is not indicated in the reports from Sacramento.

Wife Goes Free In Hired-Killer Trial

SAN JOSE (AP) — A young wife was free today after a jury acquitted her of charges she tried to hire someone to kill her husband.

Her husband hired the lawyer and retained two psychiatrists as defense witnesses.

It was her first day of freedom since her arrest May 12 after a friend of her first husband took a hand-written one-paragraph note to the district attorney's office.

Investigator Horace Boydston testified the note was a contract to kill Wilson and was written by his wife. Boydston said he posed as the prospective killer and that Mrs. Wilson was willing to go through with the deal.

The defense said the plot was a hoax and that Mrs. Wilson was "highly suggestible, inmature and easily led."

A jury of two women and 10 men deliberated two hours, 15 minutes.

Restored Hand Has Almost Complete Function Again

NEW YORK (UPI)—Two years ago, Porfirio Dominguez's hand was chopped off by a meat cleaver in a grocery accident.

Yesterday doctors at Kings County Hospital reported he had regained "almost complete return of function" to the limb.

At the same time, the doctor said the restoration operation on Jackie Mendoza, whose arm was torn off by the wheels of a subway train July 11, was "looking good."

But the success of an operation on a third youth, James Billy, whose hand was cut off in a gang fight, had only a "40-60" chance, they said.

Billy, 15, was attacked four blocks from his home in the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn. Doctors said the tips of his fingers on his restored left hand have become gangrenous since the operation two weeks ago. But they had hopes of saving part of the limb.

Dominguez, 33, was operated on under the hospital's "trauma service." After the operation, the hospital said it would try to save all extremities amputated in accidents.

There are believed to be only two cases in the world of completely successful restorations of severed limbs.

Mendoza, 28, received 42 pints of blood and 21 pints of blood plasma during the restoration efforts on his arm.

Book Tries To Steer Industry Toward State

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state yesterday unveiled an 86-page softbound book designed to steer industry toward California.

"California Profit Opportunities" will be given to executives of 2,500 companies which have expressed interest in locating in the state, the economic development agency said.

"Other states have literature," said editor Lewis Holland, agency commissioner, "but no state has even attempted to match this."

The book, produced over 13 months, contains 43 color photographs and 16 maps and covers historic background of the state, economics, markets, resources and cultural environment.

"The book is needed particularly at this time because of defense spending cutbacks," Holland said. "There is a tremendous amount of competition for big business."

The book will retail for $5.

PASADENA (UPI)—The California Institute of Technology last night reported an earthquake, strong enough to cause damage in a populated area, probably centered in Baja California, Mexico. Bolivia Breaks With Cuba

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — The Bolivian government has broken relations with Cuba, thus tightening the hemispheric boycott of Fidel Castro's regime. Only two nations, Uruguay and Mexico, still have ties with Havana.

The Bolivian break was announced last night and was taken under the sanctions voted against Cuba by the Organization of American States in Washington last month.

The government of President Victor Paz Estenssoro braced for possible leftists reaction.

Captured Pilot Gets Word Home

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The wife of a Navy pilot held prisoner by Laotian Communists says her husband "has asked me to consider this merely an extended tour of duty."

Mrs. Charles E. Klusman showed newsmen a packet of eight letters yesterday she received from the 30-year-old Navy lieutenant.

In one letter he jibbed: "The other day I was given a pack of playing cards. However, true to form, I am having lousy luck. I haven't won a single game of solitaire."

Mrs. Klusman

Klusman's wife, Sarah, 30, said she received the dog-earred letters Wednesday.

"I am being kept in a hut that is 12 feet by 20 feet," he wrote, "and it has mud walls and a thatch roof, which I just found out happens to leak. It has just started to rain."

Klusman said he was receiving medical treatment for the knee he wrenched after bailing out of an RF-8A Crusader jet, which was brought down by anti-aircraft fire June 21.

Brothers Die In Refrigerator

ISLAND PARK, N. Y. (AP) — An abandoned refrigerator yielded the bodies of two young brothers last night.

"As soon as I saw that refrigerator, I got this strange feeling," said Patrolman Robert Halvorsen.

The refrigerator was in the family's garage.

George Mayerhofer, 7, and his brother, Joseph, 5, had suffocated. Their bodies were covered with scratches, indicating they fought to get out after the door clicked shut and they realized they were trapped.

Radioactive Scare

NEW YORK (AP) — A truck carrying radioactive materials collided with an automobile in Upper Manhattan today, releasing what police called a "slight amount" of radioactivity into the air. Police said the amount released was not dangerous, but emergency service patrolmen moved into the cordoned-off area with Geiger counters to keep a constant check on the level of radiation.

Belli said yesterday that the convicted slayer of Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy, has pulled out tufts of hair on his balding head and legs. Belli said his former client lives in constant fear he will be killed. "The poor guy is gone. There isn't any question about it."

Congolese Win Major Victory

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP)—The Congolese army has won a major victory that may provide Premier Moise Tshombe's struggling government with a psychological boost in its fight against Communist-backed insurgents.

The government had control today of the heavily damaged northeastern City of Bukayu after a three-day battle that left at least 300 dead, including perhaps seven Europeans. Tough ex-Katangan gendarmes, airlifted in U.S. transport planes, joined Congolese troops in scattering the rebels and regaining control of the capital of Kivu Province.

In Washington, the State Department said today that three Americans reported missing were alive and well in neighboring Rwanda. Details were lacking but officials said this information had been received from the U.S. Embassy in Kigali, Rwanda.

The battle marked the army's first key military success in months after repeated rebel advances. It enabled the central government to maintain at least a toehold in the eastern Congo, where rebels control the big cities of Albertville and Stanleyville.

The rebels retreated westward Friday toward Shabunda in the face of a fierce Congolese counterattack. Col. Leonard Mulamba's 800 troops, reinforced with 150 gendarmes flown from Leopoldville, struck back Thursday night.

Two U.S.-made T-28 planes equipped with machine guns and rockets pounded rebel positions. They were reportedly flown by anti-Castro Cuban exiles.

The rebel tribesmen stormed the city Wednesday and pushed the army back. Then the tide turned and the rebels fled.

U.S. officials had not given up hope for the missing Americans, Vice Consul Lewis R. MacFarlane, 25, of Seattle, Wash., and Col. William A. Dodds, 50, and Lt. Col. Donald V. Rattan, 39, of Alexandria, Va., members of the U.S. military mission to the Congo.

STATUE EVOKES MEMORIES

Vacationing strollers along Atlantic City's famed boardwalk were reminded that it was exactly nine months ago today that President John F. Kennedy was assassinated, as a bust of the late leader was installed outside the city's Convention Hall. On Monday, the Democratic party will open its quadrennial convention in the hall, to nominate President Lyndon B. Johnson and to select a vice presidential candidate. (AP Wirephoto)

Barry Headquarters Opens In County

An orderly crowd of about 200 attended the opening of Marin headquarters for GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater last night in San Rafael.

"I would say there were a couple hundred people who came through," said William O. Weissich, county chairman for Goldwater. "We served Gold Water and other refreshments and received campaign donations which were gratifying." State Sen. John F. McCarthy and Assemblyman William T. Bagley did not attend.

The headquarters is at 1336 Fourth Street where the Cottage Book Shop was formerly located. It will be open six days a week, from about 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and on nights that stores are open.

Contrary to reports released yesterday, Weissich said that Town Halls for Goldwater units in Southern Marin are independent, non-partisan units that have no connection with Republicans or Citizens for Goldwater. Town Halls for Goldwater in Tiburon, Sausalito, and Mill Valley will continue their names and activities to round up support for Goldwater in their respective communities.

The new Goldwater office in the Terra Linda Shopping Center will operate under the direction of the San Rafael Citizens for Goldwater headquarters. The Terra Linda office opened today.

battlefield of the cold war, one engagement after another has been fought and won."

The writers then listed these cold war "victories":

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev "caved in" on Cuba after President Kennedy ordered a "strict quarantine" of the Caribbean island during the 1962 missile crisis;

Khrushchev has had to "back down" on his threat to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany;

Communist efforts to win Africa have failed—not one of the 31 nations formed since World War II has chosen communism.

On Vietnam, the stewardship document merely said that President Johnson, faced with sudden unprovoked attacks by Communist PT boats on American destroyers, had ordered a "sharp, immediate retaliation." It did not go into the squabble between Johnson and Goldwater over whether the president's orders could have been interpreted to include use of nuclear weapons.

On the issues of national security and arms control, the Democratic and Republican platforms were so different they seemed to be talking about different countries instead of the same America.

The Democrats claimed that they had fulfilled their pledge to create such deterrent military power that both Soviet Russia and Communist China could be destroyed if they ever attacked the United States.

But the Republican platform had charged that the Kennedy and Johnson administrations had delayed research and development in advanced weapons system so that, as the GOP put it, the American people are confronted "with a fearsome possibility that Soviet advances, in the decade of the 1970s, may surpass America's present lead."

The Democratic platform hailed the nuclear test ban treaty as a historic first step on the difficult road to arms control, reached after careful negotiations and with steps taken to insure the effectiveness of U.S. nuclear development.

The Republicans charged in their platform that the Democratic administration "had sought accommodations with communism without adequate safeguards and compensating gains for freedom."

On national defense, the Democratic document claimed that since January, 1961, this nation's stockpile of nuclear warheads has increased 150 per cent along with a 200 per cent increase in the nuclear megatonnage available to the Strategic Air Command.

Tactical nuclear strength in Western Europe has increased 60 per cent during the same period and the number of combat-ready Army divisions has increased 45 per cent, the platform added.

There has been a 75 per cent increase in airlift capability and a 100 per cent increase in ship construction, it said.

To show how the nation's capability of waging war had become more flexible, the document pointed to an 800 per cent increase in the special forces trained to deal with counter-insurgency.

On civil rights, the Democrats said that the efforts of the administration to provide "full and equal civil rights for all Americans have never relaxed."

The stewardship document referred to the new civil rights law as a "high point of achievement" of the administration effort and a "landmark of our democracy."

Baby Found Suffocated In His Crib

An eight-month-old San Rafael boy, found lying face down on a piece of thin, plastic food wrapper, died of suffocation in his crib yesterday.

The victim was Benjamin Edwin Butler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald E. Butler of 12 West Street.

A pathology report revealed today that the baby died of suffocation by vomiting, but the wrapper was considered the contributing cause.

The wrapper apparently was playfully tossed into his crib while he was napping.

Asst. Coroner William C. Bradley reported that the older Butler children had been playing around the crib with a piece of a wrapper from a roll. The wrapper got into the crib and the sleeping baby rolled over face down into it, he said.

Mrs. Butler told San Rafael police that she put the baby down for a nap at 2:15 p.m. and when she went to check at 3 p.m., he was lying face down on the wrapper and not breathing.

Efforts by Dr. Arthur R. Ablin of Greenbrae, the San Rafael Fire Department resuscitator crew and San Rafael Police Officer Gerald Souza failed to revive the baby.

Mrs. Butler told police she felt that the plastic probably was thrown into the crib by one of her older children, 18 months and two-and-a-half.

Bradley said that Dr. Ablin believed that the baby probably had died before his arrival.

Private funeral services will be held Monday at Williams Mortuary, San Rafael.

ELEGANT BADGE FOR LBJ

Penny Reinsch of Atlanta, Ga., daughter of Democratic National Committee executive director J. L. Reinsch, holds up the special badge which will be presented to President Lyndon B. Johnson when he arrives at the convention in Atlantic City. Customarily, various bars and medallions on beribboned insignia designate wearer's rank in the party—and naturally, the President's will be about as ornate as they come. (AP Wirephoto)

Senior Citizens Celebrate Manny Charnow's Birthday

More than 300 Marin senior citizens toured Hamilton Air Force Base yesterday as part of a party celebrating the 80th birthday of "Mr. Senior Citizen," Manny Charnow.

The event was climaxed by lunch at the non-commissioned officer's club. New Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner was master of ceremonies at the lunch, attended by Assemblyman William Bagley, Chairman William A. Gnoss and George Ludy of the county board of supervisors, San Rafael mayor John F. McInnis and other area notables. Mrs. Charnow, their son, Jack, and a nephew from New York attended the party.

Charnow was presented with gifts by Leland March, president of the Marin Senior Citizens, Inc. and Tony Franklin, president of the Novato Senior Citizens Assn.

Following the luncheon, guests attended a film showing and program in the base theater. Lawrence Weissberg was sponsor for the birthday fete.

Pickup Truck Rams Bridge; Driver Hurt

A pickup truck, towing another car, rammed the Warner Creek Bridge in Novato yesterday afternoon and sent the driver to the hospital with multiple cuts and bruises.

Michael Andrew Patterson, 17, of 80 Sierra Vista, Novato, was in Novato General Hospital this morning in "good" condition. He was driving a 1964 pickup and towing a 1956 sedan operated by Kenneth Joseph Butler, 20, of 767 McClay Road. Both work for Dervin Ford Co. in Novato.

Officer R. R. Courier, who investigated, said Butler's car flipped, but he managed to crawl out unhurt.

The mishap occurred at 1570 South Novato Boulevard about 3:30 yesterday afternoon.

Police said Patterson apparently swerved to avoid another car, and his pickup hit the bridge abutment.

Gem Case Lawyer Given Probation

San Francisco attorney Ralph R. Rubin, 47, who pleaded guilty July 10 to receiving $200,000 worth of stolen jewels from the Sausalito mansion of William A. Pomeroy, was sentenced to five years probation Friday by San Franicsco Superior Court Judge Harry J. Neubarth.

Rubin was arrested May 8 by San Francisco Police inspectors in the office of an insurance adjuster when he tried to sell $50,000 worth of the jewels for $30,000. The gems were taken from Pomeroy's home 20 months ago.

District Atty. Says Gunshot Accidental

A Terra Linda salesman, whose .45 caliber automatic injured his wife and their son during a Muir Beach outing two weeks ago, will not be prosecuted in court.

The felony assault charge against Arlin E. Stockburger Jr., 46, was dismissed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on the recommendation of the district attorney. Stockburger is the son of a former state finance director. A plumbing supplies salesman, he lives at 889 Las Pavadas Avenue.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Donald E. Paterson Jr. said he talked to both Stockburger and his wife Pauline, and "it is quite apparent that it was an accident."

On the evening of Aug. 8, the Stockburgers and their 10-year-old son, Arlin E. Stockburger III, were getting into their sleeping bags at Muir Beach.

Stockburger's automatic went off. The bullet struck his wife in both thighs, and his son received a bruise on the right shoulder.

Driver Booked For Refusing To Sign Citation

A 25-year-old San Anselmo man cited for speeding along the Miracle Mile at the west end of San Rafael at 9:45 p.m. yesterday faces additional charges of resisting arrest and failure to give written promise to appear in court.

San Rafael police reported that Robert Louis French of 1251 Butterfield Road was halted along the Miracle Mile after allegedly driving at excessive speed.

Officer Gary K. Walter reported that when he cited French for speeding, French refused to sign the notice to appear.

Walter said that French also resisted arrest. Officers Walter and Bernie Del Santo of the San Anselmo Police Department subdued French who was taken to the county jail for booking.

LAWS

aid will be disbursed through a system of rewards and penalties that aims at causing widespread unifications among California's nearly 1,600 local districts.

Representatives of small school districts attempted to prevent the measure from becoming law through the referendum process. But they failed to get enough signatures on their petitions.

The salary increases will go to high level, non-civil service officials, such as department heads and commission members. Raises will also go to all judges in the state.

In addition, the Legislature decreed pay boosts for statewide elective officials, except the governor. However, these will not become effective until the start of new terms in 1967, when the lieutenant governor, controller, treasurer, secretary of state and superintendent of public instruction begin drawing $25,000 annually.

Currently, the first three draw $22,050 and the other two $21,500.

Lawmakers grudgingly approved a $150,000 appropriation for its office, but only after removing the first year of operation. Now, it's up to the governor, who wanted the new office, to find funds for its task of supplementing private and regional efforts to boost the state's tourist business.

Other major new laws will:

Increase the state's share of royalties from Long Beach tidelands oil from 50 to 85 per cent, dropping the city's share to 15 per cent.

Reduce or eliminate state income taxes for about one million low wage earners at a cost to the state of 2.7 million dollars annually.

Permit judges to retire at age 60 instead of 65.

Creates a state counseling service for agencies wanting to construct farm labor housing.

Tightens regulaations for savings and loan companies.

Among the new laws were several that become effective at later dates, such as the moderate billboard control bill that takes effect in 1965. The measure prohibits billboards from within 660 feet of federal interstate highways.

Judge Brusatori In 'Very Good' Condition

Marin Superior Court Judge N. Charles Brusatori was reported as doing "very well" today at San Rafael General Hospital, where he has been since suffering a coronary occlusion Aug. 9.

Judge Brusatori has shown some improvement in recent days, nurses said.

solution.

There have been threats of a walkout by some Southern delegations if the convention seats the Freedom Party group and excludes the regular party group.

One suggestion is that both groups be seated and each group be given 12 votes.

However, Gov. Paul Johnson of Mississippi, while not a member of the all-white delegation, has indicated that such a compromise would not be satisfactory.

Delegates Backed By Marinites

The Marin County Committee to Elect President Johnson today asked Governor Edmund G. Brown to back the seating of Mississippi's Freedom delegates at the national convention which opens Monday in Atlantic City.

The committee met this morning in San Rafael and sent this telegram to Governor Brown:

"The Marin Committee to Elect President Johnson urges the California delegation to stand firm for seating of Mississippi's Freedom delegates. Keep our party on the side of racial justice." It was signed by Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. and the Rev. Wesley Baker, co-chairman for Johnson.

The Marin group also elected Jules Becker of Ross as special events chairman, and named Thomas Skornia of Mill Valley as co-chairman of the speakers bureau. Co-chairmen with Skornia are Arthur Brown of Marin City and John Cascone of San Rafael.

Hub Planners Meeting Set

Only five minor matters are on the agenda for Monday evening's meeting of the San Anselmo City Planning Commission.

Charles Lavaroni has applied for revision of lot lines on property at Hampton Avenue and Alderny Road.

Assessment Unit Voted By Council

Corte Madera Town Council passed a number of resolutions establishing the Upper Stetson Avenue Assessment District, in a special meeting yesterday.

One representative of the neighborhood property owners, the engineer of works for the street improvement project and the town attorney and treasurer appeared. At Monday's meeting, the council indicated it would prefer setting up the district under the "1911" assessment district act rather than the 1915 act earlier proposed.

Last night's special meeting was held after the town attorney, Sherrod S. Davis prepared the necessary changes in the documents.

Before the special meeting, councilmen held an informal consultation with Davis on negotiations for the Mahood property, which the town hopes to purchase as the site for a public safety building. A bond issue for the construction was approved in April, but the town has been unable to reach a settlement on the purchase price.

Two Missing Boys Found At Playland

San Anselmo police canceled a statewide alert for two missing boys yesterday, after their mother found them at San Francisco's Playland at the beach.

The boys, ages 11 and 9, left home Wednesday morning, apparently because the older one had been disciplined by the parents. Police reported the youngsters said they slept in Golden Gate Park during their escapade.

Women Will Play Important Roles At Demo Conclave

ATLANTIC CITY (UPI)—More than 800 women will play important roles in next week's Democratic National Convention, but one coming as an honored guest is likely to stand above them all.

She is Mrs. John F. Kennedy. The widow of President Kennedy has been invited to sit in the presidential box with the First Lady when President Johnson makes his acceptance speech Thursday.

Mrs. Kennedy's appearance is expected to be the emotional peak of a day that runs the gamut from a memorial tribute to her late husband to the celebration of Johnson's nomination on his 56th birthday.

The tribute will include the showing to the hushed convention of a 20-minute biographical film of Kennedy, including a sequence with his children, Caroline and John Jr.

The 5,000 delegates have been invited to pay their respects to Mrs. Kennedy at a reception at the Deauville hotel, where actor Fredric March and his wife, will read excerpts from Kennedy's favorite quotations.

Seven women have been tapped for top jobs at the convention, and hundreds of others will mix parties and politics. Altogether, there will be 396 delegates and 435 alternates from the distaff side.

The women in the political spotlight included here are Mrs. Ella Grasso, Connecticut secretary of state, who is co-chairman of the platform committee. Another holding a key job is Mrs. Mildred Larson, national committeewoman from Arizona, who is co-chairman of the rules committee.

Other females in teh top strata are Mrs. Burton M. (Geri) Joseph, national committeewoman from Minnesota, chairman of the committee on permanent organizations, and Mrs. Constance Motley, a New York state senator and secretary of the committee on permanent organization.

For the sixth time, Mrs. Dorothy Vredenburg Bush, formerly of Alabama and now a resident of Ohio, will be permanent secretary of the convention and will call the roll of states. She is the wife of interstate commerce commissioner John Bush.

Other leading women at the convention are Mrs. Ruth Russell, democratic national committeewoman from Tennessee, secretary of the platform committee, and Dr. Mildred Otenasek, national committeewoman from Maryland, secretary of the committee on credentials.

Mrs. Margaret Price, vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and Mrs. Mrs. Richard J. Hughes, wife of the New Jersey governor, gave a party last night for the 48 women serving on the platform committee.

During the first three days of the convention, the Democrats, will hold panel discussions on "women's challenge in the great society." Twelve women will participate, with Sen. Frank Church, Idaho, acting as moderator for the Monday session on "Peace," Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz as moderator for Tuesday's panel on "Prosperity" and Sen. Pierre Salinger, California, leading Wednesday's panel on "Political Participation."

On the social side, hostess Perle Mesta has invited conventioneers to a series of five parties, starting Sunday night. Each will include a buffet dinner, starting at 6 p.m. before the convention session, except Wednesday night when she will give a "small dance" at 11 p.m.

Bedtime Yarns Are Now Automated

NEW YORK (UPI) — How effective are your bedtime stories when your little rascals are scheduled to fall asleep but don't?

If you need help or run out of patience, tell your yarns to a tape recorder.

"Mothers have discovered that tape recorders can be handy assistants at such times," says Thomas W. Lentz.

The latest recorders use tape that is encased in a plastic cartridge. Not even an ingenious two-year-old can fiddle with it.

The tape recorder automatically turns itself off.

Drum-Type Lining Suggested To Avoid That Baggy Look

By EUNICE FARMER

I am an avid knitting fan, but can't resist reading your wonderful hints on sewing. I am hoping you can tell me just what kind of lining to use in a knitted skirt to avoid that baggy look.

Mrs. P. E.

Dear Mrs. P. E.:

You will find very little lining in most knitted garments, probably because the lining won't keep the shape entirely. As a lining, I would suggest a firm, light-weight silk; a drum-type lining would be best.

The most successful knit skirts we have found, have been worn over a taffeta-type slip. This will not give in any way and will probably control the give in the knit more than anything else. Try it!

KNIT NOTES

When knitting sweaters with many contrasting colors, add a little vinegar in the cool water you use before blocking. This will help make the colors fast. Always remember to roll your sweaters in terry cloth towels immediately after washing to remove all the excess moisture before patting into place. This will also keep the colors from running into each other.

Why does a dress with raglan sleeves take more material than one with set-in sleeves?

Mrs. G. E. M.

Because of the extra width of a raglan sleeves, the bodice cannot be cut on some width fabrics at all unless there is a seam at the center front. If your fabric is a one-way fabric because of pattern or texture, the front and back cannot be interlocked with cutting. Again, you will need extra fabric.

If the fabric you are using is very expensive, it would pay to see exactly how much fabric you will need by placing the pattern pieces on a piece of paper the exact width of your fabric. In some cases, it would be better to choose a different pattern with less waste.

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

When making a coordinated suit, which may have several changes that can be interchanged, I have found a way to give it a more professional look with a quick change of buttons on the jacket.

Make a slip cover for your flat buttons. Cut a circle of fabric slightly larger than the button, turn under and stitch a small hem. Hand-stitch with elastic thread, around the circle, drawing up the thread until it looks like a rosette. These will slip over the buttons easily and presto, the buttons can be changed as quickly as a blouse.

Miss Ida Guarda, Torrington, Conn. is this week's winner of a Tailor Trix Pressing Board for this suggestion.

I have so much cotton lace left from summer clothes. Can I use this in any way for fall or is it definitely a summer material?

Mrs. R. T.

Your question was very appropriate and I think I can give many of you ideas for those extra scraps of lace you have left over. You can make many types of collars, vest-type fronts, ruffled cuffs, etc. These are so wonderful because they can change plain corduroy, cotton prints, plaids or solid colors into party dresses. And what little girl doesn't love to dress up? I would suggest making these collars detachable.

Since most party dresses don't get worn enough to wear out before they are outgrown, here's another suggestion. Rip the hem out of a dress that is too short, fold it back (right sides together), and sew a scalloped edge. Clip, turn and press the hem flat.

Make a separate skirt out of left over lace, and attach it to the upper hem of the dress itself. Some of the newest dresses of the season are made this way.

With school clothes being altered, perhaps you can use my free leaflet "Cuffing Trousers" or "Tapering Slacks." Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request for them to Sew Simple, Independent-Journal.

Tender Care

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — That head of iceberg lettuce on the produce counter every day of the year is hand picked and trimmed.

The Western Growers Assn. here reports that it requires 13 minutes for one man to pack a carton with two dozen heads.

Advice Helps The Housewife

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Even seasoned shoppers seldom can visualize the place on the animal carcass from which a piece of beef comes, according to Mrs. Clara Leopold, University of Nebraska home management specialist.

She said the more tender cuts come from areas that are not exercised much. Meat from the rib and loin sections, for example, is more tender than that from the leg, neck or shoulder.

However, each cut is no better than the animal itself, Mrs. Leopold said. To know and understand quality rating must be a part of the shopper's knowledge about meat cuts.

Children Long For Safety, Security

By DAVID NYDICK
UPI Education Specialist

Does your child get very upset when you leave him with a babysitter? Is he constantly asking for a drink or using other excuses to call you after he has been put to bed? He's probably reacting to a typical fear of young children.

THE YOUNG child's life revolves around his parents. They are a symbol of security. If any unpleasantness occurs the parents are the ones to whom a child turns for sympathy and assistance. The fear that a parent may not be available or may not return is particularly frightening. This fear affects many aspects of the child's life. Many of his actions are closely connected with this fear.

If parents think back over their child's development, it will become obvious that parents are symbols of safety and security. The baby who cries usually stops when his mother or father holds him. A child who hurts himself runs to his parent for help and sympathy. He will usually stop crying when his parent examines the injury and shows some form of sympathy. There are many similar examples which parents might think of as they review their child's past actions.

WITH THIS fear as a background, it is only natural for a child to react to any indication that his parents are leaving his side. He is not sure that they are returning until he has had many experiences proving that they do come home. Even then, there are times when he will be fearful of being separated from his parents. This is a fear which continues in varying degrees through the teens and even later. Naturally, the impact varies with different individuals. As typical examples, there are the many college students who become homesick. Generally this feeling is a result of fear and a need for security.

THIS KIND of fear in children is quite normal. There is no reason to become concerned when a child exhibits such insecurities. He will gradually adjust as he grows older and has many temporary separations from his parents.

Parents should be aware of the child's concern in this area. The parent's understanding in itself will help the child adjust. A planned program of developing confidence in a child is particularly helpful. One approach is to expose the child to short separations which are gradually lengthened as he grows older. This can be accomplished with babysitters or grandparents or other relatives. When you are leaving, reassure the child that you will return. Make sure to return at the time you indicate.

CHILDREN ARE often disturbed when a parent does not keep his word. A promise to a child is a serious obligation. Many parents make off-handed promises which they don't keep simply because they are of seemingly minor concern. Actually a child will lose confidence unless parents are careful to fulfill all promises. This loss of confidence is connected with fear.

Join SFAASOUM; Fight Unnecessary Meetings

IF THERE WERE some index to measure the ratio of volunteer organizations and meetings to the total number of people in the community, Marin County would most certainly top the list.

Watch the "Marin Calendar" column in the I-J for a week or a month and you will agree.

All of the organizations are formed and meetings called to further some "good cause."

But, somehow, many of the good causes don't get furthered much, although the organizations seem to flourish and endure.

Perhaps it's because our problems are continuing ones that never really get solved and we simply must keep combatting them merely to keep them from engulfing us.

BUT THERE IS MUCH lost motion and spinning of the wheels at most meetings of volunteers.

First, there is the matter of starting on time. They almost never do. It seems traditional to keep prompt arrivals waiting for latecomers. It doesn't really make sense, but that is the time-honored practice.

After a belated start is made, it may be necessary to repeat opening comments (of doubtful importance anyway) "for the benefit of late arrivals."

ONE MARK OF a good meeting is whether there was "a good discussion." But too many times the discussion consists of persons with a pet theory expounding it repetitiously.

Discussions tend to be dominated by those "who like the sound of their own voice."

The success of a meeting is measured by how interesting it is. Brevity and interest go hand in hand. A long meeting becomes dull, if for no other reason than that a person just gets tired of it all.

Thus if a meeting is "short and snappy" and interesting, it is regarded as successful.

THIS APPROACH TO evaluation completely ignores the purpose of the meeting, "to further a good cause."

The only really sound evaluation of the meeting must be based on accomplishment as measured by furtherance of the purpose for which it was called.

A newspaperman's life sometimes seems to be just one meeting after another. All too few of the meetings he attends accomplish anything good toward the cause they are intended to further.

A newspaperman sits through youth welfare meetings that contribute not one iota of good to one single youth, community planning meetings that plan absolutely nothing, community beautification meetings that don't beautify, improvements meetings of all sorts that improve nothing.

Some of these meetings may be necessary, but most are not. Since they accomplish nothing, really, the world remains just the same whether they are held or not.

LET US ORGANIZE to stamp out this evil.

Let us set up a local unit of SFAASOUM (Society For Abolition And Suppression Of Unnecessary Meetings).

We will have to get together a steering committee first to line out the program for our first meeting. And it may take several meetings of the steering committee. At the first meeting we will have to elect some temporary officers and appoint a committee to get started on by-laws. We will need to line up a speaker to explain all about SFAASOUM.

These preliminaries will take until the first of the year, but by 1965 we ought to be ready to swing into action to further the cause that SFAASOUM will be organized to advance here in our community.

Oops, almost forgot. We'll need a publicity chairman, right from the start.

Candidates' Private Fortunes Look Like New Campaign Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Now there's another log on the fire before the presidential campaign even starts. This time it's the private fortunes of the presidential candidates.

Less than two weeks ago, Sen. Barry Goldwater through his bank made public figures on his wealth. Johnson did the same on his wealth this week through an accounting firm.

Within a few hours the Republican vice presidential candidate, Rep. William E. Miller of New York, said the size of Johnson's fortune makes his integrity subject to "some question."

AND GOLDWATER'S handpicked chairman of the Republican National Committee, Dean Burch, questioned the way the accounting firm had arrived at its figures on Johnson's financial worth.

He called it "most peculiar" and said the Republicans would make it an issue in the campaign.

The campaign isn't supposed to start until September but already Goldwater has called Johnson a "phony," Miller has questioned his integrity and Johnson has charged them with making false and reckless statements. That's pretty rough going for so early in the game.

IT HAS TAKEN some weeks for Johnson and Goldwater to get around to making public figures on their finances.

But in the 1952 campaign the two candidates — Adlai E. Stevenson and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower — waited much longer before reporting to the public on their income.

On Aug. 11 Time magazine estimated the wealth of Goldwater and his wife at 1.7 million dollars. And on Aug. 13 a Phoenix, Ariz., bank which administers the Goldwater trust accounts said the value was 1.7 million dollars.

An official of the bank — the Valley National Bank — said Goldwater's income last year, including his $22,500 Senate salary, was $65,000.

ON JUNE 9 the Washington Star reported the Johnson family holdings were worth an estimated 9 million dollars.

On July 7 an accounting firm hired by Johnson was instructed by the president to audit the records of his family for the 10 years from Jan. 1, 1964 to July 31, 1964.

Meanwhile, Life had been doing its own digging into Johnson's finances and said that in his years on the public payroll since the 1930s he had grown notably wealthy. Life estimated the family worth at 14 million dollars.

Wednesday by Johnson's order the accounting firm he hired — Haskins and Sells — publicly announced the Johnson family wealth at $3,484,098.

THERE ARE different ways of figuring wealth. If the book value is used the wealth could be presented as many times lower than the market value.

At a news conference at Roslyn, N. Y., Miller was asked if he thought the wealth of the president's family would be a campaign issue.

He said: "I would hope always that integrity in office and morality in office would be an issue. There would be some question about the integrity of a man who has been on the public payroll in a full-time job for 30 years and during that time be accumulating a personal fortune in excess of 14 million dollars."

Where Are Funds For Recreation?

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Re. Henry MacArthur's column Aug. 18 on the state park bond issues, do I err in seeming to recollect that the revenues from the oil royalties accruing to the state were specifically dedicated to beaches and parks?

These royalties represent a pretty sizable amount of annual cash and certainly should put our recreation program on a pay-as-you go basis unless, of course, the revenues must stay at the point of origin. A simple bit of legislation should take care of that aspect. . . .

(What Reader Bingley recalls formerly was true; but the oil royalties proved too tempting to the Knight and Brown administrations to finance general state operations. They were regrettably diverted from parks and beaches.—Editor)

Woman Driver Finds Chivalry

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Chivalry is indeed not dead! This afternoon (Aug. 15), on my way home from San Francisco, I had car trouble in the city of San Anselmo. I was stuck for not more than a minute when a gentleman stopped his car to offer assistance. Just at that moment, a police officer stopped for the same reason. Before anything could even be done to get the car out of the street, two young gentlemen, about 19 or 20, also stopped for the same reason. It was discovered my car could not be fixed immediately, so the first gentleman used his car to push mine to a shady side street, while the officer kindly radioed the station to telephone my husband to pick up my mother, two infant daughters and myself. Before he ever arrived, four more drivers stopped to offer assistance as well as two women who were apparently near-by residents and another police officer. They nearly formed a line to lend a helping hand and I must here admit, my car is an old car and from outside appearances would be no easy job to fix.

I wish to thank all of these very kind people. I am sure I am not the only one who has ever been so treated, but too many times such acts are not given notice, only the sensational news is given headlines.

Thanks Is Given For Search Help

Editor, Independent-Journal:

My husband and I wish to thank the many, many interested parties who helped in the search for our sons and their friends (during the Black Canyon fire Aug. 19). Especially our heartfelt thanks to the San Rafael Fire Department, San Rafael Police Department, U.S. Coast Guard helicopter service, sheriff's office, friends and neighbors who aided in the search.

In this search they averted what could have been a terrible tragedy.

We know that God giveth and God taketh away and are thankful that through the will of God and many prayers our children were found and brought out unharmed.

County Should Aid Yellow Jacket Fight

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Speaking of yellow jackets and who in Marin County, who lives here to enjoy the out of doors, isn't? Isn't it about time that we who pay one of the largest county taxes in the state have some county yellow jacket control service? We'd like to enjoy our patio, barbecue, pool, etc., without being stung or plagued by yellow jackets.

We even have them invading our house if we cook or eat inside and want at least to have our windows and doors open!

I have written the leading garden magazines and they advise spraying the overhead covering of outside areas or finding and destroying the yellow jackets nests.

As this is a universal county complaint, I think it's high time the county seeks to control this pest and see that they are destroyed and stop driving us and our children inside.

Employees Proud Of Their Boss

Editor, Independent-Journal:

During the fire in the San Rafael hills yesterday (Aug. 19), we, the employees of Linscott Co., Inc., became acutely aware of the type of man we work for. We are extremely proud of this man, Bob Linscott, and would like you to know why.

When it first became apparent that the fire was of considerable size and a possible threat to safety for many homes and people, Bob Linscott immediately volunteered the use of his heavy equipment, some of which was working many miles from the fire. These caterpillars were immediately sent to the scene of the fire together with our best operators, who also deserve a pat on the back for doing this dangerous work. Other caterpillars were transported from our yard and other job sites.

Between late afternoon and midnight there were five caterpillars used with 70 man hours of operators' time, two mechanics standing by with their trucks and equipment, our grease and fuel man, who was kept busy, office personnel who manned our radios and assisted the fire and police departments by relaying messages for them, as well as handling all communications between our company radios, all of our supervisors and several foremen who did everything from operating the cats to hauling fuel in for them and repairing equipment.

One of our vice-presidents was lost for over three hours and one operator was burned while operating when the fire crossed the fire trail. There was considerable damage done to some of the equipment, not to mention the working time lost from our regular jobs and the obvious expenses of man hours and equipment involved. However, Bob Linscott worked in close contact with the men and the fire all day yesterday, and he has been personally directing the entire operation from a helicopter this morning—directing the cutting of fire trails and directing bull dozers, etc., and will undoubtedly work most of today.

Yes, we are extremely proud of our boss, Robert E. Linscott.

Bouquets And (No) Brickbats

A BOUQUET to Arthur A. Aceves, San Quentin inmate, who suffered serious burns while trying to assist a fellow firefighter in danger of being trapped by the fire they were fighting in the Mendocino National Forest. "Greater love hath no man . . ." We all owe a debt of deep gratitude to our neighbors who inhabit San Quentin and each year respond so conscientiously to the call for fire-fighters.

A BOUQUET to Mrs. Helen McEvoy of Corte Madera, owner of "Casey," the dog thought to have nipped a two-year-old girl recently. Mrs. McEvoy interrupted her vacation to bring her dog all the way from Dunsmuir to San Rafael for identification. Since "Casey" had received anti-rabies shots, it was possible to discontinue painful rabies treatment on the tiny tot believed to have been nipped.

A BOUQUET to Lee Ettelson, a "sometimes" Marin resident and retired Hearst newspaper executive, on his appointment as deputy director of the State Department of Motor Vehicles.

A BOUQUET to Aaron Rucker of Kentfield on his recent appointment as special assistant attorney general in charge of the state insurance division.

A BOUQUET to San Anselmo Parks and Receration Commission members for their expression of concern about the Army Engineer flood control plan which envisions a concrete lining for San Anselmo Creek. The commissioners expressed the desire to preserve at least some of the creek's remaining natural beauty.

A BOUQUET to the Homestead Valley Improvement Club for sponsoring the very successful Mozart Concert in Stolte Grove Sunday.

A BOUQUET to Mrs. John Poppy of Marinwood for the "gumption" she showed in confronting the driver of a car believed to have been the one which struck her 12-year-old son while he was riding his bicycle. And let us acknowledge our admiration for Mrs. Poppy's persuasiveness; she convinced the driver he should drive his car just ahead of hers all the way to the California Highway Patrol office so the matter could be officially recorded.

BOUQUETS to the five San Rafael youngsters who planned a backyard carnival to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy fund. They are Gary Keys, Ann, Rose and Arthur Edman; and Frank Posey. We hope they were eminently successful.

TODDLER SHOWS REMARKABLE AIM

His sleeping father's open mouth was too much of a temptation for a year-old toddler in England.

With remarkable accuracy, he popped a half-crown (about 35¢ and the size of a half-dollar) into the 29-year-old truck driver's mouth.

The man swallowed the coin and woke with a start. When he realized what had happened, he rushed to the hospital.

After removal of the object, he commented that one thing his son didn't have was a toy bank. Then he added: "but it will be the first thing I buy him when I get home."

Jumping at opportunities is something that young people can be counted on to do, from teen-agers down to the youngest. Often the results are refreshing—sometimes they are disconcerting.

Parents and those who are in contact with youth have many God-given opportunities to inspire them not only to help themselves but also to serve others. Use your own opportunities to best advantage.

BENNETT CERF

A FAMOUS AND brilliant English author enjoyed one particular friendship because the man dared to disagree with him on many a vital issue. Ignoring the advice of Shakespeare — neither a borrower nor a lender be — the author one day loaned his friend a considerable sum. Alas! the friend, now in debt to the author, became subservient and no longer dared to challenge him on controversial subjects. The author finally lost patience and demanded angrily, "Either start contradicting me again, dammit, or pay me back my money!"

A PAIR OF BEMUSED newlyweds were strolling on the white sands of Paradise Beach in the Bahamas. The groom looked out over the azure sea and declaimed, "Roll on, thou deep and dark blue ocean, roll on." His star-struck bride gazed out at the water for a moment, then gushed, "Oh, Horace, you wonderful man! It's doing it!"

BARKER ON CHINA

Secret Red Papers Reveal War Plans

By GEORGE BARKER

LATER THIS YEAR the Hoover Institution will publish an English translation of a series of top secret Chinese military journals, "Bulletin of Activities," which were supposedly captured in Tibet by rebel Khamba tribesmen in late 1961 and found their way to the State Department.

Produced by the party for officers of regimental level or above, these documents are extremely frank in telling of the widespread demoralization of the people, including revolts both inside and outside the Army caused, in part at least, by the famine of 1961.

These bulletins are a treasure trove for China scholars, but I shall concern myself here only with a tiny segment which tells how China might fight a limited war with the U.S. on her limited industrial resources. Since there exists such a possibility in Vietnam, it might be of value for us to understand how, in 1961, the Chinese would have handled such a situation.

MARSHAL YEH CHIEN-YING wrote, "In accordance with our situation, if there is a war within the next three to five years, we will have to rely on hand weapons. As to how to defeat the enemy with hand weapons, Chief Lin Piao has found a way, and it has to do with the question of distant or close war. Distant war means to fight at a distance of several tens, several hundreds or even several thousand kilometers. Close war means to fight at a distance between several meters and two hundred meters, or face to face.

"The enemy is stronger than we are at distant war, but short distance, and especially face to face fighting, is where our strength lies. We have to avoid the strengths and take advantage of the weaknesses of the enemy. In face to face fighting there can only be used hand grenades, bayonets or flame throwers. We have to use close fighting, night fighting and trench warfare to defeat the enemy. . . . In the event of war within the next few years we can defeat the enemy by using close combat although we have no special weapons."

EVEN IN 1961, the Chinese military leaders were writing that China could not depend on Soviet aid in case of attack. They were obsessed, these papers show, with the possibility of a surprise nuclear strike by the U.S. The idea hung heavily on Chinese military thinking. "Men are more important than weapons," makes a catchy slogan to lift sagging morale, but it's clear that the higher echelon had its doubts.

Alice Langley Hsieh, who does research for the U.S. Air Force under Project RAND and who analyzed the secret military papers for "China Quarterly," prefaced her analysis with the following interesting observation, "Peking's pronouncements in the Sino-Soviet dispute have left the public with an image of a reckless and bellicose Chinese Communist regime. This image has been reinforced by the Soviet Union, which has exaggerated Chinese statements and their significance to paint an oversimplified contrast between the supposed Chinese addiction to war and Soviet dedication to peace. China's external military policies, however, have been very cautious."

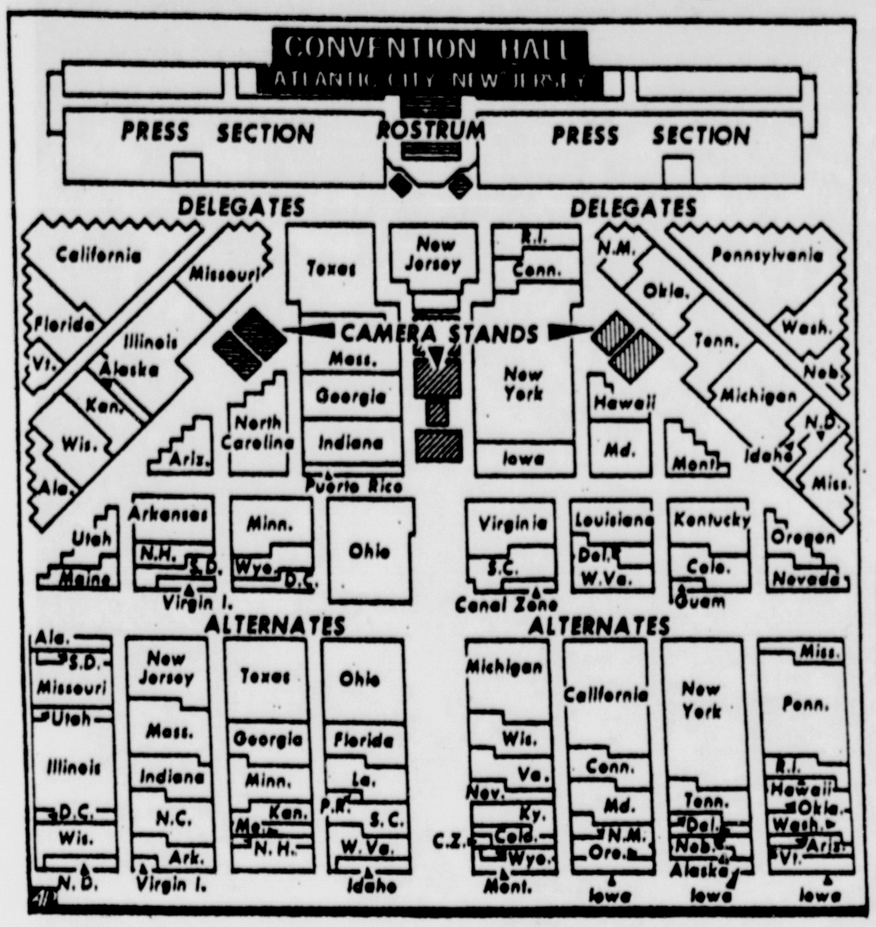
Rough Campaign Promised After LBJ Nomination



SEATING—Chart shows the layout of Convention Hall in Atlantic City and the seating arrangements for the Democratic National Convention which gets underway Monday.

POSSIBLE VP NOMINEES — Possible nominees for vice president to run with President Johnson are (from left, top) Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, who appears to be leading the pack; Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, also of Minnesota, reported to have been Johnson's choice in 1960; New York City Mayor Robert F. Wagner; and (bottom) Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff of Connecticut; Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, and Gov. Edmund G. Brown, least likely choice because he has been chosen to nominate Johnson.

Goldwater, President Face Many Imponderable Issues

By RAYMOND LAHR

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) —about 7 p.m. (PDT) next Wednesday night, the chairman of the Democratic National Convention will deliver a few mighty whacks of a king-sized gavel and proclaim, to no one's surprise, that Lyndon B. Johnson has been nominated for president.

That announcement by Rep. John W. McCormack will formally inaugurate an election campaign which bodes fair to be one of the roughest of modern times.

That it will be hard fought is one of the few safe predictions that can be made about the 1964 presidential campaign. Tricky political cross- currents are running this year, and both candidates are faced with an unusual number of imponderables.

Democratic strategists are resigned to the prospect that Johnson will lose some votes because of "white backlash" against the new civil rights bill, which he sponsored and which his Republican opponent, Sen. Barry Goldwater, opposed.

What no one knows at this point is how many Democratic voters will switch to Goldwater because of the civil rights issue. Recent polls have idicated the loss may run as high as 10 per cent of the registered Democratic vote. And in the South, where disaffection with the civil rights bill is strongest, the "backlash" might deliver several traditionall-Democratic states into the GOP column.

White resentment of Negro gains conceivably might tip the scales against Johnson in other parts of the country as well. The existence of a strong white protest vote was demonstrated when Gov. George C. Wallace polled 34 per cent of the vote in the Wisconsin Democratic primary, 30 per cent in Indiana, and 43 per cent in Maryland.

Some of this resentment is strongest among nationality groups, including labor union members, who normally would be expected to suport the Democratic ticket.

Onp the other hand, thousands upon thousands of Negroes have registered in the South in the past three and one-half years and can be expected to vote almost solidly for the man who pushed the rights bill to passage after the assassination of John F. Kennedy.

Johnson himself is said to feel that the Democratic cause in the South is far from hopeless, that Goldwater's current showing there as reflected by the polls is a temparary emotional surge and that a strong campaign can retrieve Democratic fortunes there.

The impact of the civil rights issue will depend in part on events between now and election day. New race riots in Northern cities would undoubtedly hurt Johnson by further inflaming white fears. On the other hand, new incidents of racial brutality in the South might cause a shift of sentiment in favor of federal protection of civil rights.

Thus each candidate is vulnerable to serious damage from groups supporting him. Johnson can be hurt by impatient Negroes; Goldwater can be hurt by rabid segregationists.

In his speech to the GOP unity conference at Hershey, Pa., earlier this months, Goldwater said that his No. 1 campaign problem is overcoming the "totally wrong" impression his critics have tried to create that he is an impulsive, trigger-happy man who might plunge the world into nuclear war.

There is no doubt that the Democrats are counting on this image of the Republican nominee to offset their defections on the civil rights issue. And public opinion polls indicate that there is indeed a "Republican backlash" against Goldwater, stemming mainly from concern about his foreign policy views, which may cost him as much as 10 per cent of the registered Republican vote.

Johnson clearly intends to make the most of this issue. In his Aug. 12 address to the American Bar Assn. in New York, he bore down hard on the importance of keeping the White House a president who would not "irresponsibly" hazard the lives of all Americans "by threatening nuclear war."

Although race relations and peace are the issues with the greatest emotional voltage, both candidates will be trying hard to build up other issues.

Goldwater will decry the steady growth of federal power, and call for greater reliance on state and local governments and private initiative to solve social and economic problems.

Johnson will keep reminding voters that they never had it so good economically, and will credit the nation's presperity to the Democratic administration's sound government policies.

In an effort to keep union members securely in the fold, the president also will point to Goldwater's opposition to labor - backed bills and his advocacy of right - to - work laws opposed by union leaders.

Goldwater will charge that profligate federal spending has been a major cause of inflation, and will promise old folks and others living on fixed incomes that a conservative Republican administration would stop the upward creep of prices and resuscitate the dollar.

Johnson will depict Goldwater as a turn - back - the - clock reactionary who has expressed doubts about Social Security.

Goldwater will accuse Johnson of distorting the record.

Johnson will accuse Goldwater of distorting the record.

Both of them will probably be right, because putting the worst possible construction on the other fellow's record, and the best on your own, is what a political campaign is all about.

Demo Convention Organizer's Dream

By BONNIE ANGELO
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON—To Democratic campaign strategists, the uncontested convention in Atlantic City is a political organizer's dream, a week with everybody from precinct workers to the president assembled in the same spot with time on their hands.

The experts in the "nuts and bolts" end of politics see the convention as the perfect place to start the 1964 campaign.

These workers from the political vineyards across the country will find that the free time they had planned to spend frolicking on the famed boardwalk has already been earmarked by men with a job to do.

Spearheading this effort will be two skilled organization specialists from the Kennedy high command who stayed on at the White House as assistants to President Johnson. Lawrence O'Brien and Kenneth O'Donnell will be applying the tactics which proved so successful for John F. Kennedy's Senate and presidential campaigns to the totally different circumstances and personality of Lyndon B. Johnson.

O'Brien, who has worked closely with Johnson as his congressional liasion man, described his important role in the national campaign as "fulfilling the contract I made with the president on the plane from Dallas."

O'Brien is still working with legislative matters as Congress winds up its year, but he is itching to get at his campaign work.

The difference from the 1960 convention is tremendous, O'Brien says. "We had to spend the whole convention week worrying about holding our delegates before the nomination and getting everybody together afterwards." He observes it is the Republicans who this year have the job of shaping up a new organization after their convention.

The Democrats, with their candidate never in doubt, had their working team in harness for months. The Atlantic City assembly may see fireworks over such a matter as the seating of Mississippi delegates but does not face the potentially divisive issues that the Republicans did at San Francisco.

The 1964 Democratic convention, essentially, is to make Johnson's candidacy official and to concur in his selection of a running mate.

There will be no changes in the national committee leadership, but rather a joining of Johnson men with the old Kennedy team.

It appears certain that John Bailey of Connecticut will stay on as chairman, with Texan Clifton Carter working closely with him as President Johnson's special voice in campaign matters. As chairman Bailey is the "front man" for the Democratic organization, the man who rebuts Republicans and speaks for the Democrats in print and in public appearances. Mrs. Margaret Price of Michigan is expected to remain as vice chairman, directing women's activities.

The responsibility for keeping the campaign moving in all 50 states in the less glamorous side of politics will go to O'Donnell as campaign director and O'Brien as director of organization.

It is in the organization end of a campaign, away from the limelight, that the delegates and local politicians who will be present in Atlantic City are of such importance. They keep the campaign moving in areas where the national candidates are only distant figures.

TO NOMINATE, TO KEYNOTE—Long-time backer of President Johnson, Texas Gov. John B. Conally (right), will share honors with Gov. Edmund G. Brown in nominating the president as he seeks a four-year term in the White House. Sen. John O. Pastore of Rhode Island (left) will be keynoter for the Democratic convention.

Democrats Treating Convention As Big Political Television Show

ATLANTIC CITY (UPI)—Democrats will rely upon top professional help when they put their giant convention show on the road starting Monday.

A theatrical set designer is handling the design and operation of the giant rostrum from which the political oratory will flow, and the actual construction of the platform was under the aegis of a firm specializing in such work.

The thinking behind the extra pains being taken on the rostrum is that the political extravaganza is as much a television show as it is a convention.

Fixed television lens are focused on the lectern, and speakers will be raised or lowered, depending on their height, by a special elevator. The fixed cameras will help eliminate distortions.

Arrangements also have been made to avoid distractions, such as persons moving in the background while someone is speaking. A large blue drape will be used as a backdrop for each speaker, so that he will be the only person visible to television viewers during close-ups.

Construction and shipment of the rostrum was one of the major jobs in preparing for the Democratic convention. The platform—weighing more than five tons—was built in New York City by the P. J. Rotondo Construction Co., which builds sets for television shows.

The entire thing was dismantled into about 100 pieces and shipped via vans and reassembled. Some of the pieces of the giant jigsaw puzzle were 25 feet high and eight feet wide. The rostrum itself measures 48 feet in length and 24 feet in width.

Master-minding the overall project was David Clark, a writer of captions for television commercials and a designer of theatrical sets for summer stock shows.

With television in mind, Clark set to work on the technical and artistic problems. And each speaker will get the full treatment.

Special background lighting will be used to match the color of the clothes of each speaker, and the elevator will be raised one inch at a time to make sure the speaker is brought gradually up or down to eye-level with the television cameras. The elevator will be operated by a push button in the TV control booth, and it will be able to raise or lower a speaker 12 inches.

The huge rostrum will still leave plenty of room for delegates to the convention, even though it does extend past the first row of seats. The main ballroom of convention hall, capable of seating 41,000 persons, is the largest auditorium in the world.

'Big Brother' Will Keep An Eye On Convention

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UPI)—Security precautions during the Democratic National Convention here will be elaborate, with hidden television cameras scanning the huge auditorium to spot any disturbances quickly.

The cameras were installed by state police, who will have about 300 troopers on duty throughout the four-day meetin. Suspicious moves can be spotted immediately and troopers can be directed to the scene of suspected trouble by walkie-talkies.

It marks the first time television has been used as a means of providing maximum security.

The two hidden cameras will be operated from a main control booth, where police will be on duty at all time during convention meetings.

Kennedy In Carpetbag Controversy

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A carpetbagger, by Civil War definition, was a Northerner who tossed his belongings in a carpet-cloth bag and headed South to take advantage of chaos at the end of the conflict.

In today's bitterly played game of politics, the people and the motives are different. But carpetbagging still is an issue.

This week, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy—who votes in Massachusetts, lives in Virginia and appears ready to run for the Senate from New York —was the man in the middle of the carpetbagger controversy.

Rep. Samuel Stratton, who would be Kennedy's chief rival at the Democratic State Convention Sept. 1, headed the list of those opposing the attorney general by calling him an "outsider who wants to use the Senate seat as a way-station for some other objective."

But while the promise of a convention floor fight shaped up, the 38-year-old attorney general sought and received the key backing of New York Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

There appeared to be no legal obstacle to a Kennedy nomination and the carpetbagger issue seemed to fade into the background, momentarily at least, when the mayor endorsed the late president's brother as a man of "personal eminence" and "great achievements."

With Republican Sen. Kenneth B. Keating set to seek a second term, a Kennedy-Keating race looms as one of the hottest senatorial struggles in the country.

In seeking his first elective office "outsider" Kennedy would be a strong force in efforts to bolster the strength of the Democratic Party in New York. Not since 1950, when the late Herbert Lehman was swept into office, has there been a Democratic senator from the state.

Senator Keating is running for re-election independent of the Goldwater-Miller ticket. And, if nominated, the attorney general may be challenged by former Congresswoman Clare Luce Booth as a candidate of the New York State Conservative Party. Mrs. Luce, is a Goldwater supporter.

New Development Dominates Canal Area

The shores of the San Rafael Canal have been lined in recent years with plush apartment complexes which have taken advantage of the increased popularity of boating by providing berthing facilities for their tenants' crafts.

The aerial photograph was taken as the plane flew over eastern San Rafael heading west towards the downtown area.

At the lower right is the Loch Lomond Yacht Harbor with the Loch Lomond residential area directly above and west of it.

San Rafael High School's track and football field is at the top of the photograph, across the canal from the San Rafael Yacht Harbor.

Highway 101 parallels the upper left hand border of the picture to the point where it intersects with the road to San Quentin Prison and the approach to the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge.

IDENTITY NOT DIVULGED

One of the attractions for the California State Fair in Sacramento Sept. 2-13 will be the 1964 National Wine Queen — but who she is is being kept secret until she is officially crowned on Wine Growers Day at the Fair Sept. 8. Judging from the Golden Gate Bridge setting, it might be a fair guess the young lady's a San Franciscan, but the vintners are telling curious souls to come to the fair to learn her identity—and to visit the California Vineyard Inn, a State Fair innovation with food and wine served as it is in the colorful vine gardens of Europe.

Publishers Racing On Story Of Assassination

By DON BACON
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON — Racing against time and one another, at least four publishing houses will reprint the Warren Commission report on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy when it is released next month.

They expect the historic document to become an immediate worldwide best seller.

At least one newspaper, the New York Times, is planning to reprint the entire text of the report, filling perhaps 40 news pages. Other papers are considering printing it, and have been discussing with White House press secretary George Reedy the possibility of obtaining the report a day or two before it is released publicly so they can set it in type.

But the government's own plans for publishing the report remain shrouded in secrecy that extends even to the number of copies to be printed and the price at which they will sell.

The Government Printing Office has been working in secret with the seven-member Blue Ribbon Commission and elaborate care has been taken to prevent premature leakage of the report.

President Lyndon B. Johnson appointed the commission shortly after the Kennedy assassination, and named Chief Justice Earl Warren to head it. The panel has investigated every known fact and rumor surrounding the Nov. 22 tragedy, and will attempt, through its meticulous report, to resolve any lingering doubts.

J. Lee Rankin, chief counsel of the commission, declined to answer any questions concerning publication of the report. He refers his questioners to Reedy, who in turn says details of publication "will be considered at the appropriate time. We are not expecting any immediate time or pressure on it. There will be no decision on it until it has been considered quite thoroughly."

The White House, through which the report will be issued, has not yet decided whether to allow certain newspapers access to it in advance of general distribution. Participating newspapers would have to stipulate that they would carefully guard the document to maintain its secrecy, that it would be printed in full, and that it would not be used for the writing of news stories prior to its official release.

Some newspaper and wire service officials have objected to the proposal on grounds that a news event of such major proportions should be made available simultaneously to all newspapers and other news media.

Miles H. Wolff, editor of the Greensboro, N.C., Record-News, and president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, said in a telephone interview that he has received complaints from his organization's membership, and that he will "check into the matter further."

He said the report should be released to all papers at the same time in fairness to readers of the smaller papers that cannot financially afford to print the entire text.

Unofficial estimates have placed the report's length at 250,000 words, equal in length to a book of 500 to 600 pages. The reprinting would cost a newspaper of the New York Times' circulation more than $55,000 in paper and typesetting expenses alone.

Originally due for completion last spring, the report has been postponed repeatedly as new areas of investigation were uncovered. The current target date is mid-September, but release may come as late as Oct. 1.

The report will be in the public domain, and book publishers are waiting to grab it while it's hot. Two paperback reprints will be on the newsstands within a week or so after release, and two hard cover editions will follow shortly thereafter.

One hardback edition, to be published by McGraw Hill in cooperation with the New York Times, will be distributed by the Book of the Month Club. The publishers of this version alone are planning an initial printing of 250,000 copies.

Doubleday and Co. expects to be in the bookstores within three or four weeks after release with a hardback edition, priced at about $3.95. Doubleday's version will include pictures and illustrations with the entire text of the report. A "big foreign sale" is expected, a spokesman said.

Bantam Books will print a softcover edition that, like the McGraw-Hill hardback, will contain introductory material written by the New York Times have an initial press run of 500,000 copies, and will be priced at $1.

According to Times vice president Ivan Veit, the New York newspaper will receive royalties for its contributions to the two editions.

Popular Library which perhaps has the widest experience in rapid book publication, will rush out a softback priced at 95 cents.

It will contain an introduction by Robert J. Donovan, veteran reporter for the Los Angeles Times.

Popular Library tuned up for the coming sweepstakes by publishing a biography of President Johnson, which it had on the newstands 18 days after he was sworn in. That included the five days it took author Henry A. Zieger to write it.

"We'll do a lot better with the Warren report," an official said. "It took us only five days to get out the Denning Report on the Profumo scandal, and we might even beat that record."

German Economic Miracle Seems To Depend On Country's Women

By JOHN DORNBERG

BONN (WPS) — That West Germany is riding the crest of a wave of affluence uparalleled in its history is legend. But just how miraculous is this wirtschaftswunder (economic miracle)?

Out of 100 German households, 52 now have refrigerators — more than in any other European country. Thirty-six per cent of German families now own washing machines, more than 50 per cent have TV sets, and approximately 30 per cent own their own automobiles.

Despite these glowing figures, the wirtschaftswunder has its loopholes and, according to a recent statistical study by the non-profit German Assn. for Public and Private Welfare, the biggest one seems to be that the economic miracle was developed on the backs of Germany's women.

One-third, roughly 7.3 million of West Germany's working force, is made up of women. And the number is increasing steadly year by year, both in sum total and in percentage of overall work force.

The reasons for this large-scale employment of women are clear. West Germany's continually expanding economy is so short of labor that it can no longer exist without the vast female force. And the social pressures for luxury goods are so great that most wives and mothers are willing to work, at least part time, to make possible such "extras".

The result is a slow, subtle change in the role which German women have traditionally played in the family, as well as a steady statistically-documented erosion of the health and well-being of German women.

According to the study, conducted among 1,000 working urban wives and mothers, 56 per cent were employed in industry, stores or offices for an average of 36 hours per week. This in addition to their normal household chores.

Of the gainfully employed housewives, 43 per cent said they were harried, tired, rundown or felt indifferent and apathetic.

More than 33 per cent said they had never had a vacation, and 29 per cent reported they are "often nervous."

Asked why they went out to work, nearly all said it was to supplement their husbands' incomes. About 41 per cent of the husbands of non-working mothers earned the equivalent of about $150 per month. But in households of working mothers, the average family incomes went up to at least $200 per month.

Says a sociologist who helped conduct the survey: "The 'key money' for new apartments or the down payments on houses, installment payments for refrigerators, washing machines, TV sets and cars come out of the wages earned by wives."

In one typically middle-class apartment house in Frankfurt, for example, 16 out of 20 wives were employed. One attractive 32-year-old mother of two small boys said: "My husband brings home $144.25 a month. He's a televisioin repair man. Our rent runs to $33 a month, including utilities. Our grocery bill amounts to $75 a month, and the rest is used up for incidentals.

"How could we afford a car and household appliances? Because I work as a clerk in a department store and bring home an extra $80 a month. My mother takes care of the children during the day. Our situation is about the same as others in this building."

With the price of a new Volkswagen approximately $1,250, a television set about $250, a refrigerator $125, and an electric washing machine $375, this family could pay for the extras in about 30 months, providing they spent no money on a vacation.

The survey revealed that 57 per cent of young mothers up to the age of 35 stated that their "fondest wish" was a better and larger home. None of them wanted to continue living as subtenants in one or two rooms, or to share homes with parents and in-laws.

"Much of our affluence that appears on the surface," says a spokesman for the Public and Private Welfare Assn., "is due to the work of women. They are the stepchildren of our economic miracle."

No Basis Found In Inmate Case

Investigation by Marin County district attorney's office into charges by a San Quentin Prison inmate that he is unwillingly being used as a "male call girl" has disclosed no factual basis, Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said yesterday.

Bales said inquiry showed allegations that prison personnel encouraged the inmate, Ray Snyder, into homosexual relations because he, himself, is an admitted homosexual were unfounded.

Snyder's request for a writ of habeas corpus on the allegations was denied in Marin Superior Court Aug. 14. He is serving time for burglary in San Diego County.

Opening lead — ♠ 10

South beamed as he looked at the dummy. His jump to slam was going to pay off. It was a good, bold bid, and South felt proud of himself.

LED ACE

So proud, in fact, that he carelessly led the ace of hearts after ruffing the opening spade lead. The 3-0 trump break should have sobered declarer but he was still glowing with pride. He continued with a trump to dummy's eight.

Now the fat was in the fire. When declarer tried the diamond finesse, West won with the king of diamonds and returned his last trump. This left only one trump in the dummy; South eventually discovered that he could not ruff two clubs with only one trump.

South eventually lost a club trick. Down one at a cold slam contract.

SIMPLE PLAY

The correct play is simple. After ruffing the opening spade lead, South leads a trump to dummy.

On discovering the bad trump break, declarer returns a diamond from dummy for the finesse.

West can win and return a trumps in dummy. Declarer cashes the top diamonds to discard a club from dummy, takes the top clubs and then cross-ruffs clubs and spades.

CAN RECOVER

South can recover from the careless play of the ace of hearts by leading a club to dummy's king instead of a second trump.

Then he takes the diamond finesse.

The important thing is to tackle the diamonds without giving West a chance to get three trumps out of the dummy.

Answer. Bid one spade.

Don't make a shutout bid in first or second position when you have a solid suit and a void. You may easily lose a slam.

Assault Case Is Dismissed

A complaint alleging assault with a deadly weapon was dismissed in Marin Municipal Court yesterday against Arlin Earl Stockburger Jr., 889 Las Pavadas Avenue, Terra Linda.

In recommending the dismissal, the Marin County district attorney's office said no criminal intent was found in the shooting injury of Stockburger's wife, Pauline Vivian, 45, while she lay in her sleeping bag at the couple's camping site at Muir Beach Aug. 8.

Mrs. Stockburger was treated at Marin General Hospital.

Librarian For Marin Will Retire

Mrs. Lavina Adams, head librarian of the Marin County Free Library Branch at Point Reyes Station for 32 years, will retire in two weeks.

The long time West Marin resident has reached mandatory retirement age and leaves her familiar post Sept. 1—"regretfully," she adds.

Mrs. Adams has been with the branch library through many changes. At one time it was housed in a railroad train car side-tracked across the street from the present community firehouse.

She and her husband Jesse A. Adams have been residents of Point Reyes Station for 48 years. They celebrated their Golden Wedding anniversary last April 15.

The couple was married in Bolinas in 1914 and moved to Point Reyes Station two years later where Adams went into merchandising. During her employment as head librarian, Mrs. Adams has trained other librarians in West Marin branches, and substituted in several places.

HAFB Use For Money Cleared Up

A $607,000 appropriation, proposed in Congress for Hamilton Air Force Base, would be used to build a vehicle maintenance shop and to improve three dormitories for airmen.

That clarification came this week from Rep. Don H. Clausen (R-Crescent City), who checked with the appropriations subcommittees of both the House and the Senate to get the details.

Two weeks ago the Senate appropriations subcommittee approved a bill which included $607,000 for Hamilton construction. But the nature of the construction was not outlined.

Clausen got this explanation:

The House approved $112,000 for a refueling vehicle shop for maintenance and repair. No facility exists on the base for this function.

The Senate concurred in this appropriation and added $495,000 for alteration of three airmen's dormitories. The Senate committee's justification was that the existing dorms (for single airmen) were built in 1934 and do not provide reasonable privacy and adequate living quarters.

"As of this writing," said Clausen, "this bill is deadlocked in committee conference between the two Houses, with no date set for the next meeting to attempt to resolve these differences."

Young Democrats Back Civil Rights

Tamalpais Young Democrats took strong stands in favor of civil right measures and endorsed all Democratic candidates in the November election Thursday night at a meeting in Mill Valley.

Among measures passed was condemnation of GOP Presidential candidate Barry Goldwater's stand on the 1964 Civil Rights Act; endorsement of Mill Valley City Council's opposition to the state anti-Rumford Act initiative; and support of the Mississippi Freedom Party, according to Scott Aleshire, group chairman.

S. F. Giants Lose Sixth Straight Game

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Al Dark pulled the trigger once too often in his gambling game of Russian Roulette.

Dark's slumping San Francisco Giants lost their sixth straight game, 6-5 to St. Louis last night, with the help of an intentional walk that put the tying run on base.

The defeat dropped the Giants into third place in the National League, the first time they've been lower than second since the first week of the season. They stand one game behind Cincinnati and 8½ back of league-leading Philadelphia.

On four previous occasions this year, Dark daringly violated the generally accepted baseball strategy of NOT putting the winning run on base intentionally. Each time, though, that Dark's pitchers walked the winning run to first base, the Giants ran away with a victory.

But his latest attempt failed miserably. With the Giants leading 5-3 in the ninth inning, Lou Brock at second and two out, Dark pulled the trigger — and Bill White walked to first.

Dark felt the bullet minutes later.

After the walk, Dal Maxvill singled to left field, bringing in Brock and putting White at second. Mike Shannon followed with another single, this one a grounder that second baseman Hal Lanier managed to stop on the outfield grass.

White raced home with the tying run, and Maxvill scampered into third. Lanier, meanwhile, fired the ball to the plate, but he was off balance, and the ball sailed wildly past catcher Tom Haller.

Maxvill dashed home with the winning run.

Elsewhere in the NL, Philadelphia blanked Pittsburgh 2-0, Cincinnati edged Los Angeles 3-2, New York walloped Chicago 7-0 and Houston nipped Milwaukee 3-2.

Home runs by Jim Hart and Orlando Cepeda had helped the Giants to their 5-3 lead. Hart connected with one on in a three-run first inning while Cepeda drove his 25th homer in the third. Ken Boyer batted in the Cardinals' first three runs with a double and a single.

Chris Short scattered seven hits, winning his 13th game in 19 decisions as the Phillies posted their fourth straight victory. The league-leaders picked up a run in the second when Alex Johnson singled, took second on a balk by Pirates' pitcher Bob Veale and scored on Tony Taylor's single.

Johnny Callison drove in the other run in the eighth with a single.

The Reds won their fifth straight behind the brilliat relief pitching of Bill McCool. The rookie hurled the last 6 2-3 innings, allowing only one hit, striking out nine and permitting only one Dodger to reach third.

Starter Jim Maloney drove in two Red runs with a second-inning double, then scored the third on a bunt single by Chico Ruiz.

The Mets also won their fifth straight and tied the longest winning streak in their three-year history. They won five in a row in May, 1963.

Jack Fisher scattered seven hits in going the distance, marking the fifth consecutive complete game for the Mets' pitching staff. No other team in the majors has performed that feat this season.

Tony Cloninger held Houston to one hit through six innings, but the Colts erupted for three runs in the seventh with the help of Gene Oliver's bobble of Carroll Hardy's potential double play ball. Walt Bond scored the tying run on the play, and Bob Aspromonte then scored the winning run as Jerry Grote flied out.

Dept. Of Justice Probes Deeper In CBS-Yankee Deal

CHICAGO (AP) — The Department of Justice has apparently begun an investigation into the sale of the New York Yankees to the Columbia Broadcasting System for possible violations of the antitrust act.

President Joe Cronin of the American League confirmed in Boston last night that the Justice Department might be looking into the case.

"We had a representative of the Department of Justice call on us the other day," Cronin said, "and explain that in almost all such instances they undertake a preliminary probe of this nature.

"We understand they have visited several ball clubs."

The sale of 80 per cent of the Yankees to CBS last week for $11.2 million brought strong protests from Charles O. Finley, owner of the Kansas City Athletics, and Arthur Allyn, owner of the Chicago white Sox.

And it was the controversial Finley who broke the news of the Justice Department investigation last night.

Finley fired a telegram to Cronin protesting the investigation and claiming "another sad day for baseball."

Finley said justice department officials questioned him for 2½ hours yesterday about the sale, but declined to elaborate on the conversation.

Allyn confirmed he had been questioned for two hours Wednesday by department representatives and also protested the investigation, but not to Cronin.

The Chicago office of the justice department confirmed the investigation and said it was acting on orders from its Washington office. The spokesman declined to say whether all baseball club owners were being interviewed.

President Calvin Griffith of the Minnesota Twins said he understood that all American League owners had been contacted by the Justice Department.

Allyn and Finley protested vigorously the telegraphic means by which Cronin received approval from the 10 club owners for transferring the Yankese' stock. Both demanded a league meeting, which Cronin disallowed.

Minnesota's Griffith opopsed Finley and Allym.

"They're two of the newest owners in baseball," he said. "We have voted before by teletype and everything else for new owners and on other matters, so there's nothing new about the way we voted."

Orioles Win Back 1st Place

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Brooks Robinson speaks softly and Sam Bowens seldom but they know how to make pitchers' ears ring.

Robinson, Baltimore's American League MVP candidate, started a pair of arguments with Chicago mound stars last night and, with rookie Bowens backing him each time, the Orioles hung out the White Sox 4-2 and regained the league lead.

The quiet men cuffed southpaw Juan Pizarro for back-to-back homers in the fourth inning, then broke up a 2-2 tie in the ninth with successive run-scoring singles off knuckleballer Hoyt Wilhelm. The pair, filling the breach left by Boog Powell's wrist injury, accounted for two-thirds of the Orioles' six-hit attack.

Baltimore, having taken the opener of a four-game set between the flag contenders, owns a half-game margin over the Sox, who had won their last five in a row, including four straight over the fading New York Yankees.

The defending champs lost their fifth straight, a 7-0 humiliation to Boston, and dropped five games off the pace. Detroit rode Don Demeter's slugging to a 4-1 decision over Minnesota and Kansas City edged Washington 3-2 on Rocky Colavito's two-run homer. The Cleveland-Los Angeles Angels game was rained out.

Robinson, the Orioles' unsung team leader for four seasons, remained on course toward a banner year. The home run was his 21st, two short of his 1962 career high. The tie-breaking single gave him 81 runs batted in and the club lead over Powell, who had 80 when he crashed a wall in Boston Thursday and cracked a bone in his left wrist.

Bowens, who narrowly avoided serious injury a day before Powell was hurt when he caught an Earl Wilson fastball in the jaw, socked his 17th homer and drove in his 50th and 51st runs.

The Orioles managed only one hit off Pizarro, the league's top winner, until the fourth inning homers. The Sox pecked away against Milt Pappas, scoring once in the sixth on a walk, wild pitch and Floyd Robinson's single and chasing the Baltimore starter in the eighth.

Gary Peters, the good pitching hitter, singled for Pizarro and Don Buford scored him with a two-out triple. Harvey Haddix replaced Pappas, retired all four batters he faced and picked up his fifth victory.

Luis Aparicio triggered the Orioles' winning rally with a one-out single off Wilhelm and advanced on a walk to Earl Robinson before Brooks Robinson's hit broke the tie and Bowen's single iced it.

Right-hander Bob Heffner tossed a six-hitter at the Yankees and the Red Sox slugged three home runs, including a grand slam by catcher Bob Tillman.

Tonight's 49er Game Should Be A Turning Point For Some Rookies

Now is the time for all good football fans to remind themselves that the results of exhibition games do not a season make. The surprising San Francisco 49er win over the Cleveland Brownies in the season opener followed by their disappointing loss to the Dallas Cowboys only serves to emphasize the point.

FOR THE hard core of veterans who are sure of their jobs for the coming year the exhibition season is a time for physical conditioning, good food, and the start of that salve for bumps and bruises called "Payday." The object is to play just hard enough to avoid criticism and injury.

At the other end of the line is the brutal struggle going on for a half dozen jobs that are thrown up for grabs every year. The competition is between the eager young rookies and the aging or less competent veterans on the squad. Youth versus experience.

SOMEWHERE in between these groups there are always two or three veterans of proven ability who have suffered injuries of one kind or another and are trying to convince themselves and the coaches that they are ready to get back on the payroll.

In exhibition games as in regular season contests, the other important factor is mental attitude. When the Niners opened against Cleveland they were playing before a home town crowd that had seen them at their worst the previous year. They needed the win for their own morale and for the support of the fans. As a result they really put out. The Browns couldn't care less.

UP IN Portland last Saturday there was a natural letdown and reversion to type. The Dallas Cowboys had been trounced the week before, so they had some proving of their own to do, and they did it at the expense of the 49ers. The loss will do the Niners more good than harm as it should stir up some desire to improve upon a flagrantly poor performance.

Tonight the 49ers go against the Minnesota Vikings in Salt Lake City in the third of the year's five exhibition games. Look for the tempo to pick up considerably as this game marks the turning point for most of the ambitious rookies on both squads. Some time between now and Tuesday six men will be chopped from the 49er squad, and the determining factor will be the showing tonight.

FOR COACH Jack Christensen this will be a rough weekend. The 49er mentor knows he must improve his personnel or once more be the doormat of the league. Whether or not that improvement will come from rookies or from healthy veterans is a decision that only the head man can attempt. We wish him luck and a touch of clairvoyance.

In any case, the future will begin to unfold by next week and patterns will begin to take shape so that we can analyze the prospects of the Prospectors. It is really quite simple for a columnist to do in one column the same work turned in by six coaches over a six-month period of time. And no sweat, man!

A TRIPLE — Giants third base coach Cookie Lavagetto points, umpire Jocko Conlon calls safe, Cardinal third baseman Ken Boyer can't see the ball, and S. F. infielder Jim Davenport slides. It all adds up to a triple hit by Davenport in the second inning last night in Candlestick Park. The object of all the gestures is the ball which can be seen under Davenport's leg. (AP Wirephoto)

49ers, Raiders Ready For Weekend Football Action

S.F. Meets Minnesota Tonight

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Are the San Francisco 49ers an improved club?

That question may be partially answered tonight when the 49ers meet the Minnesota Vikings in the third exhibition game for each team.

If the 49ers are to improve on their 2-12 cellar finish last year in the National Football League's Western Division, one of the teams they'll have to climb over is Minnesota.

The Vikings finished fifth with 5-8-1, including two triumphs over the 49ers.

And the Vikings look to be improved, beating both the New York Giants and St. Lous Cardinals this summer.

Among the Viking assets are quarterback Fran Tarkenton, rated one of the best in the league at avoiding onrushing linemen and getting off apass; last year's NFL Rookie of the Year Paul Flatley at flanker, and hard-running Tommy Mason at halfback.

Former Wisconsin passing ace Ron VanderKelen, starting his second pro season, and rookie Hal Bedsole, the 6-4 pass-catching All America from Southern California, may face the 49ers.

Veteran John Brodie and former Utah ace Lee Grosscup are expected to share quarterbacking for the 49ers, while rookie sensation George Mira of Miami could see action behind center.

After beating the Cleveland Browns and losing to the Dallas Cowboys, the 49ers enter tonight's game with all hands healthy.

Expected to see full-time duty after stints on the injured list are defensive linemen Dan Colchico and Charlie Krueger.

Tonight's exhibition football game between the San Francisco 49ers and the Minnesota Vikings will be televised over KTVU, Channel 2, starting at 8 o'clock.

Yogi Fines Linz $200 For Harmonica Game

BOSTON (AP) — Yogi Berra hopes for improved New York team spirit after fining Phil Linz for the first open defiance of a Yankee manager since Babe Ruth's 1926 rebellion.

A subdued Linz admitted last night he deserved the $200 levy for playing half a dozen notes of "Mary Had a Little Lamb" on the harmonica after Yogi had ordered him to stop.

Berra announced his disciplinary action after a closed-door session with Linz. He said the player was not surprised and added: "I now consider the incident closed. The affair did not approach the proportions of Ruth's feud with Manager Miller Huggins when the Babe's "one of us must go" stand drew a $5,000 fine and suspension from owner Jacob Ruppert.

Linz was on the bench last night as the Yankees ran their losing streak to five bowing 7-0 to Boston.

"I'm sorry it happened, naturally," Berra said. "Since it has, maybe something good will come of it. I hope so, the way things have been going.

"You know I can get very mad. This thing really set me off. I had no choice but to fine Linz."

Ralph Houk, New York general manager, had been called by Berra late Thursday night. Houk was in town and consulted with Berra yesterday but was not present at the Yogi-Linz confrontation.

"I left the matter entirely in Berra's hands," Houk said. "But I will say I do not approve of harmonica playing on a bus after losing a series like that."

"Whatever I got, I deserved," said a penitent, gum-chewing Linz. "It's all my fault. You should never challenge authority.

"It was one of those spur of the moment things and I just didn't think.

"I told Mr. Berra I was sorry."

"It's just making a mountain out of a mole hill," muttered one Yankee.

But a source close to the club disagreed, saying:

"This could have been all out mutiny if Yogi hadn't stepped in. If a utility man like Linz had gotten away with it, how would Berra handle any regular who stepped out of line?"

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

NEW YORK — Johnny Persol, 172½, New York and Henry Hank, 174, Detroit, drew, 10.

NEW YORK — Oscar Bonavena, 201, Argentina, stopped Tom McNeely, 203, Arlington, Mass., 5.

MELBOURNE — Gilberte Biondi, 134, Australia, outpointed Kimpo Armarfio, 132½, Ghana, 15. Biondi retained the Australian welterweight championship.

Oakland To Host Bills Tomorrow

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Raiders face one of the runningest quarterbacks in the American Football League when the Buffalo Bills move onto Frank Youell Field tomorrow for their pre-season exhibition game.

Last season Jackie Kemp rang up eight touchdowns on 52 carries and his reputation as a scrambling quarterback is well known.

Kemp threw 194 completions for 2,914 yards—second highest in the AFL. Thirteen were for touchdowns. He is third in the league behind San Diego's Tobin Rote and Oakland's Tom Flores.

The Raiders spent the week also preparing defense for fullback Cookie Gilchrist and halfback Wray Carlton, both fast, hard runners.

The only Raider not expected to appear for the 1:35 p.m. kickoff is defensive tackle Dave Costa. He suffered a bruised shoulder in last week's 21-7 victory over Denver.

Costa, who will be replaced by rookie Rex Mirich, is not expected to return to the lineup for 10 days.

Two former members of the Gonzales (Texas) High School team of 12 years ago will meet again tomorrow.

They are Oakland's Dalva Allen and Buffalo's 270-pound tackle Tom Sestak. Last year Sestak polled more votes for the all-AFL team than any other lineman. Allen, a 250-pound defensive end, was named to the AFL coaches' all-league team.

Lakers Sign 6-5 Back Court Ace

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers have signed 6 - foot - 5, 209-pound John Savage, a back court prospect from North Texas State. He was the Lakers' No. 5 choice in the National Basketball Association draft.

Pop Warner Footballers To Practice

Young gridders in the Marin County Pop Warner Football League begin their second week of practice Monday in preparation for the 12th annual Pop Warner Football Festival scheduled next month.

The festival will be a triple-header of football, previewing all six teams in the league. It will be held Sept. 12, starting at 6 p.m., in College of Marin stadium.

The league is open to boys 11 through 14 who do not weigh more than 123 pounds. Sign-ups will still be taken by the teams during any of their daily workouts.

Following the Warner Festival, the regular league season will begin for the youngsters with each team playing the others in a five-game schedule.

MARICHAL WILL MISS MORE TURNS

Juan Marichal, San Francisco's top right-hander, will miss a few more turns on the mound, manager Alvin Dark said yesterday.

Marichal, scheduled to pitch today's game against the St. Louis Cardinals, was withdrawn as a possible starter after complaining of back pains. The ace of the Giants' staff hasn't pitched since July 29, when he first strained a back muscle. His record is 15-5.

A LITTLE BOY IS MADE HAPPY BY MAYS VISIT

The fourth floor of Marin General Hospital is not a normal gathering spot for all-star baseball players, but when Wille Mays of the San Francisco Giants heard that Master R. Miller of the Bon Air Supers was there recuperating from being by an auto July 9, he decided that it would have to do until Robbie could visit him at Candlestick Park.

So it was that at 2 p.m. yesterday, the Giants' star centerfielder dropped in to say hello to the Supers' star second baseman, who had just finished his Little League career before being struck by a car July 9 on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Greenbrae.

The 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Miller of 30 Corte Loyola, Greenbrae, is recovering from head injuries and a broken pelvis and thigh. He had gotten an inkling of the visit last Sunday when Giant radio announcer Russ Hodges mentioned during the game broadcast that he might be getting a surprise of that sort soon.

He recognized Mays as soon as Willie walked into his room, and immediately told him he hoped the Giants would beat St. Louis tonight and go on to win the pennant.

Willie in turn said he hoped that Robbie would get well soon and also that the ball club would emerge from its current tailspin. He brought Robbie a Giant cap, a picture of himself and a ball autographed by the Giant players.

After about a 10-minute visit, Willie again wished Robbie good luck and went out to help his team try to get back on the winning path. Anyone who saw his young friend afterward could have told him he had already helped one ballplayer recover from a losing streak.

J. E. Wilkinson Succumbs At 86

KANSAS CITY (AP) — J. E. Wilkinson, regarded as the father of night baseball, died in a nursing home here yesterday. He was 86.

Wilkinson hit upon the idea of playing games at night in the 1930s, when he managed the Kansas City Monarchs, an all-Negro team he organized in 1920, and with which he barnstormed for many years.

Football Practice Starts For Marin Prep Gridders

By GLENN BECKER

What's the cure, sir, for the lethargy that comes with 95 degree heat on a beautiful day in August?

The cure, son, is football practice.

That's the accepted medication around the seven high schools in the Marin County Athletic League, at any rate, and the gentlemen in charge of dispensing it, otherwise known as coaches, will start attending to their chores with the usual enthusiasm during the next 10 days.

That patch of grass where the most advanced and productive treatment is expected to be applied lies on the campus of Sir Francis Drake High School. Coach Bob Franceschini's team won't start drills until Aug. 31, but he should be pleased on that day by the presence of 21 lettermen from the 1963 team which won eight straight games until losing to San Rafael and being tied for the title by the Bulldogs.

Eight Pirate regulars from last year, including all-league halfback Dean Lazzarini, should inspire a happy toot on Franceschini's whistle, as should a hefty group of linemen from the junior varsity team.

When San Rafael whipped Drake 24-0 last year, the Bulldogs gained their first title share since the North Bay League Section I championship team of 1958 which included end Ron Snidow, now with the Washington Redskins, and current UCLA star tackle Kent Francisco.

Coach Bob Muster of San Rafael High will start workouts Aug. 31 with 12 lettermen from last year, six of whom played a great deal. He is very high on halfback Tim Harr, "potentially one of the best seen around the county in quite a while." Quarterback Ken Lampert, an excellent ballhandler, is important in Muster's plans, as is stocky fullback Rocky Shone off the JV team. Bill O'Bailey, a 210-pound tackle, is a mainstay in the line.

Redwood Coach Bob Troppmann will start his second decade of coaching in Marin County Friday with six lettermen from his 1963 club which lost a share of the crown on a 14-7 defeat by Novato on the last weekend, but still compiled a fine 6-3 record.

Tropp was quite pleased with his spring practice and expects some help from the JV team, which was 6-2 last year, and the frosh squad which was 5-1. Senior center Dick DeBeaubien, a 200-pounder, and ends Bill Kilcoyne and Terry Smith will anchor the Giant line, as they shoot for their fourth title in six years.

The Terra Linda Trojans, who open drills Monday, also had a 6-3 overall mark but were 3-3 in MCAL play. This was the best showing in the school's short history, and coach Pete Limm and his boys are being watched warily by the other coaches, all of whom picked Terra Linda to be near the top.

The 12 returning lettermen are spearheaded by all-league fullback Steve Frazzini. The Trojans will be rather light, as usual, with 195-pound guard Norm Trondson the top man in the line. Limm hopes for good running from halfback Rick Edwards, the MAL 440-yard champion.

Novato coach Marlin Olsen is not accustomed to the kind of season his boys had last year, when they won only two of nine games, and hopes that help from the JV squad that was 6-1-1 will enable the Hornets to win more often.

Six lettermen will greet Olsen Monday, including ends Ron Tieche and Louis Pratt, guards Bob Bonner and Roy Richards and backs Brice Sullivan and Ronnie Rowell. Richards, a junior, is the heaviest at 205. The JV team offers aid at halfback in 180-pound Dickie Otis, whose brother Roy was quarterback last year.

Tamalpais also had a lean 2-7 season in 1963, but the return of 11 lettermen gives coach Pete Belden hope that this can be bettered. Halfback Alex Robertson, a 195-pounder, is not likely to be turned away from Monday's opening workout, nor is 230-pound tackle Harlan Summers, a transfer from Texas.

Another transfer from the Lone Star State, Randy Fontan, will battle letterman Will Stubblebine and ex-JV Barry Warnock for the quarterback post. Belden expects good line play from 200-pound junior tackle Ernie Bergman and 180-pound pound guard Ken Clarke.

The only new varsity head coach in the league is Chuck Vaughan at Marin Catholic, where he was assistant under the departed Doug Damaschino. He will be assisted by Don McCann, who moves over from a similar position at Riordan in San Francisco. The Wildcats won one and lost seven last year, and Vaughan faces a difficult task starting Monday in trying to raise them from the bottom of the league.

PENSIVE POWELL

Boog Powell, injured star of the Baltimore Orioles, sits in a doctor's office in Baltimore waiting for an examination on his left wrist. Dr. James Brooks said ex-rays indicated the injury may not be as bad as first indicated when Powell ran into a fence chasing a fly ball. Another examination is scheduled for Monday to determine how long he will be out of the Orioles lineup. (AP Wirephoto)

CARDINALS DOWN COLTS IN NFL EXHIBITION

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis football Cardinals read an old story — "the best offense is a good defense" — loud and clear to the Baltimore Colts last night.

St. Louis used a blocked field goal, two intercepted passes and a recovered fumble to set up three touchdowns and a field goal for a 30-21 National Football League exhibition victory over the Colts.

The Cardinals blasting defense held the Colts to only 147 yards rushing before a packed house of 32,000 home town fans. It was the first home game for the team since the front office decided not to move to Atlanta. our passers," said Baltimore Coach Don Shula. "We didn't have enough time to throw the football."

But, passing was the only way the Colts could find to move.

They picked up 234 yards passing, including two touchdowns, both on 42-yard pass plays. The other Baltimore touchdown came on a two-yard run.

Cardinal linebacker Dale Meinert set up a 13-7 halftime lead when he intercepted a pass and returned it 26 yards to the four-yard line of the Colts. Quarterback Charley Johnson flipped the ball to Sonny Randle through the center for the touchdown.

Dick Dean, a rookie, recovered a fumbled punt early in the second half on the Baltimore 12 to set up another score.

Then, another rookie, Ken Kortas, blocked a field goal attempt. Pat Fisher picked up the ball and legged it to the Colts' 34 yard line.

Willie Crenshaw went 11 yards for the Cardinals' touchdown. St. Louis scored again on a 38-yard field goal by Jim Bakken set up on a pass interception by Jim Burson.

Colt quarterback Johnny Unitas had a rough time with the Cardinals passing rush and played only a little more than a half. Quarterback Gary Cuozzo tossed both touchdown passes for Baltimore.

St. Louis is 2-1 for the exhibition season and the Colts are 1-1-1.

A full weekend schedule is on tap with two afternoon games today, five tonight and two tomorrow afternoon.

The New York Giants and the Washington Redskins, each 0-2, clash at Ithaca, N.Y., in the Finger Lakes Bowl today. In the other matinee the Boston Patriots, 0-2, and the New York Jets, 1-1, meet at New Brunswick, N.J. On Tuesday night the Jets walloped the Patriots 23-7 at Lowell, Mass.

The defending NFL champions, the Chicago Bears, and the 1962 titleholders, the Green Bay Packers, battle at Milwaukee in the top attraction tonight. The Bears are 2-0 and Green Bay 1-1.

Tonight's other games pit the surprising Minnesota Vikings 2-0 against San Francisco 1-1 at Salt Lake City; Cleveland 1-1 vs. Pittsburgh 0-1 at Akron, Ohio; Dallas, 1-1, vs. Los Angeles 1-1 at Portland, Ore. and the San Diego Chargers 2-0 at Kansas City 2-0 in a battle of two undefeated AFL teams.

Tomorrow, Deteroit 1-0-1, is at Philadelphia, 1-1, in the NFL and Buffalo, 1-1 at Oakland, 1-1, in the AFL.

U.S. Net Tourney Continues

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass. (AP) — Unless the opposition perks up, Chuck McKinley of San Antonio and Dennis Ralston, Bakersfield, Calif. seem certain to retain their national tennis doubles championship in tomorrow's final.

Their opponents in today's semifinals, Frank Froehling, of Coral Gables, Fla. and Charley Pasarell, of Puerto Rico, had a rough time finishing off Arthur Ashe, Richmond, Va. and Billy Bond, La Jolla, Calif. yesterday. The match had been called Thursday with the score tied 9-9 in the fifth and deciding set.

When play resumed Froehling and Parasrell were extended to 18 more games before winning 6-2, 6-4, 4-6, 10-12, 19-17.

In the other half of the draw, Marty Riessen, Evanston, Ill. and Clark Graebner, Beachwood, Ohio, were close to defeat by Britain's Mike Sangster and Graham Stillwell when darkness intervened with the score 6-6 in the fourth set. Riessen and Graebner had won the first set 6-2, but lost the next two 22-20 and 6-3.

After this match is completed today the winners go against unseeded Roy Weedon of Johannes burg, South Africa, and Tim Phillips of Mill Hill, England, in the semis.

Weedon and Phillips defeated the U.S. Army's team of PFC Rudy Hernando of Ft Sill, Okla. and Billy Higgins, Schofield Barracks, Hawaii, 8-6, 3-,6 2-6, 7-5, -64.

Today's women's semifinals matched topped-seeded Margaret Smith and Lesley Turner, Australia, against Nancy Richey, Dallas, and Mrs. Carole Graebner and the St. Louis duo of Justina Bricka and Carol Banks against Billie Jean Moffitt, Long Beach, Calif. and Mrs. Karen Hantze Susman of San Antonio.

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP) — Jim Stanford, 14, pitched a no-hitter last night as San Jose, Calif., defeated Riverside, Calif., 11-0 in the Pony League Western Division playoffs.

The only Riverside player to reach base was one hit by a pitched ball. Tonight Riverside meets Canoga Park-Woodlands Hills, Calif., and the winner of that game meets San Jose Sunday in the final game.

AMERICAN GOLF CLASSICS

Venturi, Collins Tied For Top Spot

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Ken Venturi, golf's comeback candidate of the year, and Bill Collins, struggling to overcome back difficulties, shared the second round lead in the $50,000 American Golf Classic yesterday.

Venturi, whose career nearly ended when he suffered a muscle spasm in the back two years ago, shot the best round of the tournament yesterday, a 33-33—66 for a 137 total.

Collins, who had a spinal disc removed from his back one year ago and then had to wihdraw from the Western Open three weeks ago with more back ailments, shot a 3-35—67.

Venturi, the U.S. Open champion played picture golf. He started using a new driver for the first time in seven years at the Western Open in Chicago and apparently got the feel of it as he missed only two fairways in a round which included four birdies.

Collins had three birdies, all on the front nine, including one ton a 67-foot chip shot. Neither of the leaders had a bogey.

Mason Rudolph had three birdies, all on the front nine, including one on a 67-foot chip shot. Neither of the leaders had a bogey.

Mason Rudolph shot a 33-35—68 for a total of 138 and was the only other player to complete 36 holes under par.

Masters champion Arnold Palmer, first round leader with a 68, slumped to a 37-36—73 as he three-putted four greens. That placed Palmer in a tie for fifth, four strokes off the pace and one shot behind Tony Lema, who had a 36-35—71 for a 140 total.

Jack Nicklaus, the year's leading money winner, forged into contention with a 34-35—69 and 142 total. Nicklaus was one of seven who broke par yesterday despite having two three-putt greens.

PGA champion Bobby Nichols, who will join Venturi, Palmer and Lema in next month's World Series of Golf, continued struggling with the 7,165-yard course after shooting a 75 Thursday. Nichols had a 38-39—77 in the second round of the 72-hole tournament for a 152 total.

Free-Swinging Fight Winds Up In Draw

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Persol and Henry Hank, a couple of pretty fair fighters as fighters go these days, fought to a draw in an exciting 10-rounder last night in the last of the weekly television bouts at Madison Square Garden.

A crowd of 5,219 enjoyed the brisk bout that rang down the New York curtain on the free television fights that have been put on by a razor blade company for 20 straight years. The longest continuous network television show winds up on Dec. 11 in Cleveland.

After the Cleveland program, the Garden will try and run fights about twice a month as a money-making business without the television subsidy.

It will be interesting to see if boxing can bounce back on a boxoffice basis. One test may be the projected return bout at the Garden Oct. 23 between Persol, the fifth ranking light heavyweight contender from New York, and Hank, the unranked veteran from Detroit.

They put on a free-swinging affair that drew constant applause from the live audience. The draw verdict was well received.

The two judges, Tony Rossi and Tony Castellano, each called it even, five rounds for each. Referee Art Mercante had it for Hank 6-4 rounds. The AP scorecard had Pesrol in front, 5-4-1. Boxing writers had it 8-7 for Persol with four calling it even. It was a real tossup fight.

There were no knockdowns but the two belted each other freely in a see-saw contest. Persol was cut over the left eye and Hank was sliced on the right cheekbone. A last round spurt by Persol enabled him to gain the draw with a 3-1 underdog.

Persol weighed 172½ pounds to Hank's 174.

The fight had a tragic ending for Hank. Max Handler, 57, his Detroit adviser, became ill during the second round. He collapsed and died in the office of the Garden's physician.

Not long ago Hank's former manager, Harry (Scotty) Baxer, died after a heart attack in Scotland.

Hub City Softball Tourney Moves Into Final Week

Three teams remain in contention as the San Anselmo Invitational Softball Tournament moves into the final weekend of action with a single game tonight and a crucial doubleheader tomorrow.

Hamilton Field (2-1) must beat Indian Valley Lumber (2-2) tonight at 6:30 o'clock and then hope Sohner Tree Service (1-3) can upset Fairchild Conductor (4-0) at 1 o'clock tomorrow.

Perry's Delicatessen (2-1) must also root for a Sohner victory and then must defeat winless Capella Bros. (0-4) at 3:30 tomorrow.

Perry's and Hamilton are scheduled to replay their 3-3 tie Monday evening. All games are played at San Anselmo's Memorial Park.

In last night's action, Sohner Tree Service was awarded a forfeit victory when Capella could not field nine players at game time.

The two teams played a practice game with Sohner nabbing a 5-1 victory behind the 17-strikeout pitching of Earl Loew. Joe Bauer homered for the winners.

Constellation Again Beats The 'Eagle'

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Constellation broke through on the last leg of the 24.3 mile course yesterday and defeated American Eagle by one minute and eight seconds in the final trials for U. S. yachts seeking the right to defend the America's Cup.

Constellation had trailed by 22 seconds around the last leeward mark of the course 4.5 miles from the finish line. But 10 minutes after rounding the mark Bob Bavier, who was sailing Constellation, snapped his boat around and started a tacking duel with American Eagle's skipper, Bill Cox.

Each boat tacked 17 times in 15 minutes and when America's Eagle was a bit slow in covering the 17th tack, Constellation sailed through the other boat's lee and got her wind clear.

From that point on there was no holding Constellation.

This was Constellation's second straight victory over American Eagle in the final trials.

The two boats were scheduled for another race today over the same 24.3 mile course. They will have a day off tomorrow and then race next week until the New York Yacht Club selection committee picks one of them to defend the America's Cup in the series with the British challenger starting Sept 15.

Third and fourth in scoring went to Nick Willard of Monti's with 172 and Tom O'Neil of Don's Market with 164. Both played 11 games.

Pinky's won its game over Taveggia-Brusatti 59-52 Thursday. Steve Bryant of the winners and Bob Phillips of T-B both had 17 points and Fred Arnold of T-B had 16. Monti's clobbered Boero 70-46 Wednesday with Rod Monti hitting 20 for Boero.

In other games, Don's Market waxed Ghilotti 53-25 Wednesday, Billings-Hutchison routed the Old Soldiers 67-47 and Eberhart's clipped Andrewson 69-63 Thursday.

Hall finished with a 10-1 mark and Pinky's and Monti's tied at 9-2. Hall's only loss was to Eberhart's Service when Lee and some others were not informed that there was a game that night.

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — Former champions Barbara McIntire and Jo Anne Gunderson, two golfers who never have played each other before, met today for the silver champion's cup in the 64th U.S. Women's Amateur Golf tournament.

Also at stake was a probable position on America's Curtis Cup team and perhaps a spot on the first women's international team from the United States.

Hardtop Races Slated Tonight

Bay Cities Racing Assn. drivers will be back tonight to take up where they left off last week in smash-'em-up hardtop race action at Vallejo Speedway.

Only eight of the original field of 20 cars were still rolling when the checkered flag came down on last week's main event.

Tonight's nine-race card opens with time trials at 7:30, with heat racing to start at 8:30.

St. Raphael's Allows Shift In Customary Rosary Rites

DEMOS HEAR OF SCHOOL PRAYER

Francis B. Burch, left, national chairman of the Constitutional Prayer Foundation, huddles with former Sen. William Benton of Connecticut at the Democratic platform meeting in Atlantic City Thursday. Burch urged that a platform panel headed by Benton should recommend a constitutional amendment overturning the recent Supreme Court decision that banned prayers in public schools. Many churches, however, are backing the high court's opinion on separation of church and state. (AP Wirephoto)

Recitation May Now Be In Church

St. Raphael's Church has become probably the first Roman Catholic church in the Bay Area to conduct Recitation of the Rosary within its chapels.

Customary procedure throughout the West has been for the Rosary, a prelude to Requiem Mass, to be said in the private chapels of mortuaries the evening before the funeral mass. Usually, the funeral cortege is formed at the mortuary the day of the mass, and the casket is taken to the church a few minutes before the mass.

Msgr. Daniel McAlister of St. Raphael's explained that the innovation has come about because "some persons thought it would lend more dignity to the funeral services."

Fairly widespread in Eastern parishes, the practice of reciting the Rosary in the church—and bringing the casket into the church the evening before the Requiem Mass—has not been tried previously in California, Msgr. McAlister believes. "This is just a local thing," he said.

Funeral homes in the area are feeling some effects of the innovation. Normally, an attendant is stationed near the casket in the funeral chapel throughout the night preceding the funeral; it may now become necessary to employ additional staff to remain in the church chapels until they are locked for the night.

Some concern has been voiced over leaving the caskets unattended overnight. The question of recitations for several deceased, under the auspices of different funeral homes, the same evening in the same church, has also arisen.

Msgr. McAlister feels that this problem can be met without objections by use of the main sanctuary and the Mission Chapel or another chapel.

Other mortuary firms also have expressed concern over the possible problem of conducting several recitations in different churches the same evening—thus creating additional staff needs.

New Rector Takes Post In Sausalito

The Rev. John Stuart Thornton, rector-elect at Christ Episcopal Church, Sausalito, will conduct the services at both 8 and 10 a.m. tomorrow. Mr. Thornton, who will succeed the Rev. Joseph S. Doron upon his retirement Sept. 30, arrived at his new post this week.

A graduate of the University of Indiana, he attended the Yale Divinity School and was graduated from the San Francisco Theological Seminary. He completed special studies at the Church Divinity School of the Pacific and was ordained in 1962. He is well known to members of the congregation of Christ Church, having served there as Seminarian in 1961 and 1962.

Prior to his call to return to Sausalito, he served as Curate of St. Peter's Episcopal Church in Sheridan, Wyo. from June of 1962 through July of 1964. While in Sheridan he was named "outstanding young man of the year" by the Sheridan Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Thirty years old, he is married and the father of two children, John, Jr., 3, and Andrea, 1½. He and Mrs. Thornton are now at home in the rectory adjoining the church.

85 San Quentin Inmates Receive Confirmation

Eighty-five inmates of San Quentin Prison received the rites of confirmation August 16 conferred by His Excellency Merlin Guilfoyle, auxiliary bishop and vicar-general of San Francisco.

The confirmation ceremony, which is held every two years at the prison, was sponsored by San Quentin's chief medical officer Dr. H. A. Gross, and Joseph D'Angelo, formerly head of the Narcotic Treatment Unit.

The afternoon rites were conducted at the institution's Our Lady of the Rosary Chapel.

Pastor John W. Mullen and Fr. Thomas F. Ahern are the prison's Catholic chaplains.

Hawaiian Music To Be Presented In Church

The Assembly of God Church of San Rafael, 517 D Street will present Elsie and Gene Jaggers in a sacred concert of Hawaiian music tomorrow at 11 a.m.

Mrs. Jaggers, a former student of the late Sol Hoopii, is one of today's leading Hawaiian steel guitar artists, according to Pastor L. H. Sheets.

The public is invited to hear "The Sound of Hawaii," presented by these recording artists, Rev. Sheets said.

Congregation Holds Traditional Picnic

Members of San Rafael's First Methodist Church and friends attended an old-fashioned picnic Sunday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Louis Luster Robinson.

After potluck dinner, group singing, games and croquet, the guests were invited to tour the mansion, built in 1895 by founders of the former Hitchcock Military Academy.

Guest Due In Pulpit Of Mill Valley Church

Dr. Fred I. Drexler of Mill Valley will officiate at the service Sunday morning at the First Baptist Church of Mill Valley.

His sermon will be on the theme "the greatest man who ever took second place."

Dr. Drexler will take the pulpit in the absence of the church's regular pastor, John A MacDonald.

County-Wide Youth Group Opens Membership Drive

Regis club members will open a membership drive tomorrow with an outing to Angel Island for a chicken barbecue, softball and other activities.

The club is open to any single young Catholic adult, ages 21 to 31 years, within the 14 parishes of Marin County. Membership chairman is Pat Liebert, 149 Greenfield Avenue, San Rafael.

"Seven marriages within the past two months have decimated the club membership somewhat," Miss Liebert explains.

The Rev. John Mullen, chaplain of San Quentin Prison, has been adviser and sponsor of the group since it was organized in 1961 as the TGA (To Get Acquainted) Club. The name was changed to Regis Club to signify that membership offers religious as well as social opportunities.

The group will meet for tomorrow's outing at 9:30 a.m. in front of St. Raphael's Church.

In addition to local social outings and joint ventures such as Lake Tahoe trips with other Catholic social clubs, the Marin County group sponsors Communion Sundays and Days of Recollection in the various parishes. Other programs include discussions, debates and question box sessions.

Short business sessions are held at 8 p.m. on the first and third Thursdays of each month.

$75,000. 13 acres exact center of the Valley of the Moon. 360 degree view of the Sun and Moon. Potentially the most valuable land in this fast growing area. Park-like acreage situated on main Sonoma Hwy. #12. Several unbelievably romantic tree-covered knolls. All natural building sites in an overall mysteriously alluring environment. But this is only part of it. There's a very sound 3 bedroom home, a big red barn that can be remodeled to live in, barn dance parties. Excellent for Horses. An artesian well, one of the best anywhere. A huge water tank at ground level built like a battle ship that squeels, "Use me for a swimming pool." There's more, much more intrinsically speaking.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Answer About Where To Find False Nose Was Not A Joke

VAN DELLEN

Anything that sounds ridiculous could be mistaken for sarcasm or a sign of ignorance. A woman wrote to us and wanted to know where her husband, who had been in an accident, could get a false nose. I told her to consult a plastic surgeon, a makeup artist, or a salesman in a novelty shop.

A critical and somewhat mean letter (unsigned) came to the office a few days later. "For sheer ignorant sarcasm, this reply takes the prize. Training that turns out professionals of your ilk should be eliminated or else dispense with the Hippocratic oath and just turn out monsters. You certainly added nothing to this poor woman's peace of mind. Years of training and thousands of dollars to turn out a juvenile smart alec."

THE ANSWER was not intended to be sarcastic. I suppose we could have told this woman to ask the surgeon taking care of her husband but such a reply would not be informative for the rest of our readers. Our critic obviously is not acquainted with the lifelike plastic masks and other prostheses used to cover unsightly wounds and defects.

The technic of making prostheses has improved over the years and such devices are widely employed by the medical and dental professions. Much credit goes to the progress made in developing the materials used; many of the newer plastics and light materials are made to order for this purpose. A Mayo Clinic dentist recently won an award at a medical convention for his exhibit of facial prostheses.

WE SUGGESTED a makeup artist or a salesman in a novelty shop because these people handle products of this type and might be able to suggest the name of a manufacturer who could help along this line. Plastic surgeons utilize these prostheses as temporary and inexpensive coverups while reconstructing the nose.

Cutting off the nose was a common form of punishment in the days of Hippocrates. These criminals would have welcomed a crude facsimile of our modern masks worn at Halloween or as a gag.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

SPOTS BEFORE THE EYES

B. C. writes: Can floaters be removed from in front of the eyes by operation?

REPLY

No, but the spots may disappear spontaneously or become smaller and less dense. Many are permanent but it is surprising how often the person becomes accustomed to the affliction and no longer complains. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaftlet on spots before the eyes.

FREE CHOICE

L. S. writes: Do you think it disloyal of a patient to go to a doctor for a complete checkup other than the one she has been seeing for 24 years?

REPLY

In this country, we have the right to select our own physician. The woman in question must have her own good reasons for wanting to change.

CHIGGERS IN THE SKIN

L. M. writes: Are chigger bites dangerous?

REPLY

No, but they cause itching which may be so annoying as to disturb sleep. Now and then scratching breaks the skin, thus inviting infection. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on chiggers.

ATOMIC COCKTAIL

G. E. writes: I have to drink a radioactive iodine concoction because of a thyroid condition. Does the doctor suspect cancer?

REPLY

Probably not. This solution is used also to diagnose over- or underactivity of the gland.

Today's health hint — Give poison oak a wide berth.

ADMIRABLE ADOLESCENTS

This Youth Has Sights On Stars

By ALAN CUNNINGHAM
Sixth of a series

Back in the town of Okuchi, Japan, young Toshide Ushino had a pair of binocular with which to view, among other things, the stars in that country's clear skies.

Today, in San Rafael, the boy wishes he could send for some of that clear sky to substitute for fog, smog and the glow of city lights.

Those binoculars were the start of an interest in astronomy which led Toshide, as a 13-year-old in America, to build his own four and one-quarter inch reflecting telescope.

The project began just before school got out in June and ended one recent night when, after gazing happily at the stars for several minutes, he announced to his family the job was done.

Neighbors, old and young, soon trooped over to the hillside house at 287 Bungalow Avenue for a look at the craters on the moon.

The scope, a long square wooden box on a tripod, stood in the driveway the next afternoon as Toshide, his brother Kiyotoshi and a neighbor explained its workings to a reporter.

Toshide, a shy boy who likes to take things apart to see how they work, laughingly referred to his new instrument as "a piece of junk," then let his 16-year-old brother do most of the talking.

The older boy kidded his brother a bit about the way he likes to build things himself, refusing any help, and doesn't hear his mother calling for dinner when he is wrapped up in a project.

But brotherly pride kept working its way into his remarks.

The binoculars came first. They traveled with the boys and their mother in 1961 when they came here to join their father. Tom Ushino. They were later replaced by another pair, manufactured by the famed Nikon Co., which friends arranged to have sent from Japan.

When the boy grew interested in watching the stars with binoculars, he was encouraged to buy a telescope. He bought a 50 power refraction instrument, paying for it with money he earned by helping his father, a gardener on Saturdays.

"He is not satisfied with things he buys," however, his brother explains. Toshide wanted greater magnification, and he knew that the best kind of scope to look at stars is a reflector, like the big ones at observatories.

Sending off for grinding powders, he got a "blank" piece of glass and started trying to grind a mirror.

This proved to be a difficult task. After weeks of grinding, he concluded the surface was almost, but not quite, right. He started over but it got worse.

With reluctance, Toshide wrote off this part of the "do-it-yourself" project and sent for a professionally ground mirror and eyepiece.

The rest of the scope is all his own work, including a short section, sawed from a broom handle, on which is mounted a small mirror at an angle between the eyepiece and the large mirror.

A small book titled "How To Build A Telescope," (much of which the boy confessed was obscure to him because he is still mastering the English language) was his only guide.

Toshide said he hopes to be an engineer some day. He was unsure whether he would eventually build another, larger telescope.

He wants to add a few things to this one, however, such as a small "finder scope," which works much like a gunsight in picking out stars in the heavens. And the greatest dream in his mind would be to add a motor drive to compensate for the earth's rotation.

But a glow of excitement came into the eyes of both boys when they recalled news stories of a 19-year-old youth in Japan who discovered a hitherto unknown star with his own home-made telescope.

"I think Toshide will build another one," said Kiyotoshi.

Non-Graded Teachers' Workshop

Teachers in the non-graded Granada School now under construction in the Reed Union School District, will attend a workshop next week in preparation for the fall opening of the school.

The school is constructed in a series of hexagons, leading into one another without interior walls, and has been designed for use under the team teaching concept.

The workshop is part of the study session which teachers have undertaken since last January and will be led by Harvard and Stanford university professors and teachers experienced in team teaching. It is aimed at refining the team teaching methods which have been used in many classes in other schools in the district.

The majority of the Granada staff has been drawn from other schools in the district where teachers have had some experience with team teaching, Supt. Edward C. Pino explained.

The Granada school will be used by six to 11 year old children taught by "teams" of teachers.

Some 70 Inverness residents picked up four car loads of litter in one mile of beach area Wednesday afternoon at a Drakes Bay Beach clean-up project.

The community effort was organized by Mrs. James Whitney, Mrs. Jack Hamilton, and the Inverness Junior Yacht Club. The clean-up committee members had a picnic supper and a song fest after the work was completed.

A Hike Along The High Sierra's Spine

Marin Scouts Cover The Rugged John Muir Trail

By DON KEOWN

It took some 40 years for the John Muir Trail to move from its conception by the Sierra Club leadership to its completion in 1938.

And it took seven members of Explorer Scout Post 88, ages 14 to 16, from San Rafael and Greenbrae, accompanied by their post adviser, Dr. B. D. (Bud) Kimball, three weeks to hike its 215 miles along the spine of the High Sierra this summer.

IT WAS A never-to-be-forgotten walk and climb that began for the youths at Happy Isle in Yosemite National Park and ended on the farside of towering Mount Whitney at Whitney Portals, after taking them into rugged canyons, across pleasant meadows, through thick forests, and over steep passes.

Theodore S. Solomons had first conceived the idea of a trail along the backbone of the Sierra range, keeping as near the crest as possible, shortly after the formation of the Sierra Club in 1892. He led a series of expeditions by club members into the mountains to explore its possibilities.

Then, in 1898, Joseph N. LeConte took up the project. With the aid of fellow club members, he explored canyons and passes to the south of where the Solomons parties had made their probes.

IN 1914, THE Sierra Club appointed a committee to seek state assistance in the construction of such a trail. And when John Muir, beloved conservationist and first president of the Sierra Club, died, it was decided that the proposed trail should be named the John Muir Trail as a memorial to him.

In 1915, the state legislature appropriated $10,000 to begin the project.

State Engineer Wilbur F. McClure was handed the assignment of selecting a route for the trail. He relied heavily upon material collected by the Sierra Club members on their exploratory expeditions along with his own observations in the field, and chose the route that the trail still follows.

Next he enlisted the services of the U.S. Forest Service for supervision of the actual trail construction.

SIERRA CLUB efforts resulted in additional $10,000 appropriations by the legislature in 1917, 1925, 1927 and 1929. There state allocations for the building of the John Muir Trail ceased. And still unconstructed were two sections over difficult passes.

The National Park Service and the U.S. Forest Service completed one of these sections, from the Kern to the Kings River over Foresters Pass, in 1932.

In 1938, the Forest Service added the final link, up Palisade Creek from the headwaters of the Kings River middle fork over Mather Pass to the headwaters of the Kings south fork.

The trail is now the maintenance responsibility of the National Park Service and the U.S. Forest Service.

AND THE Sierra Club continues to keep a watchful eye on the trail they helped bring to realization, feeling that it serves well their original purpose of rendering accessible to the more adventurous the mountainous regions once too remote and rugged for most mankind to enjoy.

The Marin Explorer Scouts can testify as to the grandeur of the scenery through which the John Muir Trail penetrates.

"Simply unbelievable," says Sam Brown, one of the youthful hikers.

They can testify, too, to the challenge of the terrain.

"IT'S VERY much up and down, and a lot more up than down," Brown says.

While the Scouts were 21 days from the start to the finish of their grueling walk, they were actually but 19 days on the trail. Two days were spent in camp, resting and recuperating tired feet and sore muscles.

The boys thus finished their hike a full four days ahead of the schedule that Sierra Club officials had mapped out for them, their adviser, Dr. Kimball, notes proudly.

"VETERAN HIKERS have told us that we made very good time," he adds.

Prior hiking experience for the boys had been restricted to trips up Mount Tamalpais and similar jaunts, although several of them had done some "backpacking" over shorter distances.

Of the eight boys who began the long hike, only two were forced to drop out, one with leg trouble, the other with a bad foot — "he wore his brother's boots, and they didn't fit." The foot healed and proper footgear obtained, the latter rejoined the hikers.

BACKPACKS averaged 40 pounds per boy.

Dehydrated food made up a substantial portion of their menus.

They supplemented their menu with chocolate, peanuts, cheese, crackers, fortified punch and with some fish caught in the streams.

THERE WAS meat when Sam's father, John Brown, met them at the base of Pechot Pass with supplies he had brought in by pack horse. And twice, when the hikers dropped off the trail to pack stations to pick up their own supplies.

The boys and Dr. Kimball were equipped with light mummy bags for sleeping, and the warmth was appreciated. Temperatures ranged from 80 degrees in the day hours to 28 degrees at night, and many of the high lakes were still frozen over.

The trail, itself, was in "pretty good shape," the boys report, "except for the high passes."

It was one of the more level stretches encountered by the youths in their grueling hike over the 215-mile-long John Muir Trail this summer that began in Yosemite National Park and ended with the climbing of Mount Whitney. IN YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK at one of the lowest elevations along the John Muir Trail is the national monument known as the Devil's Postpile. It can be visited easily by the general public, since it is accessible by road.

THIS STONE HUT at the crest of John Muir Pass was constructed by the Sierra Club as a resting place and as overnight shelter for hikers on the John Muir Trail. The Marin Explorers made use of its friendly confines and are seen here after shedding their packs.

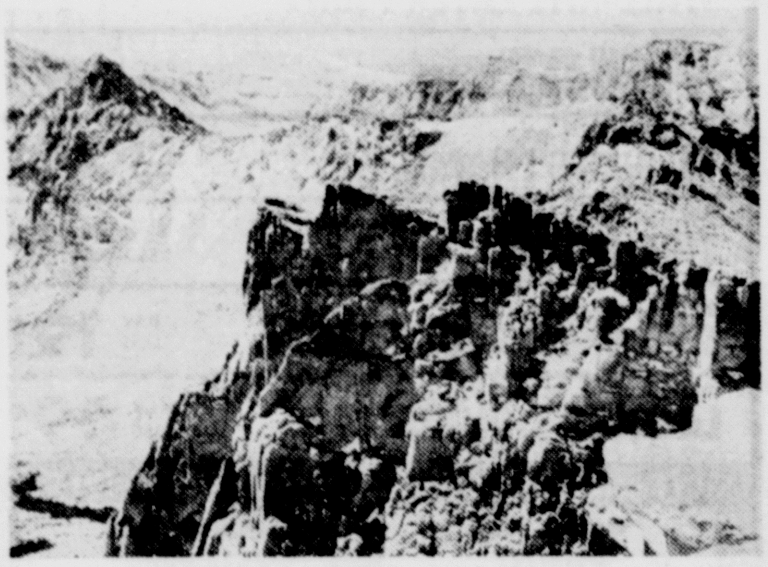
AT THE TOP of Glen Pass, 11,900 feet, Explorer Scout Sam Brown posed for this picture. The hikers were then in the region of the south fork of the Kings River, with the 13,200-foot Foresters Pass ahead of them as their next challenge.

THIS MARKER was erected by the National Park Service to designate the summit of Mt. Whitney and its elevation of 14,496.8 feet—also its role as the southern anchor for the John Muir High Sierra Trail.



SCENIC GRANDEUR such as this rewarded the Explorer Scouts for their toil as they hiked the John Muir Trail that follows closely along the crest of the High Sierra. Here you are looking southwest from Mount Whitney, the highest point of a hike conducted generally at towering elevations. From here the youths could look down at the base and approach to Whitney where they had previously climbed.

AT THE SUMMIT of Mount Whitney, Explorer Post 88 members and their adviser, Dr. B. D. (Bud) Kimball, posed for this picture. The climb up Whitney was part of a final-day 23-mile hike in which the Scouts completed their trip by foot along the John Muir Trail. They covered the 215 miles in 21 days—19 days actual hiking time.

A DAY'S HIKE comes to an end, and camp is set up at Vidette Meadows. But before beginning their camp chores, the Explorer Scout party from Marin enjoys a bit of well-earned rest. Wearing the beard in the center, backgrond, is Dr. B. D. Kimball, post adviser for the Explorers.

Marin Youths Accept Challenge Of Sierra

Scouts hit it early while there was still a heavy snowpack on the trail.

The hardest part of the hiking, however, was the "psychological ups and downs," Sam Brown says.

"Yet," he hastens to add, "we enjoyed it. We never became really discouraged."

HOW DID the boys come to take on such an ambitious hiking project?

Dr. Kimball exp'ains: "The boys needed some kind of a summer project and they wanted one that would be a real challenge. It was Sam's father, who had had experience with the High Sierra, who suggested the hike a'ong the John Muir Trail."

Brown was to hike along with the boys for two days, in addition to packing in the supplies for them near the midway point in their long walk.

Sore feet were the only "injuries" suffered by the boys, except for the one youth who had to leave the party because of leg difficulties.

Along with the feet and hiking boots, clothing took a beating from the rocks.

"WE ALL wore out the seats of our pants," Brown says.

And along with the sore feet and the memories of impressive views of mountain scenery from the high passes, the boys brought back some laughs. Such as the day in Blaine Meadows when they almost stepped on a rattlesnake.

"We had warned the boys only the day before that snakes were a possibility because of the warm temperatures," Dr. Kimball says.

The average elevation at which the boys hiked was 8,500 feet, from a low of 7,500 feet to a high of 14,496—the summit of Mount Whitney.

AND ALTHOUGH it included the climb up Whitney, the last day's hike was the longest of the trip as the Souts covered a total of 23 miles.

"That was because our feet were hurting, and we were anxious to get to the end of the trail," Brown grins.

DR. KIMBALL winces. "Well, not real soon."

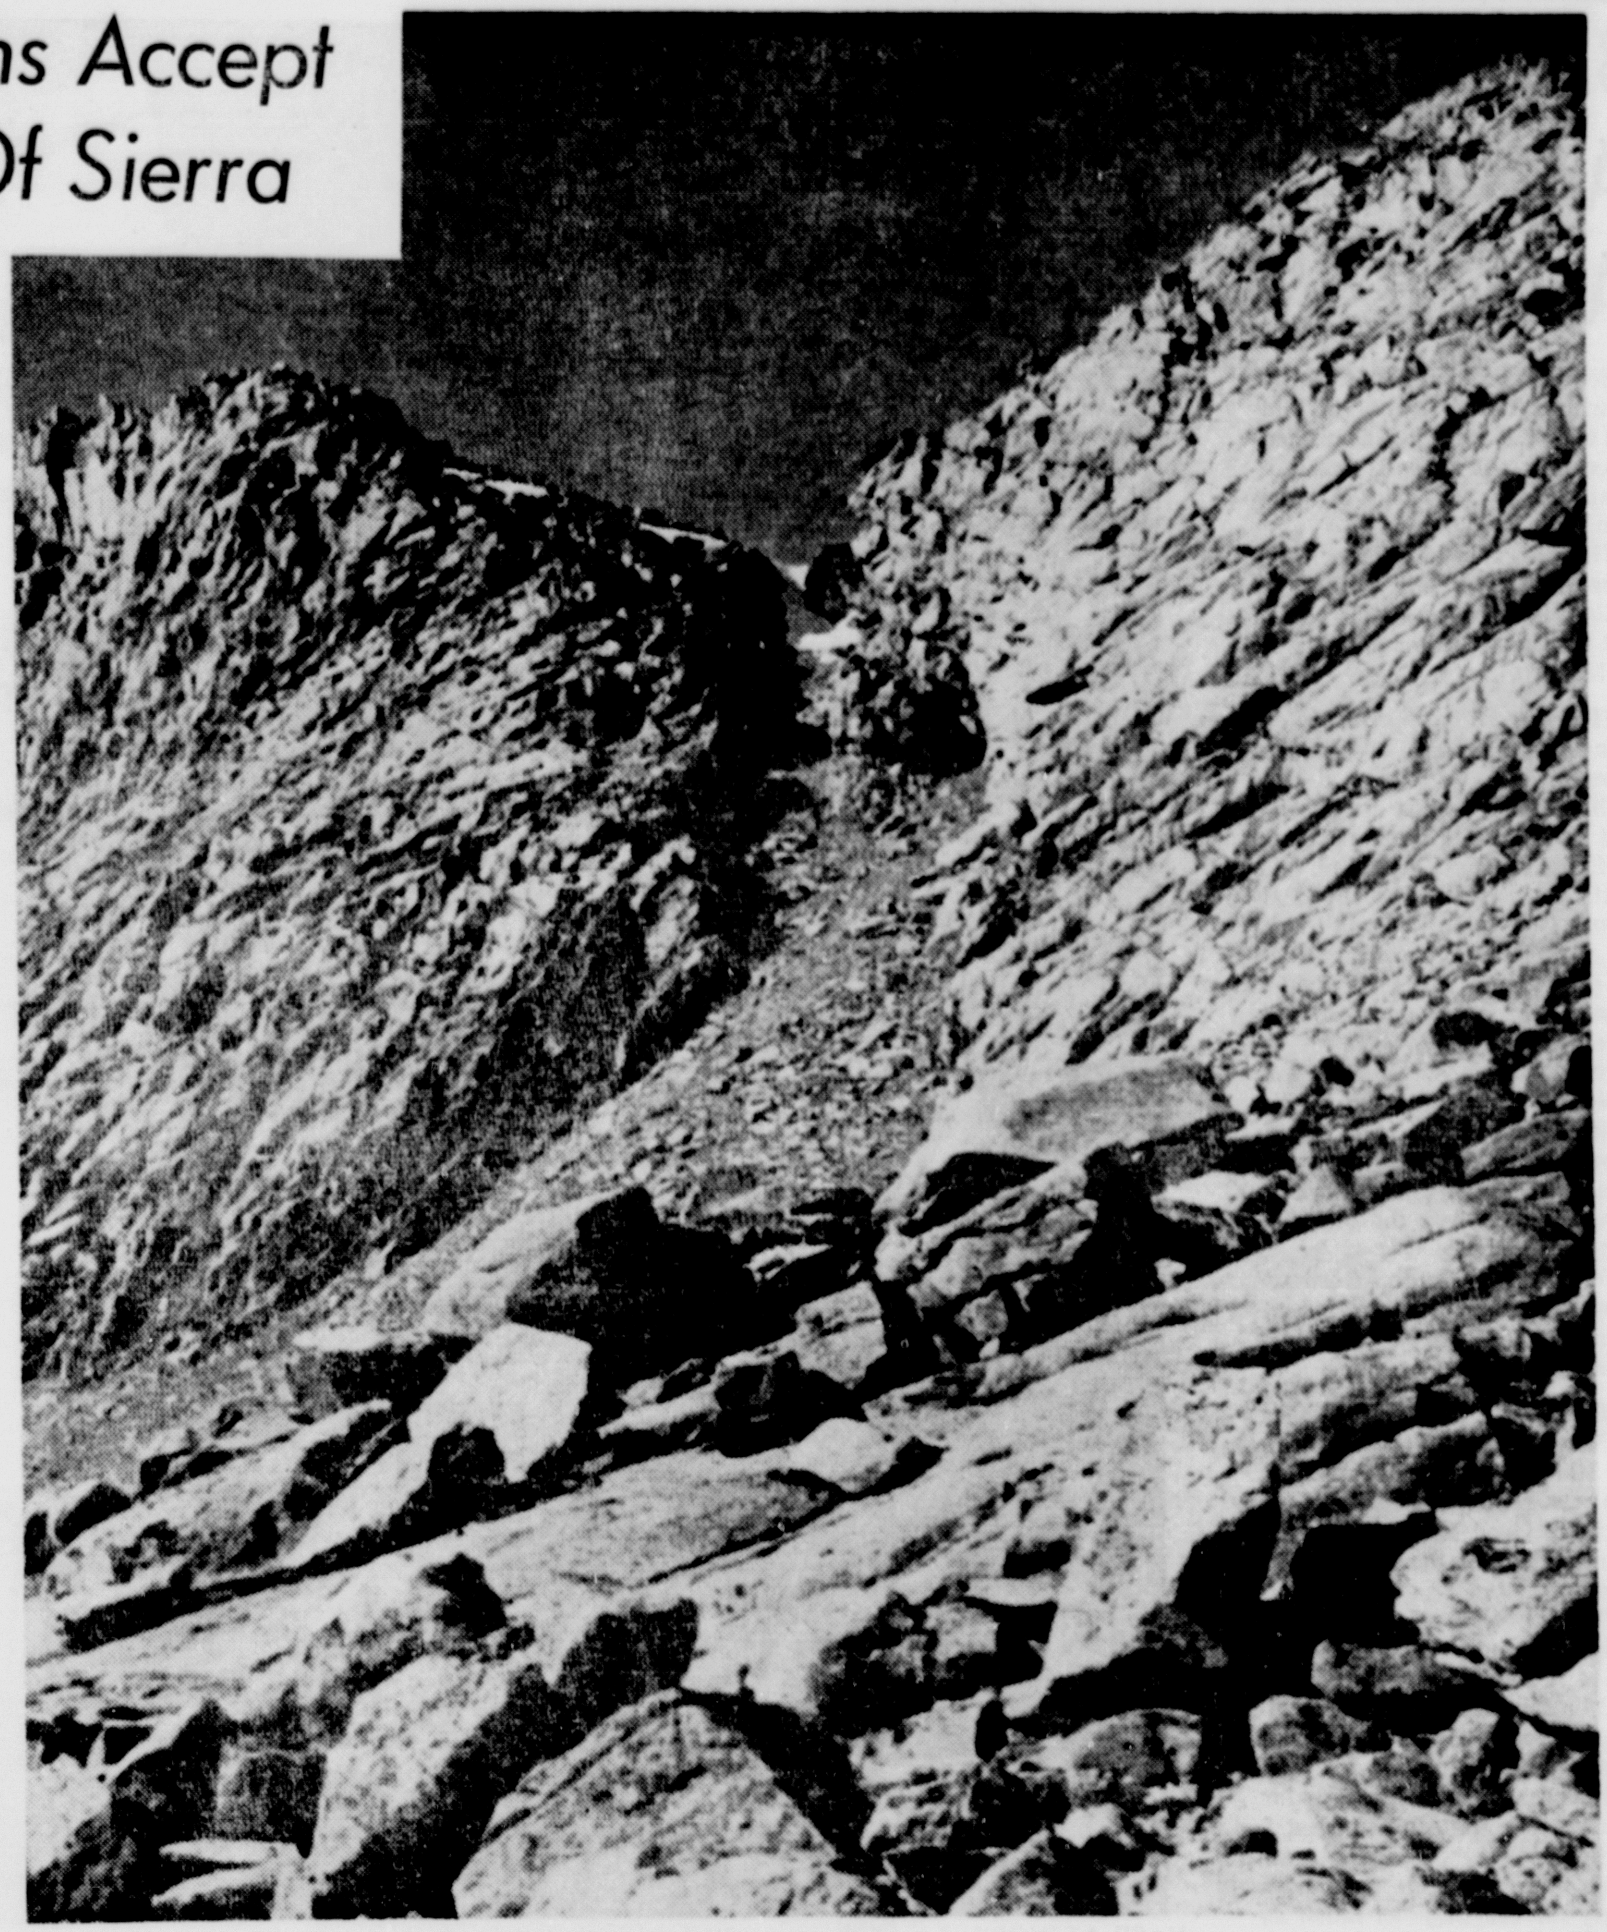
Agrees Sam: "Give me another year, at least."

Seriously, they did add that they would prefer for future "strolls" into the High Sierra to be at a more leisurely pace – "so that we could take more time for exploration, and really see and enjoy the surroundings to the fullest."

THE ROSTER of hikers in addition to Bud Kimball and Sam Brown included Marty Burgess, Vic Gengler, Dave Gonzalez, Brad Leininger, Dave Ottesen and Bob Swanson.

And never again will they be impressed with talk about 50-mile hikes on the comparative level, or climbs up Mount Tamalpais.

They feel they have accomplished the "granddaddy" of all the hikes as far as California trails are concerned.



THE MARIN SCOUTS saw this sight as they approached rugged Foresters Pass near the end of their 215 mile hike. The photo of the forbidding terrain ahead was actually taken at a distance a full mile away from the pass. The gap is 13,200-feet elevation. (Photos by Sam Brown)

Bill New And His Aries II

Resting in her berth at the Sausalito Yacht Harbor or gliding over the waters of San Francisco Bay, the Aries II is a sailboat that attracts a lot of attention from yachtsmen.

This, her proud skipper, William W. New of Mill Valley, explains, is because she is one of but two boats in her class in all of Marin County.

THE CLASS is the Vertue, designed in England by Laurent Giles in 1945.

Giles took as his model for that initial gaff-rigged pleasure craft the sturdy English pilot boats and especially the Falmouth Quay Punt, a small fishing vessel that was the product of years and years of British nautical know-how and trial-and-error.

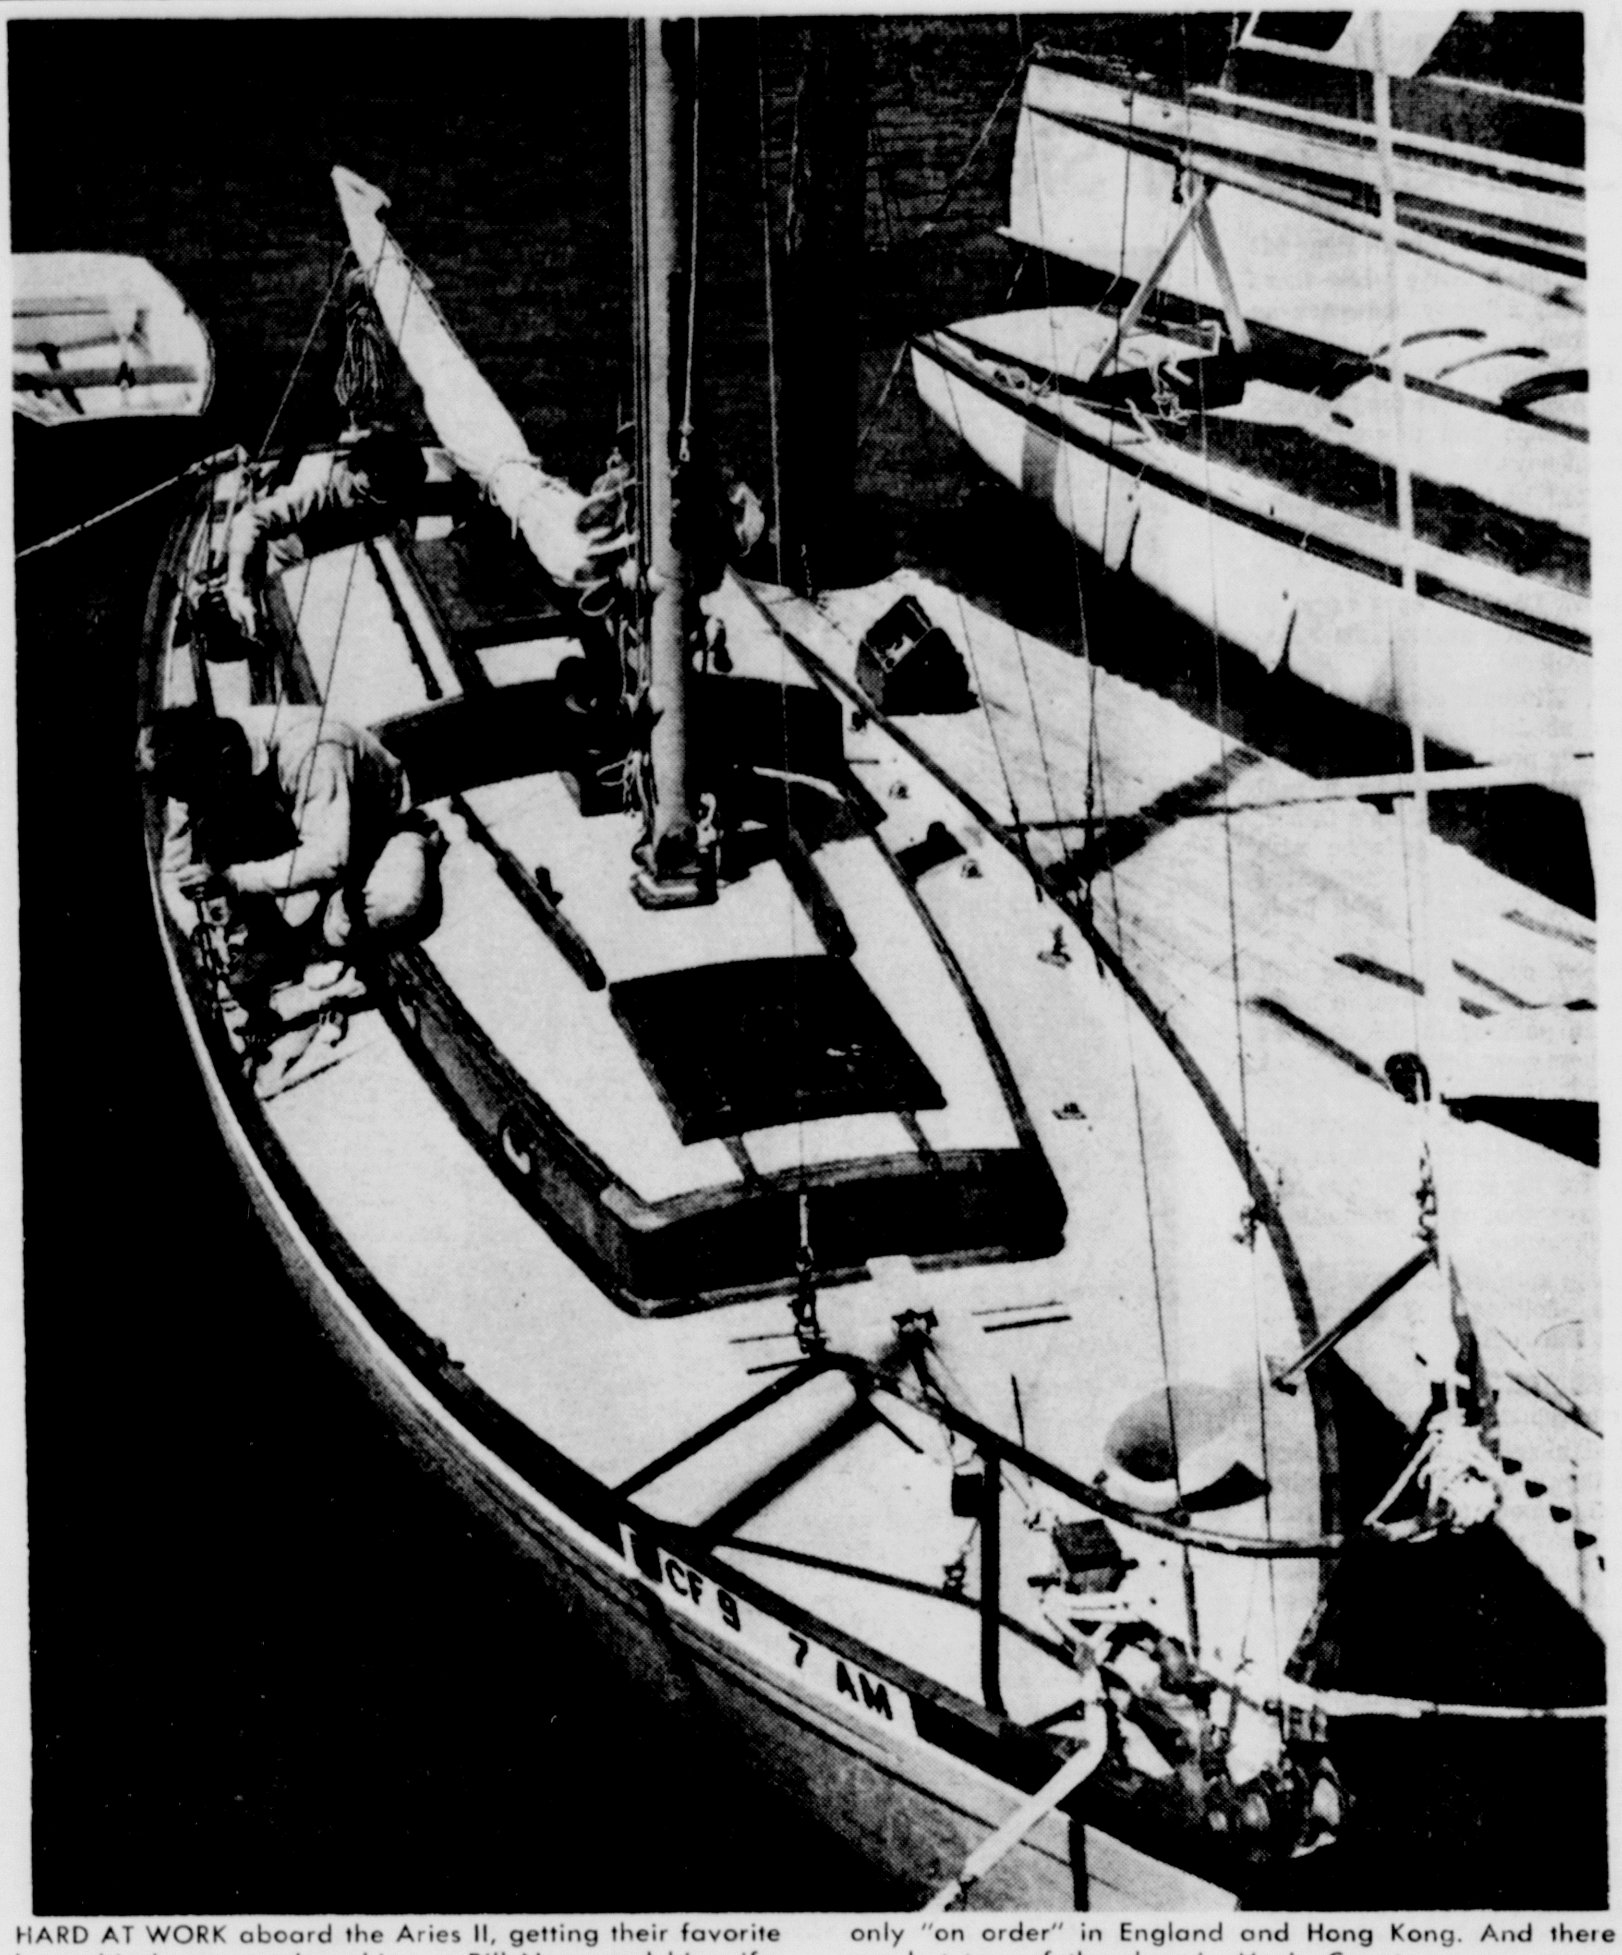
Since that initial Vertue was designed, only 120 have been built, most of them in England. Some, however, are the products of the Cheoy Lee Yard in Hong Kong where the Aries II was turned out.

Vertues are "built to order," New says, since they are too expensive a craft to be manufactured for speculative sale.

THE ARIES II was Vertue No. 60. New bought her eight months ago through Pete Fromhagen who was selling the sailboat for a friend, Gene Erickson, then commandant of the Presidio at Monterey.

Why did New, an engineering designer, want a Vertue? He explains it this way:

"I had had other boats including a Maya, a Japanese-designed and built boat with a 23-foot displacement that was fine for racing and some cruising. But I wanted greater on-board accommodations and maximum safety for cruising—as much as I could get in the small cruise boat category. And the Vertue with an overall length of 25 feet, three inches, answers those requirement perfectly."



HARD AT WORK aboard the Aries II, getting their favorite boat shipshape, are her skipper, Bill New, and his wife, Mary, of Mill Valley. The Vertue class boats are built only "on order" in England and Hong Kong. And there are but two of the class in Marin County.

NEW SAYS the Aries II offers full headroom in her "doghouse," sleeps three, has a head and a galley.

The Aries II carries a masthead genoa for light weather, a masthead spinnaker for running before the wind.

"She originally came with an eight-horsepower Stewart-Turner engine, but that wasn't quite enough power for this coast," the skipper says. "I installed an Atomic 30-horse, four-cylinder inboard engine, and that gives me all the power I need and more."

The Aries II is a heavy displacement boat, built of solid teak except for a frame of tropical Ipol and a stem and keel of Yacal.

She displaces four and two-tenths tons and has a 4,500-pound keel. "And that is a lot of weight for a small boat," New observes.

THE ARIES II carries 400 feet of sail. She is built along fairly narrow lines with about the same dimensions as the folk boats. Her beam is seven feet, two inches and she draws four and a half feet. The waterline is 22 feet 11 inches.

"What makes her so roomy," New explains, "is that she doesn't have any ends to speak of. All space is utilized. And yet Giles succeeded in designing a boat that does not look to be out of proportion."

The Vertue, he adds, performs well, being a very stable boat and relatively fast, capable of about six knots.

"WE HAVEN'T raced her yet," he says. "We bought her primarily for cruising. But we make take a fling at racing next year."

Accompanying New on his cruises aboard the Aries II are his wife, Mary, and usually their daughter, Sherry, 9.

In addition to the Aries II, painted white with varnished teak cabin and rail, white mast and light gray deck, there is a second Vertue in Marin, the property of Bob Mills at Clipper Yacht Harbor.

vacation cruise to Monterey. But in some future year, New would like to make a longer voyage, perhaps to Hawaii.

HE POINTS out that the Vertues have chalked up an impressive list of oceanic feats.

Perhaps the most famous such voyage occurred in 1950 when Humphrey Barton sailed Vertue No. 35 from England to the United States and then wrote a book entitled "Vertue 35" about his adventures that included encountering and surviving a hurricane and other bad weather.

Another Vertue was sailed from Hong Kong to England.

Dr. David Lewis in the Cardinal Vertue took third among six entries in a singlehanded race from England to the U.S.

ANOTHER Vertue, the Iceberg, was sailed from Ireland to the West Indies and back by Dr. J. I. Cunningham.

Commander H. E. Hamilton sailed a Vertue in 1948 from Scotland to Capetown singlehanded.

And now, if Bill New has sold you completely on the virtues of the Vertue, here's the bad news:

A NEW Vertue would cost its owner approximately $12,000—a hefty price tag, indeed, for a comparatively small sailboat.

But then, says New, few other boats in her size category can match the Vertue in performance and accommodations.

Capt. Robert Dollar— Marinite Remembered

Inside The Shrewd Business Executive Beat Lonely Heart Of A Humanitarian

(Editor's Note: This an another in a series of articles written for the Independent-Journal Marin Magazine by early-day San Rafael resident W. T. Ortman on life in Marin County at the turn of the century.)

By W. T. ORTMAN

I had not lived in San Rafael long at the turn of the century before I became aware of the name, Robert Dollar.

It was not, however, until 1905, upon my return from Ohio, that I first saw him and came to know him. And then our acquaintance was only slight.

Upon our return from a vacation in the East, my father moved his family into a new home in San Rafael's West End. It was, I believe, on Jessup Street. At least, I remember that 59 years ago, there were not many homes in the neighborhood.

SHORTLY AFTER we settled into our new home, I took to meandering around the West End. It was an area I already knew well, for I had delivered the San Rafael Independent there from 1902 to 1904. But I enjoyed the opportunity to renew my acquaintance with the area and its residents.

As I walked up G Street, I would observe a slender man perhaps six feet tall with white hair and a well-trimmed goatee beard. This was Capt. Robert Dollar.

I would see him in shirtsleeves, perhaps examining a rose bush. He had worked all his life in the outdoors, and so now was frequently in his yard, unable to stand the confinement of a house for long.

AS I WALKED by the front gate one day, he turned and looked at me. So I nodded my head and said, "Good morning."

He smiled in a friendly fashion and replied: "Good morning." Then looking at the sky, he added: "Nice day."

"Yes, it is," I replied. "Another San Rafael day." He smiled broadly and I continued on my way.

Twenty minutes later I returned en route home, and the captain was still in his yard.

"You're Captain Dollar, ain't you?" I blurted out with boyish impudence.

"RIGHT YOU are," he answered, smiling. "Did it take you 20 minutes to figure it out?"

"Nope, I knew you when I first looked at you. I just wanted to say something." And I hurried down the street.

That was 59 years ago, and I have never forgotten the incident.

Perhaps it was because I was to learn later that this show of friendliness by an important shipping magnate to an unimportant passing lad was typical of this fine man. He had a quality of sincerity that is found in all too few men. With him, it was a natural trait.

I SPOKE OF this incident once to Mrs. Rose Spellman, who was employed in the Dollar home for many years.

"Yes, Captain Dollar was that way," she observed. "He liked people, and it saddened him because he could not always be one of them because he was Robert Dollar."

And she recalled how on one occasion the Dollar grandchildren were permitted to host neighborhood children at a birthday party in the Dollar home.

The party table was set up in the laundry room. And Captain Dollar's own luncheon table was set in his own room, so that he would not be disturbed by the noise made by the tots.

But Robert Dollar could hear the fun below.

THE CAPTAIN resisted temptation and finished his meal—except for dessert—in the lonely confines of his room.

But then, he turned to Mrs. Spellman. "Do you suppose," he asked, "that they would allow a fellow over 10 to eat his ice cream with them?"

Mrs. Spellman assured him there would be no objections. And Captain Dollar joined the party.

I once spoke of Captain Dollar to his niece, Miss Jessica Proudfoot.

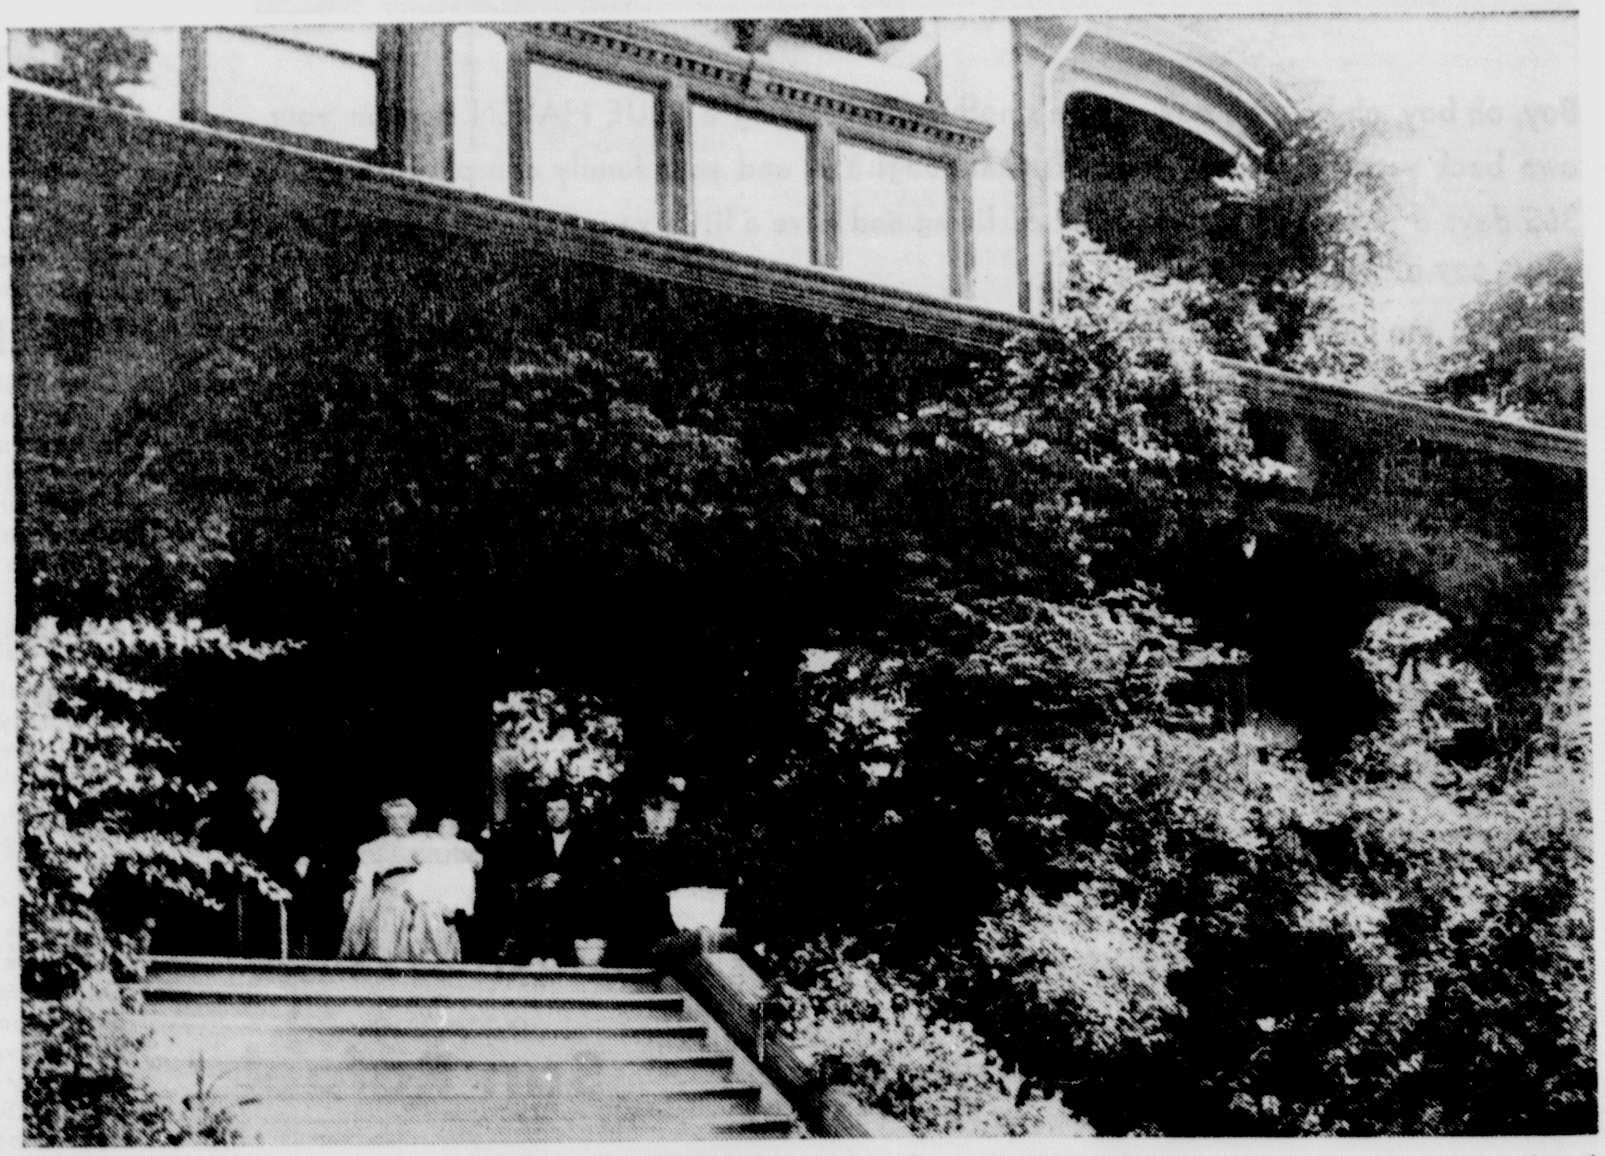
"CAPTAIN Dollar was a kind and honest man," stated Miss Jessica. "He could be stern and determined in business. But he was a compassionate man."

We spoke of his concern for the homeless and destitute, and particularly his humanitarian acts on behalf of the Chinese.

He was devoted to the Presbyterian Church, and frequently was seen carrying his Bible. Despite his wealth, he was an advocate of the plain and simple life. Only the spaciousness of his home was contrary to that precept. And he was famous all his years for his prodigious memory. It was said that he never forgot a fact or face.

Robert Dollar passed from this earth in the 88th year of his very active life in the quiet of his San Rafael home in 1932.

CAPT. ROBERT DOLLAR, wealthy shipping magnate and philanthropist, played a large and colorful role in San Rafael's early history. On this page, W. T. Ortman, who came to San Rafael as a boy at the turn of the century, recalls his first encounter with the bearded business genius and also relates the impressions of others who were close to the Dollar household.



DESPITE HIS WEALTH and prestige, Capt. Robert Dollar led a relatively simple life in Marin. The only outward indication of his status was the magnificence of his home, known as Falkirk. Here he was pictured with his family on the porch of that mansion, a Marin showplace that adjoined John F. Boyd's Maple Lawn on the west.

Our Nursery Schools And What They Do

Expert Reports On Trends In The Programs For Marin

By ELIZABETH SOUSA

When you are very young, your first caterpillars are all the more delightful because they are shared.

That's part of the fun for children who attend nursery school . . . new discoveries, interests, play, games, songs, dances, books and many other shared delights. But above all else, children at nursery school develop their ability to have more satisfying human relationships and consequently they acquire a more confident, creative individuality as well.

THOUSANDS OF Marin parents are sending their children to nursery schools, in some cases as early as three years before kindergarten.

However, programs for 2-year-olds are not set up in all schools. The customary age for preschools lies between 3 and 6.

The growing attendance at the more than 30 licensed preschools throughout the county is due in part to the deeper understanding parents are getting about the importance of play in early childhood development and the need all children of nursery age have for adult supervision of their play activities and their way of relating to one another.

THE INCREASED enrollment is also due to the fact that private citizens, volunteers, church and public officials, social workers, service organizations, educators, physicians and mental health teams are strongly behind the expansion of nursery school education in Marin County. This is not only because of what the schools offer children, but also because of the opportunities the schools provide parents in adult education and community service.

Prior to enrolling their children in nursery schools, some parents may think of the schools as merely places where youngsters can have play experiences with other children their own age. Others may regard nursery schools as a kind of superior baby-sitting service that allows busy mothers some free time for other duties or pleasures.

But they soon discover that the teachers are not baby-sitters, and that playrooms and playgrounds are far more protected areas with more varied or elaborate equipment than the average parents can provide at home.

THE TOYS and play equipment at nursery schools are selected because they usually have multiple uses . . . their purpose is to stimulate creative and social ways of playing so that each child can literally grow as he plays.

Nursery schools are essentially places of learning, where children are exposed, by their inter-action with one another and the teachers, to a multitude of development, emotional, intellectual and social experiences. In nursery school the special needs of the children can be seen in an essentially child-centered world and dealt with in a way that few other safe and sane places can match. It is not just a matter of scaling the chairs and tables to the size of the youngsters. Creatives play, socializing and structured activities are learning experiences. They involve the use of the mind, heart and spirit of the child in the most important part of his personal development . . . learning to cope in a child's world and enjoying it.

THE SHARING of delights that is so important a part of the nursery school program might even include the first close observations of a caterpillar. The youngsters exchange opinions and in so doing stimulate each other's curiosity. It is all part of the nursery school's role in creating more satisfying human relationships among the very young. (Photo by Elizabeth Sousa)

IN NURSERY school children are not usually told how to play . . . except for some minor explanations in the use of craft materials or specific instructions on safety if the craft involves tools. Neither are children told with whom to play.

The materials are set about in attractive, easy-to-reach places and the children are encouraged to select what they want. Observed by skilled nursery school teachers, the children's play often reveals important yearnings, new personal strivings, and an awareness of feelings in others.

From experience, teachers know that children usually broaden their own interests. But when the tots need stimulation from the teachers to discover new vistas, they get it.

Adult intervention at nursery school is based on the youngsters' need for adult help, reassurance or protection.

OBSERVATION discloses that children in their early nursery school days often prefer to play alone. Later, when friendships strengthen and the children mature, play projects become more stimulating learning experiences if shared with others.

Building blocks, for example, lend themselves to the erecting of many architectural shapes, from tunnels to towers. Firemen's hats, bridal veils, improvised costumes of all sorts activate still other imaginative games with friends. And, of course, there are the ever recurrent and sometimes complicated family scenes to play — "Now, you be the daddy and I'll be mommy and cook your dinner."

Sometimes, at nursery school, the children's play very closely resembles therapy . . . in the sense that they reenact in play whatever may be of some preoccupation to them. Though doctor and nurse games are played with thin disguises for body curiosities, other varieties of doctor, nurse and patient may be organized by the children to reduce their worries and play out their fantasies with toy thermometers, stethoscopes, candy pills and band-aids so that their next visit to their personal physicians will be more familiar by their "rehearsal" and less worrisome.

THOUGH IN nursery school the relationship of the children to one another is of prime importance, no child is ever made to feel he must share his imagination, his games, his toys . . . unless he wants to do so. It is a sound concept of child development that readiness to share comes with social growth. It is equally important to remember that some solitary play may be the only way a child can act on some special daydreams or can free himself of some inner anxieties. His wish to play alone is observed by the teachers, noted in his confidential file and evaluated along with the rest of his day at school. The teacher's trained eye will distinguish between healthy solitary play and isolationism due to social anxiety.

Put to heavy daily use, equipment in nursery school does get broken. Toys need repair or replacement. Private and cooperatively-owned schools may differ in the amount of responsibility parents, especially fathers, take in the repair and refurbishing of equipment.

The teaching staff has the major concern that there are enough tricycles, trucks, dolls, and paint pots so that sharing or waiting for turns is not the problem it could be for children.

IN SOME schools the tuition covers all expenses and the administrator simply reorders when supplies are needed. Other schools must operate on a lower tuition so that toys and other equipment may come from donations from service-minded groups, private citizens, or through fund raising events.

One sensitive teacher simply puts away "one of a kinds" until repairs or replacement can be made so the children will not have to cope with "too hard" a sharing job.

Teachers and schools differ on the importance they place on toys and equipment as the tools of their trade. When asked about her attitude, another laughed and offered that if nursery

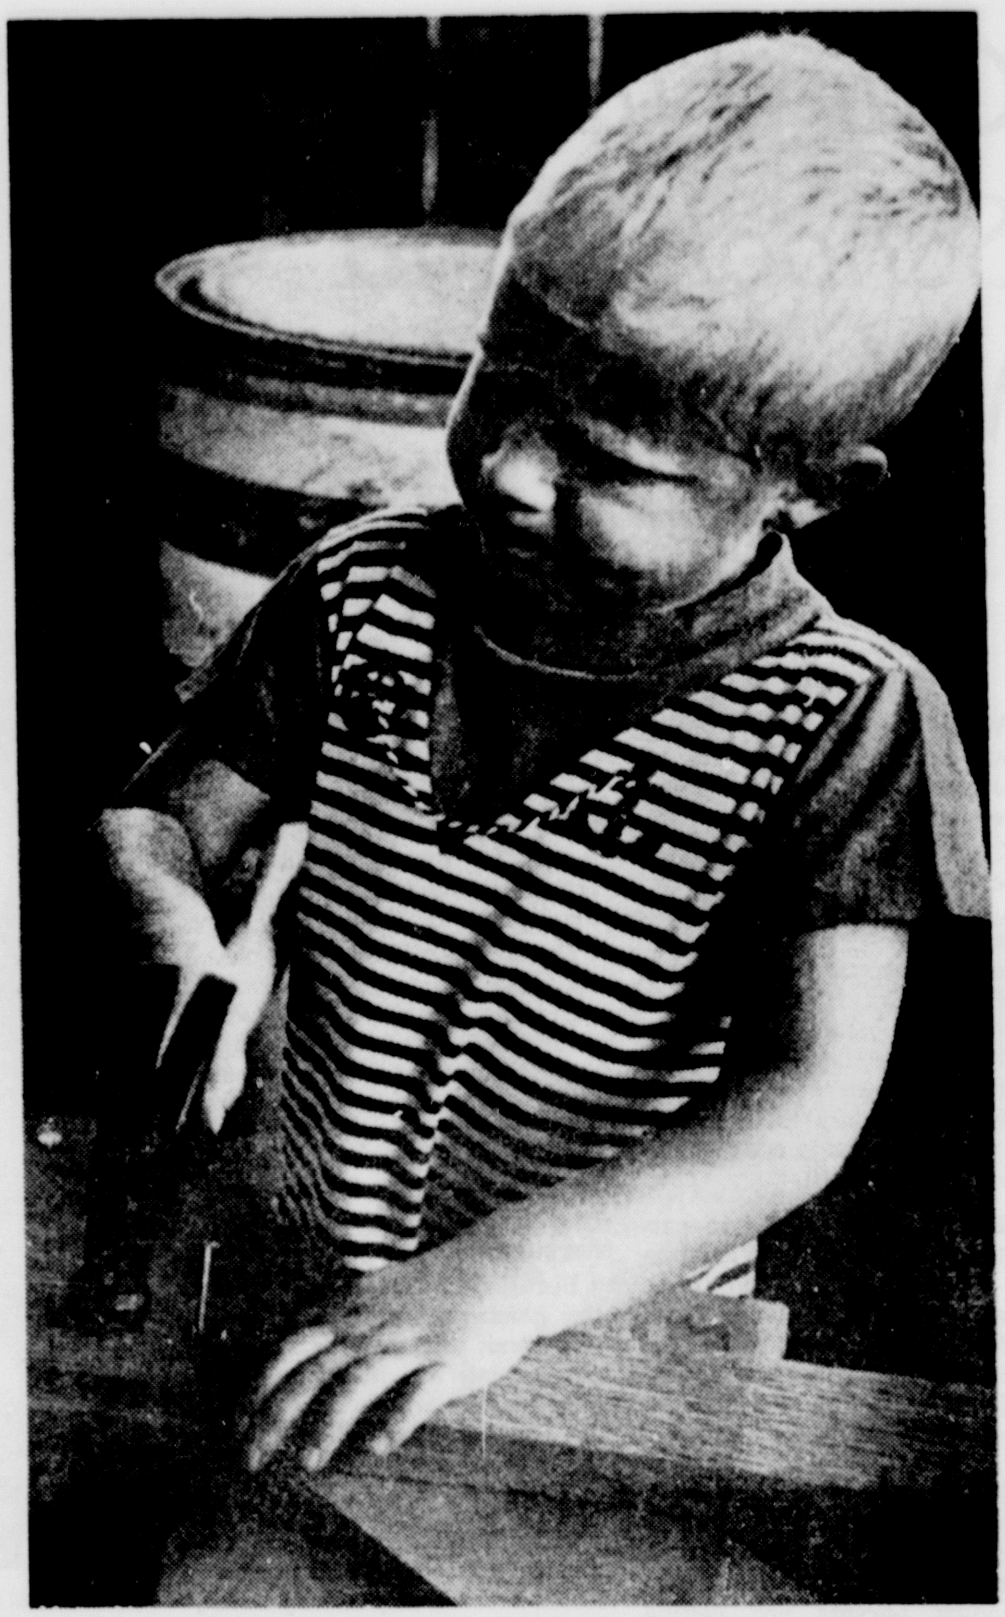
AUTHOR AND PHOTOG

ELIZABETH SOUSA, author of the article on these pages, is a psychiatric social worker with offices in San Mateo and Sausalito. A graduate of Catholic University, she has been on the faculties of the College of Notre Dame, the College of San Mateo, San Francisco State College and University of California education extension. Prior to entering private practice 10 years ago, she was employed by the San Mateo County Child Guidance Clinic and the San Mateo City Schools guidance department. This fall she will teach a professional course for teachers, "Parent-Teacher Conferences" at College of Marin as arranged by University of California extension. In addition to her own experience as a state licensed marriage, family and child counselor and consultant to teachers and parents of youngsters from pre-school through adolescence, she visited Marin's nursery schools and conferred extensively with nursery school teachers and other persons before preparing this special report for the Independent-Journal Marin Magazine on nursery school trends and preschool education in Marin County. Accompanying photos were taken by the author.



WHILE SHARING and group activity is an essential part of the nursery school program, the individuality of each youngster is respected. No child is told how to play. Imagination and creativity are encouraged. Solitary activity is often very important to the child.

What Does A Nursery School Offer?

school is of any value in developing the mental and social life of the child, equipment is of very temporary import since the child is continuously moving on to new interests.

OTHER TEACHERS would argue that through the materials and play equipment the perceptual, educational and social abilities of the children are bound to expand.

In most nursery schools there are many periods when more routine activities are programmed to balance the time spent in creative or free play. Like all humans, children run out of ideas of their own. And recognizing their charges' limited attention span, nursery schools plan their programs so that there is enrichment by adult-guided activities such as story-telling, singing, dancing, musical performance from adult guests or older youngsters in the public schools and direction in specific crafts or dramatic play. The teachers or parents also take the lead in planning some explorations of firehouses, stores, woods, beaches and harbors.

But here again, teachers differ on whether these excursions are special enrichments or whether they are just another way of emphasizing the child's social identification.

ROUTINES, such as a time for juice and snacks, toileting, going out in the yard, putting away toys (with the teacher's help if needed) are also a necessary part of school life.

Without any contradiction to freedom of self-expression, free-play or creativity, nursery schools have rules for children.

Any school worth its salt has very strict rules about physical safety. No hitting, pinching, biting, pushing is allowed.

This rule against physical violence may take some repeating. Some youngsters need to be stopped from throwing toys or from fighting more often than others do.

FIGHTS DO not get very far at nursery school and no child suffers from loss of self-esteem by being treated either as the "aggressor" or "victim." Both may need an equal amount of protection or comfort from the teacher-referee.

Because the emotions of preschool children are usually so close to the surface, no group of specialized teachers needs to be more actively alert than nursery school teachers.

Consequently, the teachers have to watch for rising tempers and get between children before arms and feet get tangled. At their worst, most nursery school hassles are limited to screams, tears, and a minimal, if any, loss in self-esteem. Nursery school teachers must be masters at limiting aggressive behavior without mutilating the emotional responses of the children with guilt feelings.

AT NURSERY school, children are quick to learn that rules not only protect rights and prevent pain, but are something to grow up to. Properly administered, rules at nursery school lead into the rudiments of ethics, fair-play and manners, child-gauged, of course. Teachers all over the county are making daily comments to children like this: "It's Jimmy's turn now;" or "There's a nicer way of asking Jane to give you more room."

Rules of conduct are intended to leave deeper lessons than surface politeness. By them children learn there is more to friendship than "fair weather" fun and games. They begin to care about the rights and feelings of others.

Besides the rules against physical attack, insults and name-calling are soon accepted by the children as likely to hurt feelings. With the teacher's help they learn to speak up for themselves without necessarily treading on the self-esteem of another child.

NOT ALL adults can take children's disrespect . . . or their open affection, for that

ABOVE ALL ELSE, the value that children receive from nursery school attendance is an ability to develop and enjoy more satisfying human relationships. There is a special joy in the sharing of fun and discovery.

For The Pre-Schooler

matter, lightly. But the breed that makes a skilled nursery school teacher seems to be high in warmth, tact, humor as well as professionally prepared to inter-act with the ways of thinking, feeling and behaving common to early childhood.

When a child demands an excessive amount of the teacher's time or emotions, it is a signal for her to examine what is going on.

Clarifications sometimes come from conferences with parents, and most schools have advisers like pediatricians, psychologists, psychiatrists and social workers they can eall upon for additional insight and a plan of action if needed.

THERE NEED not be a crisis for collaboration with other professions. Most nursery schools welcome visits from trainees and specialists in the other professions dealing with early childhood. All the professions dealing with children have borrowed heavily from one another and there is no better place to test theories of development and behavior than by this kind of laboratory use of nursery school.

There are other ways the community uses the nursery schools.

In one district, the school social worker visits the nursery school at the end of the year so that she can confer with the teachers about children going on to kindergarten and pass on what may be most helpful to their new teachers.

IN ANOTHER city, the nursery school teachers arrange for the mothers of the children graduating from nursery school to meet the kindergarten teachers the children will go on to.

Physicians, child therapists, social workers, friends and neighbors make constant referrals to nursery schools by encouraging parents who may not know how much there is to gain in easing tensions within the parent-child relationship through attendance at nursery school.

Nursery schools provide an atmosphere impossible to duplicate elsewhere.

There is supervision by teachers, or assisting mothers, who do not allow play to become so teasing or aggressive that it would lead the children to mistrust one another. Friendly feeling, affection and caring then develop.

THERE IS space for hard outdoor play, places for quiet games, time for socializing and time for independence and rest.

The sensitivity, skill and tact of the nursery school teachers prevent the inevitable frustrations children have when they play with one another from becoming overwhelming. Tensions, when they arise, are of short duration because the children are free to talk them out if they can. Free to express their angers (within limits) and disappointments, they are equally free to develop such positive attitudes as generosity and compassion, interest and protectiveness for others.

For Marin residents nursery schools come in sufficient variety to meet almost every need.

NEARNESS TO home might be a factor to consider.

Tuition may vary slightly from one private school to another, depending on the number of teachers on the staff, the enrollment and the number of days a given child may attend school.

Some private schools serve also as day-care centers for working parents, offering a full-day session.

In other private schools the children may attend two or three mornings or afternoons a week, and the tuition is prorated accordingly.

SOME cooperatively-owned schools may be staffed entirely by professional teachers and consequently have a higher tuition than cooperative schools that augment their professional staff with services from moth-

IN NURSERY SCHOOL, the children will learn to speak up for themselves and to defend their own rights — without hurting another child. Aggressive behavior is restricted without mutilating normal emotional responses. A respect for fair play and the rules develops.

NURSERY SCHOOLS can offer play equipment that is more elaborate than that available at home to the pre-schooler. And often it serves multiple purposes. (Photos by Elizabeth Sousa)

AS FRIENDSHIPS strengthen and the children mature, play projects at the nursery school become more stimulating, for now they can be shared with the imaginative play contributions of others.

There's Enough Variety To Meet The Needs Of Almost Every Child

ers and fathers that range from teaching, supervising, fund-raising and committee work to responsibility for the business end of the school's operation.

Some non-profit incorporated schools delegate the business as well as the professional operating of the school to the professional staff.

The parent - participation schools are cooperative schools jointly sponsored, by reason of their emphasis on adult education, by either the College of Marin or the San Rafael High School District. In these cooperatives, mothers must devote one-half day a week as an assistant to the professional staff. Enrolled in adult education courses, parents must attend one evening class a week to continue their studies of early childhood development. Fathers also take part in regular meetings aimed at increased understanding of their children.

DR. ELLSWORTH Briggs, dean of adult eduation, is justly proud of the three parent-participation schools paritally supported by special funds granted by the board of trustees of the Marin Junior College District.

Of the Larkspur-Corte Madera, Mill Valley and San Anselmo cooperatives, Dr. Briggs says: "I am convinced that they offer one of the finest vehicles for civic and citizen training as well as parent education."

Though parent education is stressed in cooperatives more than in private schools, all schools have parent-teacher conferences and some lecture and discussion meetings.

TWO OTHER cooperative schools require adult education courses for parents. The Terra Linda and the San Rafael schools, responsible to Dr. Burt Corona, district superintendent, are part of Principal Ralph Phelps' evening school.

The expense per family averages about $14 a month, including the tuition for the child at nursery school and the parents at evening classes. Supplemental state funds aid the program, but there is considerable responsibility on the parents to keep costs down by their work.

Mrs. Richard Galbreath of San Anselmo is the newly-elected president of the Marin County Council of Cooperative Nursery Schools, succeeding Mrs. Zvi Danenberg of Larkspur.

Parents of exceptional children—the partially seeing, blind, or those with hearing, motor or muscular limitations—find that their children are most welcome at the nursery schools of their choice. The only consideration is whether or not the child can get sufficient satisfaction from a regular nursery school program, even though he may not be able to participate in everything offered.

TWO MARIN nursery schools specialize in programs for mentally retarded children.

The Cedars, a private school, has both day-care and boarding facilities as well as a near-by ranch.

With interest stimulated by the Marin Aid To Retarded Children and other donations provided by sororities, fraternal groups, the Lions Club, and the Coca Cola Company, among others, the Marin County Board of Supervisors responded to the call for a public supported nursery school for mentally-retarded children by allocating special funds to Dr. Virgil Hollis, county superintendent of schools.

According to Daryl Hopkins, director of special education, the county-wide, tax-supported nursery school for mentally retarded children at Santa Venetia "is unique in the State of California." There is no cost to parents.

A SLIDING scale of two cents to 42 cents an hour is the fee charged at the nursery school at Marin City. The nursery school is part of a child-care center open to children throughout the county who have two working parents of moderate income, or an ill parent, a single parent, or parents who are going to school and unable to provide day care for their children.

The nursery is also open to children of persons in essential industries. The average fee for most parents at this school is 14 cents an hour. The remainder of the support comes from the State Department of Education.

Under the YWCA, both professionally trained and volunteer teachers are available in the form of weekly play groups at Marin City Lounge and the Boy Scout Building in San Rafael. Meetings for mothers are also offered.

PARENTS considering the organizing of a new cooperative school can direct their inquiries to Mrs. Marabel Beck, supervisor of the Licensing Unit for Day Nurseries of the State Department of Social Welfare, 1407 Market Street, San Francisco.

The only schools exempted from state licensing are those schools receiving similar regulation and guidance through the local office of the superintendent of schools or those sponsored by colleges or adult education programs. The state licensing unit has much to offer in consultation, program, staffing, bibliography and general know-how of getting started.

Waiting lists and increased interest may well point to the need for more nursery schools in Marin.

INCREASED enrollments, waiting lists, extra sessions will undoubtedly lead to enlarged nursery school buildings, staff additions and new schools. All this will point up the teacher shortage.

At this point nursery school teachers have no specific common ground of academic training. They come from majors in education, psychology, art, home economics, etc.

The state colleges and universities are in the process of establishing a curriculum for nursery school teachers, either in the department of education or psychology.

The North Bay Chapter of the Northern California Assn. for Nursery School Education, of which Mrs. Elizabeth Meredith of the Woodside Way Nursery School is the current chairman, has a committee working on educational standards for teachers.

MANY OF the most able nursery school teachers of Marin have had to secure their skills by extension courses, by consultations with other professions, and by in-service training experiences. Even with a Master of Science or Doctor of Philosophy degree, the special skills of nursery school teachers have essentially been augmented on the job and through courses in child development, child psychology, and arts and crafts.

We have many talented teachers. But we will need more.

Marin schools — private and public, parent-participation, nonprofit and church - sponsored alike — are preparing for new terms that will begin next month.

SOCIAL GROWTH is one of the major benefits experienced by the child who attends nursery school and learns to mingle with other children his or her own age. New and wholesome attitudes toward others develop, when joy meets joy, at left, or compassion meets pain, at right. The heart and spirit of the child are as much affected by nursery school experiences as the mind.

THE SKILLED nursery school teacher learns to cope with frustrations, left, or temper tantrums, right. Frustrations are inevitable in children's play, but it helps when they are free to talk them out. And an alert teacher can halt hitting and pushing and restore normal good tempers without humiliating the participants.

Stereo Hi-Fi

Hi-Fi Stereo Stores can be divided into three major categories. The specialized custom dealer gives the prospective buyer a great deal of very valuable guidance. He will be equipped to demonstrate component systems to help him decide on what to purchase. He can give his client personalized attention, and help him select the best possible combination of components for his budget. He can give all the necessary information for installing, or he can furnish a complete installation. The custom specialist will have an experienced service department to check out all of the units purchased to insure that they are performing properly and haven't been damaged or mis-aligned in shipment. The service department will be available for service calls to clients' home, as well as for shop service, to keep the music system performing at its best. The custom specialized dealer usually charges manufacturers recommended prices for the components, but he gives a great deal of guidance, demonstration, time and service.

The second category of Hi-Fi dealer is for those people who do not require as many services. These dealers are those that are the Hi-Fi section of the larger radio parts houses. Generally, they have some demonstration facilities and service department. They normally do not go out on house calls for estimates, and for installation, and for service. They will service your components if you bring them into their shop. Their prices on a complete package of non fair-traded items may be slightly less than that of the custom specialist described above.

The third category of Hi-Fi dealer is the discount house. Generally, this dealer sells sealed factory cartons with little or no demonstration facilities. He does not give any service. If the customer finds the equipment damaged or not in proper operating condition, the customer himself has to return the equipment to a factory authorized warranty station for necessary repairs or adjustments. A word of caution—if you require any guidance, demonstration, instruction on Hi-Fi, installation, etc., you have no business in a discount house. If you are an electronic expert and have all the necessary test equipment, knowledge, and experience to take care of your own problems, then the discount house can provide savings on non-fair-traded items. Remember, it is more than the actual price you pay for the components that counts.

Authors & Animals By Two 'Insiders'

By DON KEOWN

NOW, BARABBAS by William Jovanovich, Harper & Row, 228 pages, $5.

MY LIFE WITH ANIMALS by Carey Baldwin, Lane Bock Co., 255 pages, $4.95.

The reviewer, very understandably, regards and analyzes a book primarily from the standpoint of the reader.

Very likely, however, he will give some thought to the intentions and the interests of the author.

But there is still a third principal involved — the publisher (with his staff of editors). His participation is, very often, ignored or minimized because he is usually the "silent partner."

We won't be so inclined to do this in the future after reading William Jovanovich's "Now, Barabbas."

Jovanovich became the president of Harcourt, Brace and World Inc. at 34, and remains one of the bright figures of the publishing world.

In "Now, Barabbas," he has written a series of loosely connected essays on publishing, the relationship of the publisher to author and reader, and related subjects. In so doing, he provides us with much food for thought.

Jovanovich has some strong and individualistic opinions on the weaknesses of our textbooks, the tendency of today's publishers and editors to allow too many bad books to get into print, the decline of candor in the American press, the oft-heard criticism of sex in literature, the popular contention that the writer has been victimized by the machine age, the mood of the American author, the need for publishers to resist the current tendency to condemn and censor material presumed offensive to some one, a call for federal government action in connection with foundations and publishers in publishing the nation's great traditional literature.

Jovanovich makes a special plea for a pet project—"a thoroughly contemporary encyclopedia to which today's scholars and specialists would contribute under the editorial counsel that they write fully and freely with attention not only to accuracy and comprehensiveness but also to readable style."

A change of pace are the two chapters Jovanovich devotes to his relationship with Yugoslavia's Milovan Djilas, and its tragic consequences.

The tone of the book is urbane and the plane intelligent. It reveals a lot about the publishing of books. And it peers well beyond that profession to offer some provocative opinions on more general facets of our culture and society.

CAREY BALDWIN, the director of San Francisco's Fleishhacker Zoological Gardens, has produced an amusing little book in his "My Life With Animals."

No work of any great depth or import is intended here. It is simply a collection of anecdotes taken from Baldwin's 40 years of experience with zoo animals in a career that began at the Hearst Ranch Zoo at San Simeon and continued at San Diego and Portland zoos before he came to San Francisco.

Baldwin obviously likes and, more important, understands animals — from Slobbers, the cantankerous camel, to Pokey, the escape-prone bear. He thoroughly enjoys their antics. And he has a sense of humor that permits him to laugh at himself when his four-footed or winged charges turn the tables on him.

The book offers the reader a great deal of enjoyment, plus some interesting little-known facts about the animal world.

JOHN X. Laughran's "Formula For Genius" (Devin-Adair, $3.95) is a strange mishmash of dietary advice, mental disciplines and something called "teleology" that the author says will up the Intelligence Quotient of the practitioner.

At the start Loughran makes the point that you have to be well physically in order to think well. That we could follow and accept.

But the rest of his so-called "formula" left us bewildered and bothered by the distinct possibility that we just didn't have sufficient I.Q. at the outset to understand what it was all about.

Anyone for teleology?

WHO WAS America's first glamor girl? According to Paul Lewis, she was Adah Isaacs Menken. Lewis has written a biography of that exotic woman of the mid-1800s entitled "Queen of the Plaza" that will be published by Funk & Wagnalls on Sept. 21.

WILD LIVES OF AFRICA by Juliette Huxley, Harper and Row, $5.95, 254 pages. Reviewed by Ellen Dietschy.

Lady Huxley, wife of Sir Julian Huxley, kept a wonderfully descriptive diary of her 13-week visit to Africa while she accompanied her husband on his survey of African wildlife reserves for UNESCO in 1960.

Her journey is chronicled in "Wild Lives of Africa" and it contains many excellent photographs taken in game reserves they visited in Southern, Central and Eastern Africa.

She makes an eloquent plea for greater efforts to conserve what is left of the natural wildlife habitats in Africa.

"Unbelievable as it may seem," she wrote, "90 per cent of the large animals of Africa have succumbed to the pressure of man during the present century, some species disappearing altogether.

"It is time to take stock of the situation: 10 per cent of an irreplaceable order of certain remains in a diminishing habitat, shrunk by the constant devouring expansion of man and his works."

Portrait Of A State

NEW MEXICO by Erna Fergusson, revised edition, Alfred A. Knopf, 408 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Frank Farrara.

With a warm feeling for the land and its people, the author reveals the heart of the state from prehistoric time to the present atomic era at Los Alamos.

There is a depth and compassion beyond chamber of commerce ballyhoo or travel ads as she relates the natural appeal of the landscape.

Although the work is laden with historical facts, they are not presented in a stodgy manner, but in an immensely readable fashion with anecdotes and character portraits bringing the history to life.

The author divides her work into the history of three peoples; the Indians, the Spanish and the "Gringo," with the latter getting a little bit the worst of it in the telling.

If there is any bias peeking through in this reportorial account, it is in favor of the Indians and Spanish settlers with laments about the conduct of the U. S. in the state, especially in the early days. Particularly, she points to the treatment of the Indians and the shunting aside or commercializing of Spanish traditions and arts.

The author's look at her native state is informative, complete, and above all, thought provoking.

Aerial Tactics

FULL CIRCLE by Group Capt. J. E. Johnson, Ballantine Books, paperback, 283 pages, 75 cents. Reviewed by Jeff Greer.

The Allies' most successful World War Two fighter ace (38 confirmed victories) reviews fighter plane tactics from World War I days when reconnaissance pilots put aside their cameras to shoot at each other with pistols, to Korean War clashes between MIG's and Sabrejets armed with Sidewinder missiles.

We learn mainly about British and German top aces, with a smattering of American and Russian, and bare mention of French and Italian airmen. With typical British modesty, our author makes almost no mention of how he did it.

Johnson feels that air fighter strategy has come full circle from the first solitary clashes, through the sky-full-of-planes days of World War II, back to battles between, at most, groups of four jets on each side, employing the simplest old tactics rather than spectacular aerobatics.

Good reading for flier or groundsman alike.

ADVENTURE LIT THEIR STAR by Kenneth Allsop, Crown, 222 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Lee Cadwallader.

Although Kenneth Allsop is only an amateur ornithologist, one would believe, after reading this unusual novel, that ornithology is his first love.

"Adventure Lit Their Star" won't convert you to birdwatching if you have no background for it. But if you are already interested this well-written story of the struggles of a ringed plover and his mate to establish themselves in a new environment on the outskirts of a large industrial city in England should prove fascinating.

VENDETTA FOR THE SAINT by Leslie Charteris, Crime Club, 208 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

The Saint has returned to the mystery novel field, and isn't it wonderful?

That outrageous rogue, Simon Templar, the Robin Hood of the 20th century, takes on the dreaded Mafia on its home grounds in "Vendetta For the Saint." And you can just bet who comes out on top.

There's a minimum of mystery, but a maximum of action and excitement. And the suave Saint is as fascinating as ever with his modern-day derring-do. The Italian locale provides an appropriate setting for his fearless flaunting of death and danger.

This is the first full-length Simon Templar adventure in some 20 years. Thanks for this one, Mr. Charteris, and please don't make us wait so long for the next one.

A PUZZLE IN POISON by Anthony Berkeley, Doubleday & Co., paperback, 229 pages, 95 cents. Reviewed by F. G. Davis.

When John Waterhouse died a rather agonizing death in the little English town of Anneypenny even his own doctor did not guess it was murder. Who would want to kill the popular retired engineer who seemed admired by all the community?

Just as his grieving invalid wife and friends are about to lay the body to rest, Cyril Waterhouse, sinister and suspicious brother, arrives in time to prevent the burial from taking place. An autopsy is performed and the body is found loaded with arsenic.

Mystery readers who love a real puzzler will enjoy this book. Just before the last chapter, when all is explained, the author breaks into the story to say that at this point all the evidence has been put before the reader, and it is now possible to puzzle out the solution just as Waterhouse's good neighbor, Douglas Sewell, proceeds to do.

The reader is given a list of four questions to ask himself in an effort to solve the mystery.

"A Puzzle in Poison" was originally published in 1938. The new pocketbook edition seems only slightly dated with a few pre-World War II references.

SHOOT TO KILL by Brett Halliday, Dodd, Mead and Co., 183 pages, $3.50. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Michael Shayne's 49th case is pretty much like the 48 that have preceded it.

Once again the redheaded private eye sasses and shows up the stupid police, consumes a lot of liquor and dallies with sexy women as he unravels a murder mystery. Mike and reporter pal Tim Rourke seek the identity of the killer of an unpopular syndicated gossip columnist. There's a twist at the conclusion, but it's not entirely new, and so may not fool you.

But one thing about these Shayne yarns—although the pace is fast, physical violence is virtually naught in contrast to the Mickey Spillane-Mike Hammer kind of sadism.

THE SAINT, that modern-day Robin Hood, takes on the Mafia on its home grounds in Italy, in "Vendetta for the Saint," the first full-length Simon Templar adventure to be written by author Leslie Charteris, at left, in 20 years. More recent Saint books have been collections of short stories. The new Doubleday Crime Club book is reviewed on this page. The Charteris-created character, incidentally, is also the hero of a popular television adventure series that can be seen Friday evenings on KTVU-TV (Channel 2)

On The Stereo Scene

By JOHN SUNIER
Program Manager, KBRG

APPALACHIAN SWING! The Kentucky Colonels — World Pacific Stereo 1821:

This is modern-day Bluegrass music, as performed by five young and rarin'-to-go young men who are a credit to the long traditions of this aspect of folk music. Instrumentation includes mandolin, guitar, banjo, dobro, violin and bass.

No vocals, thank heaven.

ADVENTURES FOR 12-STRING, 6-STRING AND BANJO—Dick Rosmini — Elektra Stereo EKS-7245:

The 12-string guitar is the newest craze in the folk music field. It is simply a standard guitar with double strings, which cause each note to be struck twice, not quite simultaneously—resulting in a peculiar harpsichord sound.

Rosmini is quite a virtuoso on not only the 12-string but also the six-string and banjo. The range of expressiveness he gets out of these instruments is almost startling, and most of all it really swings in the best jazz sense.

RUSSIAN POPULAR HITS, VOLUME 4—Monitor MP 593:

The very first volume in this series is the one that introduced the authentic version of "Moscow Nights" to American listeners.

These dozen songs feature a variety of performers whose single musical style is about 30 years behind the times, by American standards of popular music. If the frequent application of schmaltz can be overlooked, some of the tunes are very attractive and catchy in their wholesome Soviet way.

JOHN LEE HOOKER—Galaxy Stereo 8201:

Blues from the deep South are this performer's stock-in-trade. His rather limited voice does not hinder his reaching his audiences with the high emotional level of his story.

One must listen closely to these blues, they are not for background music. If you do pay attention, you'll find yourself completely involved in the honest and straightforward approach of the blues in the hands of such a performer.

The dozen tracks are all John Lee Hooker originals.

Varnish Still Has Its Place Among Finish Materials

The years bring more and more specialized finishing materials for wooden surfaces, but varnish continues to rank high on the list of transparent coverings.

Its traditional beauty and durability have been enhanced by modern methods of manufacture.

AS WITH all clear finishes, varnish is the subject of some slight differences of opinion, even among professionals, on the proper manner of application.

But there is no argument on one po'nt: The big enemy of varn'sh is dust. Not after it has has hardened, but before and during the applying and drying stages. It is imperative not only that every bit of dust be removed from the surface to be covered, but that the project be undertaken only in a reasonably dust-free room.

Don't varnish in any room or place where any one will be walking until the final coat has thoroughly dried. And if you work in a place which has a concrete floor, such as a basement or garage, wet down the floor completely to prevent dust from arising.

GENERALLY, it is recommended that dust be removed from the wood prior to varnishing with a clean, lintless rag dampened with turpentine. An even better way is to use a vacuum cleaner or one of its attachments.

Remember that varn'sh, like any clear finish, will darken the wood slightly.

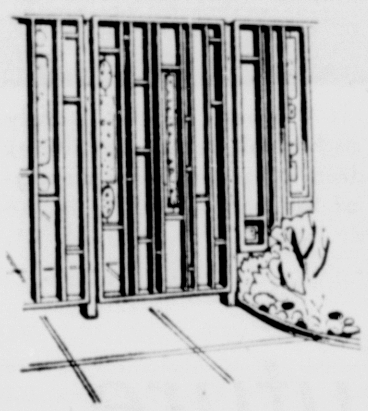
The varnish'ng should be done in a room or area where the temperature is at least 70 degrees Fahrenheit.

DON'T SHAKE or stir the varn'sh, as this will cause bubbles that will show up when the finish is applied.

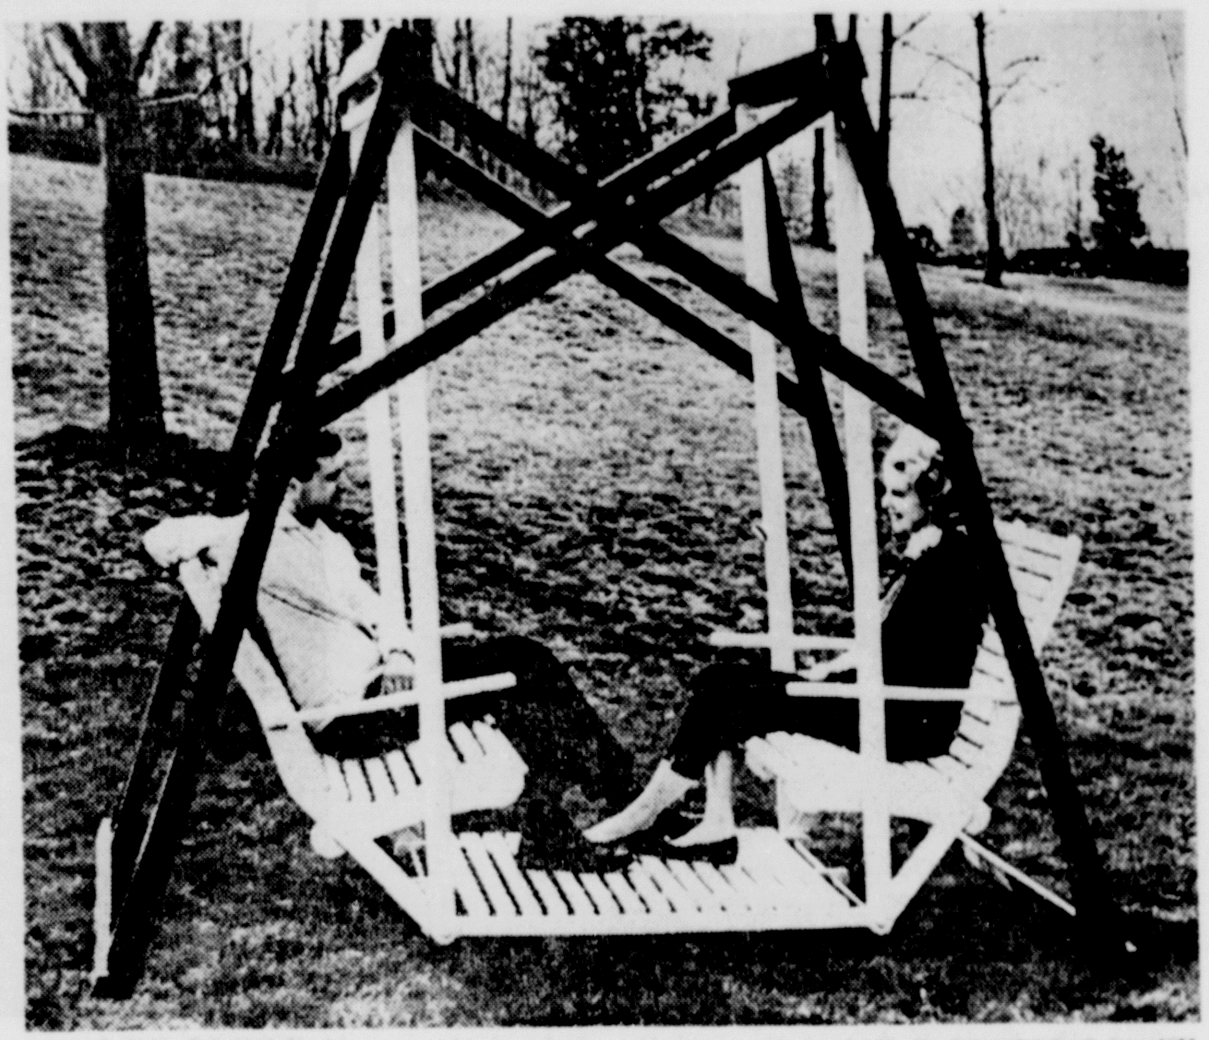
Use flowing brush strokes in the direction of the grain, then cross-stroke against the grain. Finish off by "tipping," which consists of stroking lightly with the tips of the bristles. For this third stroking, the brush should be almost dry.

Glossy varnishes give the toughest surface. Professionals often use the glossy-type varnish, then rub it down to a smooth satin finish. It is possible to buy varnish which gives a rubbed effect without rubbing.

Two or three coats are necessary, sanding lightly between coats and allowing at least 16 hours for each coat to dry before the sanding.



BE imaginative when building a divider wall between the adults' patio and the children's play yard. This charming peek-a-boo screen uses western red cedar two-by-sixes and one-by-sixes, edge-out in a random pattern. You can hang colorful plastic pieces within the framework or mount sand casting, shell mosaics or other hobby products.



THE WOODEN lawn glider is seldom seen today, and seems to be a piece of outdoor furniture that belongs to yesteryear. Yet for the imaginative, it can add a touch of charm—and comfort—to the yard or garden. An Easi-Bild pattern is available for 75 cents. Just send the money to Independent-Journal, P. O. Box 215, Briarcliff Manor, N.Y., and ask for Lawn Glider Pattern No. 155. The glider measures nearly eight feet in length, seven feet in height, with a rugged frame. Directions are complete to even the position of screw and bolt holes.

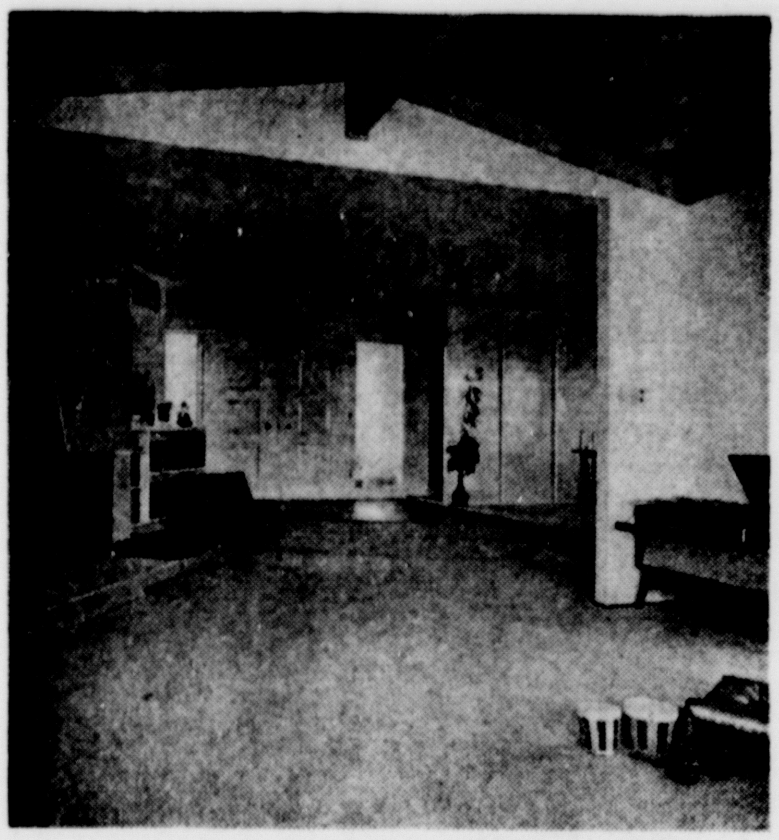
Marin Living



DOUBLE FRONT DOORS into uncluttered natural elegance set the theme of this storybook home. A polished stone entrance way introduces the household area and through into the wall-to-wall carpeted, sunken living room. Natural hearthstones from an elevated fireside seat lead to the natural beauty of the open beamed ceiling. The home is that of Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Paschal on Ridgewood Drive. Builder Alan Kay of San Rafael feels that the luxurious and spacious atmosphere in this showplace home is partly due to the number of finished built-in features as well as the extravagant use of glass within the living areas.

A VIEW TO THE future of Marin, through luxurious plate glass windows, is contemplated by Becky Paschal, enjoying her new Kay Construction Co.-built home on Ridgewood Drive, San Rafael. Marin Civic Center, which is framed in the stately wall-to-ceiling cathedral beams, provides a climactic landmark for the ever changing panorama of the county. Becky is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Paschal.

A View Of Marin's Future

Ridgewood Drive in San Rafael rises high above Sun Valley on the west.

On the east, it presents a panoramic view of the rapidly developing vista that is central Marin. This includes the new Civic Center with the Bay beyond, and the hills that define Northgate and Terra Linda.

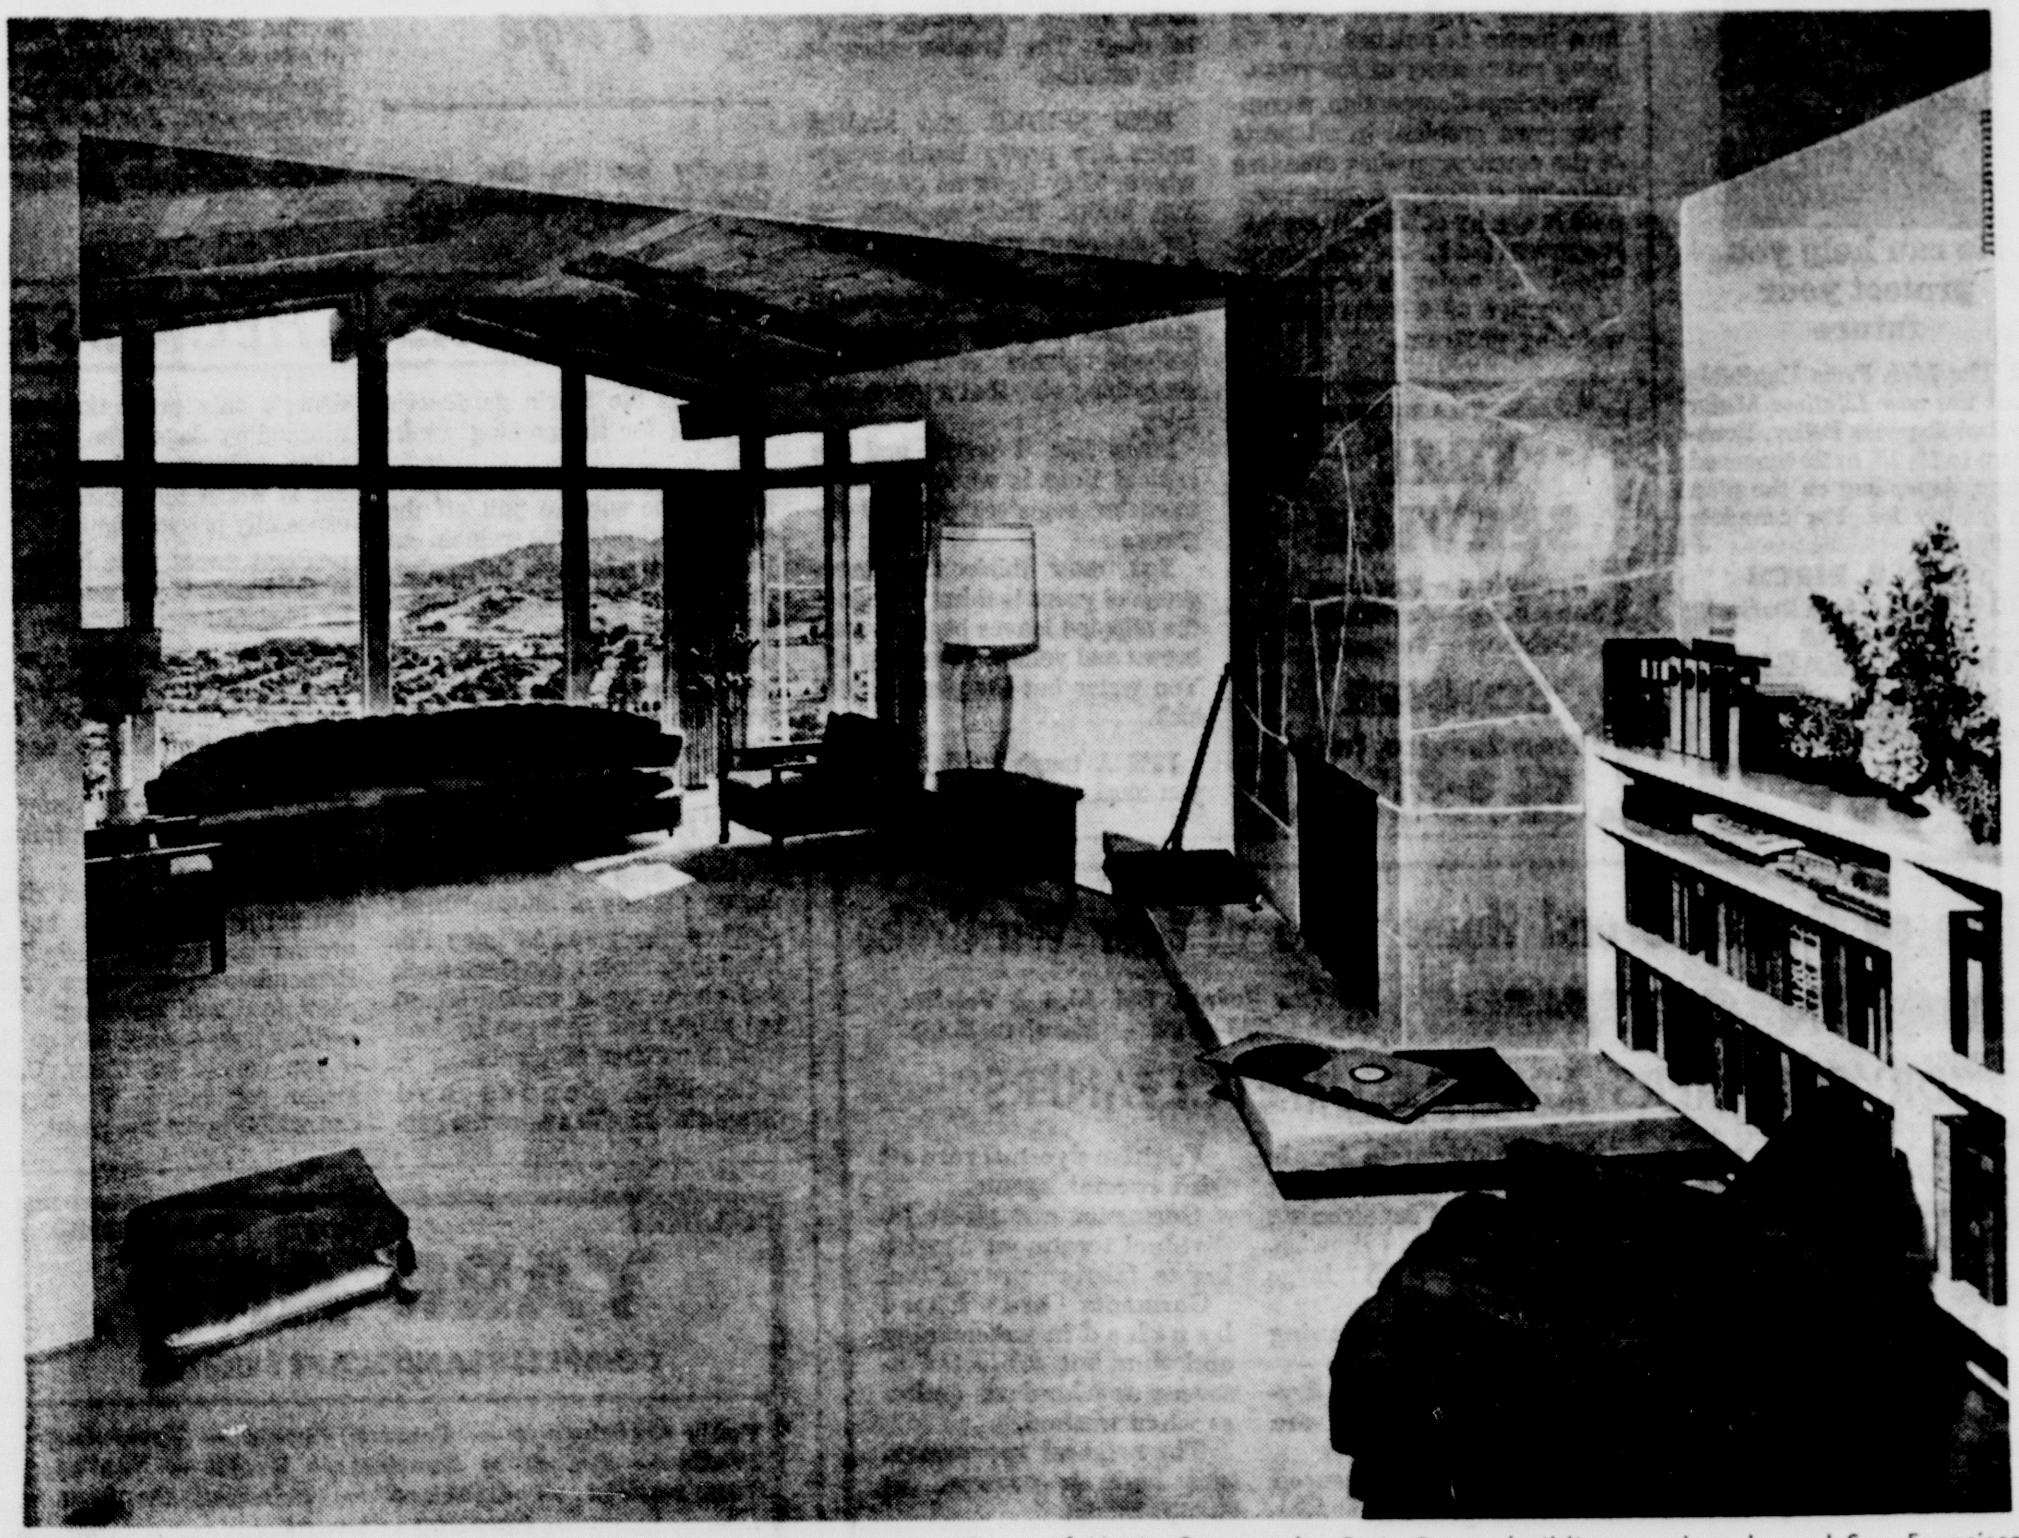
Seated in this exalted grandstand, the entire development of this area will unfold before you; the second stage of Frank Lloyd Wright's planning will come into being; a new fairgrounds will form; the steady climb of homes will continue across the valley and into the surrounding hills.

On the east of Ridgewood Drive is the new home of Richard Paschal and family, built for them by Kay Construction Co. This is a two-level, four-bedroom home with just the upper level pictured on these pages.

This is a home with a view to Marin's future.

BECKY PASCHAL ENJOYS the serenity and spaciousness while working at her desk. The entrance way, with polished stone flooring, leads to the elegant sunken living room and past the formal dining area to the brick hearths of the kitchen. Muted glass surrounding the front door admits light while allowing privacy within. This forward thinking home was built by Kay for the Paschal family to reflect the progressive-traditional mood of growing Marin. (Photos by Ken Molino)

THE BAR AND DINING areas of the Richard Paschal home are conveniently accessible to the spacious deck. For easy care, and in keeping with the theme of the home, composition floor covering in terazzo pattern is serviceable and a warm setting for the white wrought iron dining set. For outside dining, the Paschals use a rattan tub-table and stools. Becky Paschal and her pet enjoy the roomy feeling of the informal dining area and an atmosphere created by the interesting use of natural brick, redwood, iron and glass. The picture-book view is complimented by this Kay-built home, with its elegance yet naturalness.



OPEN-BEAMED WOODEN ceilings compliment the interesting grain of warm hearthstones. The elevated fireside area, built-in book cases and cathedral windows are features of this San Rafael home. A majestic view of Marin County, the Civic Center buildings and park, and San Francisco Bay complete the atmosphere of natural elegance in this home on Ridgewood Drive. (Photos by Ken Molino)

A Program For Your Lawn Care

The matchless beauty of a well-groomed lawn is worth extra effort on the gardener's part, for nothing adds more to his garden enjoyment.

It's a sad truth, however, that many lawns go begging for lack of care.

Here is a recommended program to take your lawn through the rugged late summer and early autumn days.

Mowing: Summer heat is hard on lawns, even in Marin. Raise the cutting blades on your mower to cut 2 inches high — the longer grass helps shade itself.

Feeding: Light monthly feeding with a reliable liquid plant food has been found to benefit lawns more than the once-standard procedure of two big feedings a year—one in spring, the other in fall. Summer feedings are particularly important—because watering and high temperatures use nitrogen at a fast clip.

Weed Control: Dandelions and other broad-leaf weeds will always be a problem. However, a lawn spray program which includes a good broad-leaf weed killer can be a simplified way of eliminating this gardening headache.

Pest and Disease Control: Fungus diseases that cause lawns to "fade out" or "melt out" can be one of the lawn's biggest problems. The best practice is to stop them before they show up. Repeat the treatment recommended for early spring, using a lawn disease control product. Spray, repeat in 10 days, then again 30 days later. If lawn pests such as ants are troubling you, use an effective insecticide in your lawn spray program. A good way to spot these insects at work is to watch for your lawn grass to turn brown in patches . . . it's being eaten away at the roots.

Watering: Compaction, a common lawn problem in all parts of the country, makes effective watering difficult. Aerate compact lawns by spiking or coring. Remember, an infrequent "flood" of water is not nearly as effective as a well-regulated watering program.

Watch For Those Pesky Mites

There could be 30 trillion red spider mites in your backyard and you'd never see one.

But you would see their damage. Your evergreens turn a sickly yellow and foliage begins to drop. The trouble spreads like wildfire.

RED SPIDER and kindred mites are pretty much everywhere. They know no geographical limits. Their appetite, as far as plant materials, is unbounded.

Evergreens are their special meat but they go for annuals, bulbous plants and literally everything else that's green and juicy.

Mites like it warm and the critical time is when the thermometer registers over 80 degrees.

You may think that evergreen of yours is thirsty because the stippled leaves begin to turn brown and yellow, then drop off. You water but the plant is still sick.

IT'S A tough battle, because you need a magnifying glass to actually see the tiny, sometimes almost transparent, mites work on the underside of the leaves. They're "wee" but "woe" as they suck out vital plant juices.

A thorough over-under-and-around spray program with a proven chemical ally can give you a welcome solution to your mite problem. For best results, repeat sprays every seven to 14 days during the growing season.

GARDENERS CHECKLIST

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- As your fuchsias drop their blooms, be sure to pull off the small seedpods that remain on the tip of the branch. Otherwise, they rob your plant of badly-needed strength.
- Be on the alert for spider mite infestations of your evergreens. Webs are the tell-tale evidence. Your nurseryman will recommend a spray.
- A regular garden watering schedule is best—with this exception: Step up your activity during periods of unusual heat.
- When the petunias have finished their bloom, cut them back and encourage a second bloom in the late fall. This can be done with a number of plants.
- Repellants, fences and thoughtful neighbors are the gardener's only protection against marauding dogs. The first provides only partial protection, but is worth the investment for especially-prized plants.
- Plant sweet peas before end of the month if you want blooms by Christmas.
- Get an early start on the chrysanthemum season by setting out blooming plants from the nursery available now in containers.
- Many vegetables may be planted this month for fall-winter harvest.
- Feeder roots of most shrubs are not near the trunk but out around the so called "drip line." Remember this when using plant food and watering.
- Clay pots dry out less quickly if you double pot them. Use a larger pot outside the smaller one which holds the plant.

"DRYCLEANERS ARE ALSO WETCLEANERS"

Drycleaners aren't completely dry. In order to provide complete professional care for your wardrobe many drycleaners have a wetcleaning service.

Usually wetcleaning isn't necessary, but some things are wetcleaned when they contain heavy deposits of moisture borne soil such as perspiration, beverages, fruit juices, or fabrics that contain deeply embedded soil that cannot be removed in drycleaning or local spotting. Likewise, garments with large stained areas.

Garments are measured before wetcleaning.

Fugitive dyestuffs are set with special agents.

Garments are given individual treatment according to fabric construction.

Garments are hand brushed in wetcleaning and thus not subjected to severe mechanical action as when washed.

The original appearance and body is restored in the pressing.

IT'S convention time again on television next week, with all three networks assigning their top newsmen to "anchor" roles in their coverage of the Democratic National Convention in Atlantic City, N.J. For the American Broadcasting Co. (KGO-TV), it will be Howard K. Smith and Edward P. Morgan, shown at upper left. Key men for the National Broadcasting Co. (KRON)-TV once again will be Chet Huntley and David Brinkley, seen above in action at the Republican National Convention in San Francisco where they easily outdistanced the rival networks in the competition for the TV audience. The Columbia Broadcasting System (KPIX-TV) is fielding a new anchor team of Roger Mudd and Robert Trout, shown at left. All three networks will field an army of reporters and technicians to back up their aces.
